NEW CRISIS PERILS TRUCE TALKS

GOP Senators Demand Free Korea

Charge Reds In State Dept. Affect Policy

Acheson's Asiatic Course Criticized

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Eight Republican senators called on the Truman administration tonight to demand "liberation and unification" of Korea as the price for peace in that country.

In a blistering attack on the administeration's foreign policies, the eight senators accused President Truman of "doing nothing" to help Congress rid the State Department of "Communist infiltration." They said such Red influences have affected Far Eastern policies of the United States government.

The loss of China to the Communists was due, they declared, to the Yalta agreement and administration "appeasement" of Reds.

Reporting their views on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Pacific commander, the GOP members of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees called Secretary of State Acheson's Asiatic policies a "catastrophic failure."

The eight are Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, Wiley of Wilconsin H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Knowland of California, Cain of Washington, Brewster of Maine and Flanders of Vermont.

Without directy endorsing MacArthur's proposals for bombing Manchuria, blockading Red China and using Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa, the Senators said that "any peace short of the liberation nad unification of Korea is a delusion." MacArthur made his proposals long before truce negotiations began at Kaesong.

Sen. Cain (R-Wash), who had a hand in drafting the report, told newsmen that in demanding liberation of all Korea, the Republicans were talking about a permanent peace settlement. He said that while a cease-fire might be reached on terms short of Communist evacuation of all Korea, he believes any final peace that does not unify the country will be unsatisfactory.

The eight Republicans laid stress on unification.

"If a truce is negotiated, based upon the restoration of the status quo at the 38th parallel, the Communists will remain in control of the northern half of the country and the objectives of the United Nations will not have been fulfilled," their report said, continuing:

"Any settlement at the 38th parallel is a Chinese Communist victory x x x Gen. MacArthur had driven the North Koreans to the Yalu (boundary between Korea and Manchuria) and had victory within his grasp when this new and formidable enemy entered the field. To make a settlement south of the Yalu therefore is to admit the success of the Chinese aggressors."

Attached to the views of the eight were letters by Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) supporting a few of the GOP contentions.

U. S. Production Swells To Record $326 Billion Year

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — The country's total output of goods and services swelled to a record $326,000,000,000-a-year volume in the second quarter of this year, the Commerce Department reported today.

This reflected a nearly 20 per cent increase in overall output in the first 12 months of the Korean war —as measur d in dollar volume. But the figures were inflated somewhat by higher prices, making the speed-up seem greater than it actually was.

The rate of gain was slackening, too, for the April-May-June quarter produced only $7,000,000,000 of the $51,000,000,000 annual rate rise which occurred in the entire 12 months following the outbreak of the Korean war.

Foes Of Aid Bill Cut Face Uphill Battle In Senate

Committees Take Up Big Measure Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Administration backers will renew an uphill struggle tomorrow to stave off a big slash in the Truman $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill.

The House has already sliced $1,001,000,000 off the big bill, designed to erect economic and military defenses against Communism in Europe and elsewhere. In the Senate some members of both parties are talking of a total reduction of possibly $2,000,000,000.

Sen. Connally (D-Tex) will convene the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees in joint session tomorrow to start going over the bill and revising it for presentation to the Senate.

Special target of those who hope to wield the pruning knife is the economic aid section of the bill, amounting to $2,200,000,000. They argue that Europe is on the road to economic recovery, with the aid of Marshall Plan billions, and that the U. S. taxpayer can't stand any more huge grants. The administration contends that continued economic aid is as important as guns in erecting barriers against Communism.

While the big foreign aid bill is under committee consideration, the Senate Finance Committee will meet tomorrow to try to speed action on the administration's request for greatly increased taxes.

No one was predicting, however, that the President would get the $10,000,000,000 he asked. The House voted $7,200,000,000 and many senators are talking of a still smaller sum.

Youth Marooned On Texas Peak

EI PASO, Tex., Aug. 19 (AP) — A college sophomore, fascinated most of his life by 8,751-foot Guadalupe Peak, was marooned on that mountain tonight without food or water—one of his legs painfully punctured by cactus spines.

He is John Eoff, 19, son of a Ballinger, Tex., dentist and a student at Abilene Christian College.

A companion, Jim Erwin, also 19, said Eoff fell to an almost inaccessible ledge.

Eddy County (N.M.) Deputy Sheriff Ed Price estimated late this afternoon that rescuers could not reach the youth until about midnight.

Eoff slipped and fell into the cactus about 6:30 a. m. (CST) today. He had nothing to eat or drink with him. The fall was at about the 8,000-foot level.

Erwin said the cactus spines punctured the ligament of a leg and Eoff was unable to move.

Disabled Vet Gets Draft Orders

Totally disabled, Robert A. Nordin manages to smile while examining his orders to report for a draft pre-induction examination at South Bend, Ind. The World War II veteran, who has spent more than four years in bed, figures the skeptical draft board which placed him in 1-A in June when he failed to appear will soon change its mind. He is suffering from tuberculosis of the spine, left hip and left leg.

Acheson Blasts 12 Accusations By Calif. Official

Secretary Replies To Knight's Charges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson has denounced as "either entirely incorrect or distortions of the truth" 12 accusations made against him by Lt. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California.

The criticisms range from his handling of Formosa policy through State Department security questions to the Alger Hiss case.

They were formulated by Knight, a Republican, after he had been challenged by John B. Elliott, Los Angeles civic leader and a Democrat to back up criticisms of Acheson in a speech Knight made at Chico, California, April 17.

Acheson Forwards Replies

Knight's complaints were sent to the State Department by Elliott with a request that they be answered in detail. Acheson forwarded replies from his staff.

At one point in the exchange the State Department said approximately $90,000,000 in arms and ordnance has been given Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist Chinese forces on Formosa, and $300,000,000 more is scheduled this year.

In addition, the department mentioned a "600-man" United States military mission on Formosa "assisting in the reorganization of Chiang's forces."

On June 24, Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, head of the mission, said in Taipeh, Formosa, the U.S. group had 1,250 members.

No Explanation Of Variation

Tonight, in answer to a request for clarification, the Defense Department said it has announced that 500 to 600 men, are there now. There was no explanation of the variations.

While Elliott released the exchange of correspondence between himself, Knight and Acheson, Knight also released in Los Angeles his latest letter to Elliott on the controversy.

Knight's letter of Aug. 18 was written after he had received, through Elliott, the Acheson rebuttals. Knight continues disputing the Secretary and in a concluding paragraph declares: "The finest thing Dean Acheson could do would be to resign today."

Gen. Bradley Says He Is Anticipating Korean Armistice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said tonight he is anticipating a truce in Korea. But he warned that any letdown in the defense effort might be "handing our future chances for freedom to those who would enslave us."

In a CBS radio talk, the United States Chief of Staff merely noted "we Americans are anticipating an armistice" and did not elaborate. Word from Korea was that cease-fire negotiations slipped back toward a pattern of deadlock.

"The armistice would mean that the United Nations have met one more challenge, that we have won another tough engagement in the continuing struggle with Communist aggression," Bradley said.

Even with a truce, he cautioned, "it may be some time before our troops are withdrawn."

Atomic Defense Buildup Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell said today that not one city in the United States "has even approached the point where it could withstand an atomic attack now."

What's more, Caldwell said in a broadcast, the armed forces would not be able to supply adequate protection against an atomic attack against this country.

Caldwell said that his organization had "done the basic necessary planning and we have the basic organization" for effective civil defense work in an emergency.

But he added that this was only about one-fifteenth of the preparation needed. He called for 15,000,000 volunteer workers in the civil defense program, and more money from Congress to carry out the program.

Child Who Teethed On Window Sill Dies

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19 (AP) — Two-year-old Thomas Cubbage, Baltimore, who teethed on the kitchen window sill, died yesterday at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Lead poisoning from eating paint from the sill was blamed for the child's death, hospital officials said.

The child's father said Thomas had been eating paint from the sill and from an outside wall for the past year and a half.

"Peace Pledge" Closes German Red Youth Rally

Half Million Swear Allegiance To Stalin

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP)—A half million young German Communists massed in East Berlin's Red Square swore allegiance to Stalin and his "world peace" drive tonight.

With clenched fists aloft, the vast throng of blue-shirted Soviet zone boys and girls vowed to "wreck the criminal plans of the Western warmakers."

Three times they shouted:
"We swear it."

Communist rulers of East Germany brought the crowd to a pitch with two hours of haranguing against the West. German, French, Soviet, Chinese, Korean Communists and one American, a woman known as Frances Damon, railed at President Truman's policies and Western Europe's defense preparations.

Grotewohl Heads Speakers

East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl climaxed the speeches with the declaration the Reds would strike at and sabotage Western rearmament.

The oath-taking rite ended the final rally of the two-weeks-long "World Youth Festival" sponsored by the Kremlin. It has jammed Berlin with two million German youth and 22,000 Red leaders from scores of nations.

The young Germans were brought to the rally in trucks under the direction of their unit leaders.

Older East Berliners were told pointedly that they should be there, too, on the sidelines. Many came. The Marx-Engels Square was a sea of humanity and the adjoining streets, including Unter Den Linden, were choked with onlookers.

Anti-Reds Leave "Sign"

The oath-taking rite injected some German drama, much like the old Nazi mass hysteria. The fireworks display that capped the whole jamboree appeared to be by far the most appreciated part of the program.

West Berlin anti-Communists left their "sign" on the Red rally. Three times, small balloons came over and discharged hundreds of anti-Red pamphlets that floated down over the crowd and were scooped up. Communist police and "Free German Youth" (FDJ) orderlies seized the leaflets as quickly as they could.

Storm, Growing In Ferocity, Has 130-Mile Winds

Rising Winds Whistle Over Old Mayan Ruins

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP) — The hurricane that killed at least 60 people on Jamaica slammed into the Yucatan peninsula tonight.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the great Caribbean storm, still packing 130-mile-an-hour winds, hit the coast of the peninsula at 10:30 p.m. (EST).

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP)—Winds that reached 80 miles an hour at 8 p. m. and were rapidly increasing thundered across Cozumel island as the Caribbean hurricane bore down upon the Yucatan peninsula tonight.

The center, packing 130-mile winds, was 40 miles offshore and was expected to cross the coastline within a few hours about 40 miles to the south of Cozumel, storm warning headquarters at Miami reported. Rising winds whistled over the ancient Mayan ruins on the Yucatan peninsula.

By midnight the rampaging winds will lash the ruins of the old cities of Chichen Itza, Uxmal and Tuloon, and the modern city of Merida on the north coast. The storm is expected to cross Yucatan and enter the Gulf of Mexico tomorrow.

Behind it lay devastation and at least 60 dead in the British colonial island of Jamaica.

Far behind it, in the spawning area of hurricanes, falling barometric pressure and changing wind patterns northeast of Puerto Rico indicated an "area of suspicion" which Miami storm warning headquarters said will be closely watched. A hurricane hunter airplane will probe the area tomorrow.

Rainsqualls with rising wind spattered Cozumel island, off the east coast of Yucatan. The steamship William Lykes, north of the Yucatan channel which separates Cuba and the mainland, reported heavy squalls of 55-mile winds.

Barring a sudden change of direction, the storm center will pass between Cozumel island and Ascension Bay, cross the narrow Mexican state of Quintana Roo and move into Yucatan about midnight. Hurricane winds were forecast for all of the northern half of the Yucatan peninsula and adjacent waters.

This advisory disclosed the tropic-born monster has grown alarmingly in size and ferocity in the past few hours of its passage along the open sea.

60 Dead In Jamaica; 70 Prisoners Escape

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 19 (AP) —Residents of this British island colony, still groggy from the worst hurricane in its history, organized a manhunt today for 70 prisoners who fled when the winds toppled a wall of the island penitentiary here.

The death toll from the big blow Friday night and yesterday was estimated at 60. The damage was put unofficially at close to $17,000,000.

Four died in Port Royal, a town of 2,000 that lies at the end of a long, sandy tongue of land that bounds Kingston on the south. Not one building there remained in sound condition.

Eight died in May Pen, near the former U. S. base, Vernam Field.

But Kingston was the hardest hit. The capital city of 120,000 was without light and power. Communications were crippled.

Baruch Optimistic On 81st Birthday

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch (above), adviser to presidents, was 81 years old today but he put off any birthday celebration until he is 90.

His plans for the day were a quiet home observance with family and a few close friends and a stroll in Central Park.

The tall financier interrupted this routine long enough to receive reporters and photographers in his Manhattan apartment and to pass out some optimistic observations.

He listed this country's two main enemies as the Kremlin and inflation, but declared:

"We'll come out of this all right."

Allied Attacks, Jet Battle Mark Korean Fighting

Two Red MIGs Are Downed, 5 Damaged

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP)—Allied troops fought forward in sharp, limited-offensive attacks aimed at key hill positions on the Korean west-central, central and eastern fronts in bad weather Sunday.

In the air over Red Northwest Korea, 29 American F-86 Sabrejets fought a spectacular battle with 46 Communist jets. The Air Force reported two Red MIG-15s were destroyed and five were damaged, while all American planes returned from this third big jet fight in two days.

North Koreans Fight Back

A dispatch from the east-central front just before midnight Sunday said dogged Allied infantry, drenched by the driving rain and near exhaustion, had inched their way to the top of a mountain mass north of Yanggu.

Even with their supply route cut in the rear by well-placed artillery fire, the North Koreans continued to fight back, however.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said that in this heaviest action of the day, rain was so heavy and visibility so poor that the advancing Allies often could see only 75 feet.

Northwest and southwest of the east coastal town of Kansong, other Allied forces seized, lost and seized again a series of hilltops from stubborn Red defenders.

Allies Take Strategic Hills

On the west-central front Allied troops took two strategic hills north and northwest of Kumhwa. A few hundred yards farther north, however, they confronted a 3,300-foot mountain pass from which entrenched Communists poured down artillery and mortar fire.

Farther west, the Allies launched an attack north of Yonchon but were forced to withdraw under heavy enemy fire.

All these actions at chosen points along a 100-mile-wide front were aimed at securing dominant heights.

Reds Protest Neutral Zone "Violation"

U. N. Command Hints Charge Trumped Up

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP)—The U. N. command said today the possibility exists that North Korean guerrillas violated the Kaesong neutral zone to break off the armistice talks and keep the war going.

An official release said the joint investigation of the incident yesterday failed completely to identify the armed bands as belonging to any U. N. command military formation.

A joint liaison team yesterday investigated Red complaints that an Allied band had killed one Red and wounded another inside the Kaesong neutral zone early Sunday morning.

The release said the U. N. command was continuing its inquiry today.

The chief Communist delegate at truce talks, North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, already had protested officially, Peiping radio said.

The protest and the firm Allied statement brought the talks to a new crisis.

Joy And Ridgway Confer

Nam Il demanded "a satisfactory reply immediately."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy conferred in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The U. N. command said members of a Chinese patrol ambushed near Panmunjom were able to describe one of the attackers only as "a plainclothesman with a white shirt, black trousers and carrying a side-arm."

The assistant platoon commander, Li Ching-Lin, told Col. James Murray, U.N. investigator, that none of the attacking group was seen wearing steel helmets. The helmets are standard equipment for all U.N. regular forces.

But Li added that he could not see clearly "because I was running away."

Murray said other members of the Chinese squad were unable to give any direct evidence as to the identity of their assailants.

Throughout the Korean war roving partisan bands have pillaged and looted in many sections of Korea.

Only Reds Police Zone

Since the start of the talks the Reds have insisted on exclusively policing the Kaesong neutral zone.

Joy flew to Tokyo last night.

The chief of the United Nations cease-fire delegation was accompanied by Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, truce team member who sat in on the smaller subcommittee which is trying to iron out differences on a buffer zone.

The informal subcommittee session slipped back Sunday toward the pattern of deadlock which had marked the larger meetings.

Results of the subcommittee talks are closely guarded secrets. The four-member joint committee had another session slated for today—11 a. m. (8 p. m., EST, Sunday). Sunday's meeting lasted only 90 minutes, the shortest session since the smaller group convened Friday.

Czechs See Launching Of Freedom Balloons

MUNICH, Aug. 19 (INS)—The Crusade for Freedom loosed a new balloon-pamphlet barrage directed at Czechoslovakia today and reported that Czech observers witnessed the launching from a plane.

Workers for the Western organization sending missives through the sky to points behind the iron curtain said that a Czech liaison type plane hovered over the launching area near Bavaria for an hour during the afternoon.

Tanker Blast Kills Six

SINGAPORE, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP) —Two explosions and fire aboard a Shell Oil Co. tanker early today left six persons dead, 10 missing, and more than 20 injured.

U. S. Jet Pilot Sets Speed Record Of 628.698 Miles An Hour

DETROIT, Aug. 19 (AP)—An Air Force test pilot pushed a fully-armed F-86E Sabrejet fighter plane around a 100-kilometer oval at 628.698 miles an hour today to break all existing world records for a closed course of the 62-mile-plus distance.

Col. Fred J. Ascani set the mark in streaking around the Wayne Major Airport in the featured Thompson Trophy event of the National Air Races.

But an even higher mark—635.411 mph—racked up by Col. Ascani in a trial run Friday over the same course probably will be certified eventually by world aviation authorities as the new world record.

In other top events of the big two-day air show's final day:

John Paul Johns, Van Nuys, Calif., won the famed Continental Motors Trophy race for midget planes for the second straight year with a record breaking average of 197.118 mph for the 37½ mile course.

A last-minute starter, First Lt. William D. Baisley, San Francisco, won the Allison jet race to Indianapolis and return — an event in which several persons narrowly escaped death.

Lt. Col. John W. Lafko, 32-year-old Korean war veteran, from Austin, Tex., made a crash landing with his F-84 Thunder Jet shortly after his takeoff in the Allison event. He barely skimmed over several automobiles on a car-jammed highway adjoining the airport.

In the Thompson event, Col. Ascani, a veteran of 53 combat missions in World War II, and now chief test pilot in the Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., covered the 100-kilometer course in five minutes, 55.804 seconds in his orange-nosed Sabre.

A crowd of 91,000 gasped in awe as he streaked across the airport at the start and finish of the speed run.

His Friday record was not made public pending today's performance. National Aeronautic Association officials said today's mark would be certified as the Thompson record and that Friday's mark would be submitted to Federation Aeronautic Internationale for certification as the world record for such a course.

The old record was 605.230 mph, set by John Douglas Derry of Great Britain in a British-made DeHavilland Sapphire jet April 12, 1948. But air race officials said Col. Ascani's plane was a stock model off North American's assembly line and the British plane was stripped down especially for the speed test.

British-Iranian Oil Talks Bogged Down

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 19 (AP) — British-Iranian oil talks bogged down in delay and confusion today. Both sides apparently were trying to dodge responsibility for any breakdown of negotiations.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said the Iranian reply submitted last night rejected most British proposals for breaking the deadlock that has closed the nationalized, British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's Abadan refinery.

It had been announced the Iranian reply would be published tonight, but after meeting for an hour the negotiators announced it would be held up, apparently for fear it would result in a final break.

Young Actress Forsakes Film Career To Become Nun

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19 (AP) — Movie Actress Juanita Quigley, at 20 a veteran in motion pictures, has forsaken her screen career to become Sister Quentin Rita of the Catholic Daughters of Mary and Joseph.

She knelt in a bridal gown before the altar of St. Paul the Apostle's Church yesterday and promised herself to Christ. Her promise was given with those of two other young women in exercises conducted by the Most Rev. Timothy Manning, auxiliary bishop of Los Angeles.

Miss Quigley was known as "Baby Jane" when she was a child star in films. She has appeared in scores of pictures, one of the first being with Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life" in which she had more than 400 speaking lines. Her last film was "National Velvet" starring Mickey Rooney. Juanita's sister, Rita, was an actress also, and last appeared in Joan Crawford's film "Susan And God." Rita has forsaken films for marriage and now is Mrs. Arthur Goehner.

Juanita began turning down movie and television parts more than a year ago and devoting herself to studies, and a year ago she told her mother, Mrs. Wayne Quigley, that she wished to become a nun.

The administration contends that continued economic aid is as important as guns in erecting barriers against Communism.

While the big foreign aid bill is under committee consideration, the Senate Finance Committee will meet tomorrow to try to speed action on the administration's request for greatly increased taxes.

No one was predicting, however, that the President would get the $10,000,000,000 he asked. The House voted $7,200,000,000 and many senators are talking of a still smaller sum.

Youth Marooned On Texas Peak

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 19 (AP) — A college sophomore, fascinated most of his life by 8,751-foot Guadalupe Peak, was marooned on that mountain tonight without food or water—one of his legs painfully punctured by cactus spines.

He is John Eoff, 19, son of a Ballinger, Tex., dentist and a student at Abilene Christian College.

A companion, Jim Erwin, also 19, said Eoff fell to an almost inaccessible ledge.

Eddy County (N.M.) Deputy Sheriff Ed Price estimated late this afternoon that rescuers could not reach the youth until about midnight.

Eoff slipped and fell into the cactus about 6:30 a. m. (CST) today. He had nothing to eat or drink with him. The fall was at about the 8,000-foot level.

Erwin said the cactus spines punctured the ligament of a leg and Eoff was unable to move.

Hurricane, Nearing Yucatan, Leaves 60 Dead In Jamaica

Disabled Vet Gets Draft Orders

Totally disabled, Robert A. Nordin manages to smile while examining his orders to report for a draft pre-induction examination at South Bend, Ind. The World War II veteran, who has spent more than four years in bed, figures the skeptical draft board which placed him in 1-A in June when he failed to appear will soon change its mind. He is suffering from tuberculosis of the spine, left hip and left leg.

Storm, Growing In Ferocity, Has 130-Mile Winds

Rising Winds Whistle Over Old Mayan Ruins

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP) — The hurricane that killed at least 60 people on Jamaica slammed into the Yucatan peninsula tonight.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the great Caribbean storm, still packing 130-mile-an-hour winds, hit the coast of the peninsula at 10:30 p.m. (EST).

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP)—Winds that reached 80 miles an hour at 8 p. m. and were rapidly increasing thundered across Cozumel island as the Caribbean hurricane bore down upon the Yucatan peninsula tonight.

The center, packing 130-mile winds, was 40 miles offshore and was expected to cross the coastline within a few hours about 40 miles to the south of Cozumel, storm warning headquarters at Miami reported. Rising winds whistled over the ancient Mayan ruins on the Yucatan peninsula.

By midnight the rampaging winds will lash the ruins of the old cities of Chichen Itza, Uxmal and Tuloon, and the modern city of Merida on the north coast. The storm is expected to cross Yucatan and enter the Gulf of Mexico tomorrow.

Behind it lay devastation and at least 60 dead in the British colonial island of Jamaica.

Far behind it, in the spawning area of hurricanes, falling barometric pressure and changing wind patterns northeast of Puerto Rico indicated an "area of suspicion" which Miami storm warning headquarters said will be closely watched. A hurricane hunter airplane will probe the area tomorrow.

Rainsqualls with rising wind spattered Cozumel island, off the east coast of Yucatan. The steamship William Lykes, north of the Yucatan channel which separates Cuba and the mainland, reported heavy squalls of 55-mile winds.

Barring a sudden change of direction, the storm center will pass between Cozumel island and Ascension Bay, cross the narrow Mexican state of Quintana Roo and move into Yucatan about midnight. Hurricane winds were forecast for all of the northern half of the Yucatan peninsula and adjacent waters.

This advisory disclosed the tropic-born monster has grown alarmingly in size and ferocity in the past few hours of its passage along the open sea.

Acheson Blasts 12 Accusations By Calif. Official

Secretary Replies To Knight's Charges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson has denounced as "either entirely incorrect or distortions of the truth" 12 accusations made against him by Lt. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California.

The criticisms range from his handling of Formosa policy through State Department security questions to the Alger Hiss case.

They were formulated by Knight, a Republican, after he had been challenged by John B. Elliott, Los Angeles civic leader and a Democrat to back up criticisms of Acheson in a speech Knight made at Chico, California, April 17.

Acheson Forwards Replies

Knight's complaints were sent to the State Department by Elliott with a request that they be answered in detail. Acheson forwarded replies from his staff.

At one point in the exchange the State Department said approximately $90,000,000 in arms and ordnance has been given Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist Chinese forces on Formosa, and $300,000,000 more is scheduled this year.

In addition, the department mentioned a "600-man" United States military mission on Formosa "assisting in the reorganization of Chiang's forces."

On June 24, Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, head of the mission, said in Taipeh, Formosa, the U.S. group had 1,250 members.

No Explanation Of Variation

Tonight, in answer to a request for clarification, the Defense Department said it has announced that 500 to 600 men, are there now. There was no explanation of the variations.

While Elliott released the exchange of correspondence between himself, Knight and Acheson, Knight also released in Los Angeles his latest letter to Elliott on the controversy.

Knight's letter of Aug. 18 was written ten after he had received, through Elliott, the Acheson rebuttals. Knight continues disputing the Secretary and in a concluding paragraph declares: "The finest thing Dean Acheson could do would be to resign today."

Gen. Bradley Says He Is Anticipating Korean Armistice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said tonight he is anticipating a truce in Korea. But he warned that any letdown in the defense effort might be "handing our future chances for freedom to those who would enslave us."

In a CBS radio talk, the United States Chief of Staff merely noted "we Americans are anticipating an armistice" and did not elaborate. Word from Korea was that cease-fire negotiations slipped back toward a pattern of deadlock.

"The armistice would mean that the United Nations have met one more challenge, that we have won another tough engagement in the continuing struggle with Communist aggression," Bradley said.

Even with a truce, he cautioned, "it may be some time before our troops are withdrawn."

Atomic Defense Buildup Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell said today that not one city in the United States "has even approached the point where it could withstand an atomic attack now."

What's more, Caldwell said in a broadcast, the armed forces would not be able to supply adequate protection against an atomic attack against this country.

Caldwell said that his organization had "done the basic necessary planning and we have the basic organization" for effective civil defense work in an emergency.

But he added that this was only about one-fifteenth of the preparation needed. He called for 15,000,000 volunteer workers in the civil defense program, and more money from Congress to carry out the program.

Child Who Teethed On Window Sill Dies

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19 (AP) — Two-year-old Thomas Cubbage, Baltimore, who teethed on the kitchen window sill, died yesterday at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Lead poisoning from eating paint from the sill was blamed for the child's death, hospital officials said.

The child's father said Thomas had been eating paint from the sill and from an outside wall for the past year and a half.

"Peace Pledge" Closes German Red Youth Rally

Half Million Swear Allegiance To Stalin

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP)—A half million young German Communists massed in East Berlin's Red Square swore allegiance to Stalin and his "world peace" drive tonight.

With clenched fists aloft, the vast throng of blue-shirted Soviet zone boys and girls vowed to "wreck the criminal plans of the Western warmakers."

Three times they shouted:

"We swear it."

Communist rulers of East Germany brought the crowd to a pitch with two hours of haranguing against the West. German, French, Soviet, Chinese, Korean Communists and one American, a woman known as Frances Damon, railed at President Truman's policies and Western Europe's defense preparations.

Grotewohl Heads Speakers

East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl climaxed the speeches with the declaration the Reds would strike at and sabotage Western rearmament.

The oath-taking rite ended the final rally of the two-weeks-long "World Youth Festival" sponsored by the Kremlin. It has jammed Berlin with two million German youth and 22,000 Red leaders from scores of nations.

The young Germans were brought to the rally in trucks under the direction of their unit leaders.

Older East Berliners were told pointedly that they should be there, too, on the sidelines. Many came. The Marx-Engels Square was a sea of humanity and the adjoining streets, including Unter Den Linden, were choked with onlookers.

Anti-Reds Leave "Sign"

The oath-taking rite injected some German drama, much like the old Nazi mass hysteria. The fireworks display that capped the whole jamboree appeared to be by far the most appreciated part of the program.

West Berlin anti-Communists left their "sign" on the Red rally. Three times, small balloons came over and discharged hundreds of anti-Red pamphlets that floated down over the crowd and were scooped up. Communist police and "Free German Youth" (FDJ) orderlies seized the leaflets as quickly as they could.

60 Dead In Jamaica; 70 Prisoners Escape

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 19 (AP) —Residents of this British island colony, still groggy from the worst hurricane in its history, organized a manhunt today for 70 prisoners who fled when the winds toppled a wall of the island penitentiary here.

The death toll from the big blow Friday night and yesterday was estimated at 60. The damage was put unofficially at close to $17,000,000.

Four died in Port Royal, a town of 2,000 that lies at the end of a long, sandy tongue of land that bounds Kingston on the south. Not one building there remained in sound condition.

Eight died in May Pen, near the former U. S. base, Vernam Field.

But Kingston was the hardest hit. The capital city of 120,000 was without light and power. Communications were crippled.

British-Iranian Oil Talks Bogged Down

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 19 (AP) — British-Iranian oil talks bogged down in delay and confusion today. Both sides apparently were trying to dodge responsibility for any breakdown of negotiations.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said the Iranian reply submitted last night rejected most British proposals for breaking the deadlock that has closed the nationalized, British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's Abadan refinery.

It had been announced the Iranian reply would be published tonight, but after meeting for an hour the negotiators announced it would be held up, apparently for fear it would result in a final break.

Baruch Optimistic On 81st Birthday

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch (above), adviser to presidents, was 81 years old today but he put off any birthday celebration until he is 90.

His plans for the day were a quiet home observance with family and a few close friends and a stroll in Central Park.

The tall financier interrupted this routine long enough to receive reporters and photographers in his Manhattan apartment and to pass out some optimistic observations.

He listed this country's two main enemies as the Kremlin and inflation, but declared:

"We'll come out of this all right."

Allied Attacks, Jet Battle Mark Korean Fighting

Two Red MIGs Are Downed, 5 Damaged

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP)—Allied troops fought forward in sharp, limited-offensive attacks aimed at key hill positions on the Korean west-central, central and eastern fronts in bad weather Sunday.

In the air over Red Northwest Korea, 29 American F-86 Sabrejets fought a spectacular battle with 46 Communist jets. The Air Force reported two Red MIG-15s were destroyed and five were damaged, while all American planes returned from this third big jet fight in two days.

North Koreans Fight Back

A dispatch from the east-central front just before midnight Sunday said dogged Allied infantry, drenched by the driving rain and near exhaustion, had inched their way to the top of a mountain mass north of Yanggu.

Even with their supply route cut in the rear by well-placed artillery fire, the North Koreans continued to fight back, however.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said that in this heaviest action of the day, rain was so heavy and visibility so poor that the advancing Allies often could see only 75 feet.

Northwest and southwest of the east coastal town of Kansong, other Allied forces seized, lost and seized again a series of hilltops from stubborn Red defenders.

Allies Take Strategic Hills

On the west-central front Allied troops took two strategic hills north and northwest of Kumhwa. A few hundred yards farther north, however, they confronted a 3,300-foot mountain pass from which entrenched Communists poured down artillery and mortar fire.

Farther west, the Allies launched an attack north of Yonchon but were forced to withdraw under heavy enemy fire.

All these actions at chosen points along a 100-mile-wide front were aimed at securing dominant heights.

Reds Protest Neutral Zone "Violation"

U. N. Command Hints Charge Trumped Up

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP)—The U. N. command said today the possibility exists that North Korean guerrillas violated the Kaesong neutral zone to break off the armistice talks and keep the war going.

An official release said the joint investigation of the incident yesterday failed completely to identify the armed bands as belonging to any U. N. command military formation.

A joint liaison team yesterday investigated Red complaints that an Allied band had killed one Red and wounded another inside the Kaesong neutral zone early Sunday morning.

The release said the U. N. command was continuing its inquiry today.

The chief Communist delegate at truce talks, North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, already had protested officially, Peiping radio said.

The protest and the firm Allied statement brought the talks to a new crisis.

Joy And Ridgway Confer

Nam Il demanded "a satisfactory reply immediately."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy conferred in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The U. N. command said members of a Chinese patrol ambushed near Panmunjom were able to describe one of the attackers only as "a plainclothesman with a white shirt, black trousers and carrying a side-arm."

The assistant platoon commander, Li Ching-Lin, told Col. James Murray, U.N. investigator, that none of the attacking group was seen wearing steel helmets. The helmets are standard equipment for all U.N. regular forces.

But Li added that he could not see clearly "because I was running away."

Murray said other members of the Chinese squad were unable to give any direct evidence as to the identity of their assailants.

Throughout the Korean war roving partisan bands have pillaged and looted in many sections of Korea.

Only Reds Police Zone

Since the start of the talks the Reds have insisted on exclusively policing the Kaesong neutral zone.

Joy flew to Tokyo last night.

The chief of the United Nations cease-fire delegation was accompanied by Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, truce team member who sat in on the smaller subcommittee which is trying to iron out differences on a buffer zone.

The informal subcommittee session slipped back Sunday toward the pattern of deadlock which had marked the larger meetings.

Results of the subcommittee talks are closely guarded secrets. The four-member joint committee had another session slated for today—11 a. m. (8 p. m., EST, Sunday). Sunday's meeting lasted only 90 minutes, the shortest session since the smaller group convened Friday.

Czechs See Launching Of Freedom Balloons

MUNICH, Aug. 19 (INS)—The Crusade for Freedom loosed a new balloon-pamphlet barrage directed at Czechoslovakia today and reported that Czech observers witnessed the launching from a plane.

Workers for the Western organization sending missives through the sky to points behind the iron curtain said that a Czech liaison type plane hovered over the launching area near Bavaria for an hour during the afternoon.

Tanker Blast Kills Six

SINGAPORE, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP) —Two explosions and fire aboard a Shell Oil Co. tanker early today left six persons dead, 10 missing, and more than 20 injured.

U. S. Jet Pilot Sets Speed Record Of 628.698 Miles An Hour

DETROIT, Aug. 19 (AP)—An Air Force test pilot pushed a fully-armed F-86E Sabrejet fighter plane around a 100-kilometer oval at 628.698 miles an hour today to break all existing world records for a closed course of the 62-mile-plus distance.

Col. Fred J. Ascani set the mark in streaking around the Wayne Major Airport in the featured Thompson Trophy event of the National Air Races.

But an even higher mark—635.411 mph—racked up by Col. Ascani in a trial run Friday over the same course probably will be certified eventually by world aviation authorities as the new world record.

In other top events of the big two-day air show's final day:

John Paul Johns, Van Nuys, Calif., won the famed Continental Motors Trophy race for midget planes for the second straight year with a record breaking average of 197.218 mph for the 37½ mile course.

A last-minute starter, First Lt. William D. Baisley, San Francisco, won the Allison jet race to Indianapolis and return — an event in which several persons narrowly escaped death.

Lt. Col. John W. Lafko, 32-year-old Korean war veteran, from Austin, Tex., made a crash landing with his F-84 Thunder Jet shortly after his takeoff in the Allison event. He barely skimmed over several automobiles on a car-jammed highway adjoining the airport.

In the Thompson event, Col. Ascani, a veteran of 53 combat missions in World War II, and now chief test pilot in the Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., covered the 100-kilometer course in five minutes, 55.804 seconds in his orange-nosed Sabre.

A crowd of 91,000 gasped in awe as he streaked across the airport at the start and finish of the speed run.

His Friday record was not made public pending today's performance. National Aeronautic Association officials said today's mark would be certified as the Thompson record and that Friday's mark would be submitted to Federation Aeronautic Internationale for certification as the world record for such a course.

The old record was 605.230 mph, set by John Douglas Derry of Great Britain in a British-made DeHavilland Sapphire jet April 12, 1948. But air race officials said Col. Ascani's plane was a stock model off North American's assembly line and the British plane was stripped down especially for the speed test.

Young Actress Forsakes Film Career To Become Nun

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19 (AP) — Movie Actress Juanita Quigley, at 20 a veteran in motion pictures, has forsaken her screen career to become Sister Quentin Rita of the Catholic Daughters of Mary and Joseph.

She knelt in a bridal gown before the altar of St. Paul the Apostle's Church yesterday and promised herself to Christ. Her promise was given with those of two other young women in exercises conducted by the Most Rev. Timothy Manning, auxiliary bishop of Los Angeles.

Miss Quigley was known as "Baby Jane" when she was a child star in films. She has appeared in scores of pictures, one of the first being with Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life" in which she had more than 400 speaking lines. Her last film was "National Velvet" starring Mickey Rooney. Juanita's sister, Rita, was an actress also, and last appeared in Joan Crawford's film "Susan And God." Rita has forsaken films for marriage and now is Mrs. Arthur Goehner.

Juanita began turning down movie and television parts more than a year ago and devoting herself to studies, and a year ago she told her mother, Mrs. Wayne Quigley, that she wished to become a nun.

12 Instructors Resign Posts In Garrett Schools

Teachers Meeting Slated Sept. 5

OAKLAND — The Legislative Committee of the County Teachers Association appeared before a recent meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education to discuss emergency in teacher salaries.

Members of the committee included Carl Everly, Mason Callis, Bruce Jenkins, Katheryn Speicher, Merle Frantz and W. J. Glenn.

R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of Garrett county schools, said the following resignations had been accepted:

Paul E. Stickley, Bittinger; Sarah A. Griffin, Oakland High; Edward J. O'Rourke, Friendsville High, Carl Arbogast, Friendsville; Helen R. Kelly, Friendsville; Alfred R. Brown, Joseph A. Moran and Sheldon K. Riggs, Grantsville High; Marshall Brown, Oakland High; Grayson Burrier, Oakland High; Merle H. Broadwater, Avilton; Violet A. Hall, Hoyes Run.

Hardesty said that nine of those who had resigned had done so because of receiving higher salaries in other positions.

In the meantime, bus contractors will receive their third increase in salary rates as of September 1st, the board learned. This is taken care of in the state budget. The first raise came September 1, 1949, and the second about three months ago, Hardesty said.

The board approved the plan of dividing the school auditorium into four classrooms, using the stage as a fifth classroom, to take care of the increased enrollment. Hardesty added that plans were being worked out with General Reckord, head of the National Guard in the state for use of the armory this year for physical education classes and as a gymnasium.

The board approved plans for tiling the physical education field in Grantsville to prevent further erosion, and also came to a satisfactory arrangement with the Town Council in regard to a new sidewalk in front of the Oakland Elementary School.

Under improvements, it was reported that the exterior of the Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Friendsville and Oakland Elementary schools had been painted, the flue rebuilt on the Oakland Elementary; the exterior and interior of Corunna, New Germany and Spring Glade schools, the exterior of Wilson schools repainted; that fluorescent lights were being placed in Oakland Elementary; new lights in Mt. Zion School, and standard lighting being installed at Swan Meadow.

Schools will open Thursday, September 6, preceded by a county-wide teachers' meeting on Wednesday, September 5.

The board learned of progress on the two new high schools, which has been retarded due to lack of steel.

At the Cove, furnaces were being placed this week. All the steel has been received there, with about one-third set. The glazed tile partition in the cafeteria section is also being built.

At Oakland, steel deliveries are still somewhat delayed. There were shipments Monday and Tuesday and the contractor believes the balance would be received by the end of the week. Furnaces were also being set and the cement walk being laid.

Crellin Wedding Is Announced

SWANTON — Helen Fitzwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fitzwater, North Glade, and Hugh A. Friend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Friend, Deer Park, were united in marriage August 3 at Crellin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Irvin Fike at his parsonage.

The bride was attired in a navy blue suit with white accessories and a red rosebud corsage. Their only attendant was the bride's sister, Eileen Fitzwater. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Oakland High School. They will reside in Alliance, Ohio.

In some cases of bell ringing, the bells are sounded by means of a cylinder, on the principle of a barrel organ. In others, they are played with keys by the musician.

DISMISSED — Bob Orders, former all-state center at Huntington Central High School and a member of the Army football team last year, has been released by the U. S. Military Academy. Orders did not say he was one of the 90 West Point Cadets discharged on charges of cribbing on examinations. But his mother, Mrs. J. W. Orders, quoted him as being "awfully mad at the way some officers up there treated him." Orders reportedly may seek admittance to West Virginia University. (AP Photo)

Piedmont Rec Program Closes

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—The official eight weeks program sponsored by the Tri-Towns Recreation Association closed Friday evening, two weeks earlier than scheduled, due to lack of funds.

After paying the salaries of the two directors and counting all anticipated receipts, the association is in debt approximately $50.

The program budget this year was very economical, less than $1,000 for the playgrounds at Piedmont High and Erin Street, Piedmont and Dixon Park and Spruce Street, Westernport.

Firemen Receive Life Memberships

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Three members of Tri-Towns Fire Company No. 1 were recently presented life memberships by John Thompson, president of the fire-fighting group.

All charter members of the company, they are George Hamilton, Piedmont; George Gales, Westernport, and James E. Trenum, Lonaconing.

William Kolberg, president of Potomac Fire Company No. 2 of Westernport, spoke briefly. Mayor Allen Hill, who praised the company for its ability as a fire fighting organization, expressed regret that city funds were insufficient to provide the company with more equipment.

Legion Official Wins Wrist Watch

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — A wrist watch and a $25 defense bond was presented to T. J. "Ganny" Martin, service officer of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, during the State Department convention held recently in Charleston.

Martin won second place in the 10th district in a membership contest.

Other legionnaires attending were Elmer May, post commander; Samuel W. Widmer, Glenn Boyd and Patrick Healy.

Auxiliary delegates included Mrs. Lottie Dancer and Mrs. Annabelle Wilkes. Mrs. Dancer was reelected secretary-treasurer of Past District Presidents' Parley.

12 Instructors Resign Posts In Garrett Schools

Teachers Meeting Slated Sept. 5

OAKLAND — The Legislative Committee of the County Teachers Association appeared before a recent meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education to discuss emergency in teacher salaries.

Members of the committee included Carl Everly, Mason Callis, Bruce Jenkins, Katheryn Speicher, Merle Frantz and W. J. Glenn.

R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of Garrett county schools, said the following resignations had been accepted:

Paul E. Stickley, Bittinger; Sarah A. Griffin, Oakland High; Edward J. O'Rourke, Friendsville High, Carl Arbogast, Friendsville; Helen R. Kelly, Friendsville; Alfred R. Brown, Joseph A. Moran and Sheldon K. Riggs, Grantsville High; Marshall Brown, Oakland High; Grayson Burrier, Oakland High; Merle H. Broadwater, Avilton; Violet A. Hall, Hoyes Run.

Hardesty said that nine of those who had resigned had done so because of receiving higher salaries in other positions.

In the meantime, bus contractors will receive their third increase in salary rates as of September 1st, the board learned. This is taken care of in the state budget. The first raise came September 1, 1949, and the second about three months ago, Hardesty said.

The board approved the plan of dividing the school auditorium into four classrooms, using the stage as a fifth classroom, to take care of the increased enrollment. Hardesty added that plans were being worked out with General Reckord, head of the National Guard in the state for use of the armory this year for physical education classes and as a gymnasium.

The board approved plans for tiling the physical education field in Grantsville to prevent further erosion, and also came to a satisfactory arrangement with the Town Council in regard to a new sidewalk in front of the Oakland Elementary School.

Under improvements, it was reported that the exterior of the Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Friendsville and Oakland Elementary schools had been painted, the flue rebuilt on the Oakland Elementary; the exterior and interior of Corunna, New Germany and Spring Glade schools, the exterior of Wilson schools repainted; that fluorescent lights were being placed in Oakland Elementary; new lights in Mt. Zion School, and standard lighting being installed at Swan Meadow.

Schools will open Thursday, September 6, preceded by a county-wide teachers' meeting on Wednesday, September 5.

The board learned of progress on the two new high schools, which has been retarded due to lack of steel.

At the Cove, furnaces were being placed this week. All the steel has been received there, with about one-third set. The glazed tile partition in the cafeteria section is also being built.

At Oakland, steel deliveries are still somewhat delayed. There were shipments Monday and Tuesday and the contractor believes the balance would be received by the end of the week. Furnaces were also being set and the cement walk being laid.

Crellin Wedding Is Announced

SWANTON — Helen Fitzwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fitzwater, North Glade, and Hugh A. Friend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Friend, Deer Park, were united in marriage August 3 at Crellin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Irvin Fike at his parsonage.

The bride was attired in a navy blue suit with white accessories and a red rosebud corsage. Their only attendant was the bride's sister, Eileen Fitzwater. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Oakland High School. They will reside in Alliance, Ohio.

In some cases of bell ringing, the bells are sounded by means of a cylinder, on the principle of a barrel organ. In others, they are played with keys by the musician.

DISMISSED — Bob Orders, former all-state center at Huntington Central High School and a member of the Army football team last year, has been released by the U. S. Military Academy. Orders did not say he was one of the 90 West Point Cadets discharged on charges of cribbing on examinations. But his mother, Mrs. J. W. Orders, quoted him as being "awfully mad at the way some officers up there treated him." Orders reportedly may seek admittance to West Virginia University. (AP Photo)

McCarthy Target Of Lying Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Deputy Undersecretary of State Carl Humelsine tonight accused Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of lying and "riding piggyback" on rehashed, old and completely disproved charges of Communist infiltration in the State Department.

McCarthy's repeated charges are disrupting department work to some extent, Humelsine said. And he added if he finds anyone in the department feeding McCarthy information, the employe will be fired.

Humelsine, in charge of the department's loyalty-security program, discussed McCarthy's charges during a television interview. McCarthy was not available immediately for comment.

Humelsine disclosed that of 28,000 department employes, "several thousand" have access to secret papers.

In connection with the department's loyalty program he said 800 employes have been under such suspicion that "detailed, serious" investigations were made. And 15 have been found unfit, while 188 quit while under scrutiny.

This is one of the points on which Humelsine directly charged McCarthy with making a statement that "isn't true." The Senator has contended the department's loyalty board has never found one of its employes unfit for government service, because of Communist activity.

When Is A Bridge Not A Bridge?

Magistrate J. Milton Dick has a poser for the attorney general:

Is a bridge just a bridge or is it part of a highway?

The answer could mean plenty—dollar-wise—to trucking firms accused of operating overweight vehicles.

For instance, there could be a $100 penalty if you exceed the weight limit of a certain bridge in Western Maryland. But if a bridge is classed as part of a highway—as one section of the truck weight law says it is—then the penalty could run into hundreds of dollars.

The magistrate is awaiting word from the attorney general before ruling in a case of the Elliott Motor Lines of Winchester, Va.

A driver for the trucking company is charged with exceeding by 17,300 pounds the load limit of the Potomac River bridge from Wiley Ford, W. Va. If it's just a bridge load violation it's a $100 fine. If it's highway load violation, the fine is six cents for each pound over the limit.

Termination Of Pact Irks Moscow Radio

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Moscow radio said tonight the Soviet ambassador in Washington has told the U. S. State Department that the ending of the Soviet-American trade agreement was "a further worsening of Soviet-American relations."

The broadcast said the Soviet ambassador gave his government's note to the State Department yesterday in reply to the U. S. decision to terminate the trade agreement of 1937.

The note said the U. S. action was "in contradiction to the appeal of the U. S. Congress to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. and the message of President Truman to N. M. Shvernik, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. which speak of striving for an improvement of Soviet-American relations."

U. S. Planes Soon May Tote Atom Missiles, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Sen. Hill (D-Ala) said today "it won't be long" before American fighting planes are carrying atomic missiles.

Hill, a member of the Senate Military Appropriations Subcommittee, told a reporter he believes atomic warheads now have been reduced in size to the point where they can be used as "aerial artillery."

"This will make a great difference in tactical aviation and may change a great deal of military thinking," the Alabama Senator declared.

An advocate of a swift buildup in long range striking power of the U. S. Air Force, Hill said he will urge the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Robert Lovett, acting secretary of defense, to reach early agreement on an increase in air power.

The Joint Chiefs and Lovett are scheduled to discuss military appropriations with the subcommittee tomorrow and Hill predicted they will be faced with a demand for an immediate increase in air funds.

As approved by the House, the $56,000,000,000 military money bill provides $19,854,000,000 for the Air Force, $20,125,000,000 for the Army and $15,552,000,000 for the Navy.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC) already has offered an amendment to increase the Air Force total by $5,000,000,000.

Cumberland Building Permits Again Lag

Building permit costs for the month of July in Cumberland dropped over 60 per cent below costs for the same month last year, figures compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reveal.

Cumberland permits ttaled $24,945 last July, far below the $75,075 figure compiled in July, 1950. The figure also was the lowest posted in Maryland's Fifth Federal Reserve District.

During the first seventh months of 1951 Cumberland permits have totaled $459,230, lagging very much behind other cities in development of the district. The report indicates Frederick spent $1,348,585 for building construction during the same seven months period; Hagerstown spent $1,083,280; and Salisbury $1,186,869.

Cumberland's seven-months total for 1951 also dropped $257,585 below the same period of 1950 which saw $716,816 spent here for construction.

Price Of Milk Increases Today

The price of milk will take a jump of one cent a quart in the Cumberland area today. John D. Liebau, manager of the Queen City Cooperative Dairy Inc., said the increase of pasteurized milk to 22 cents a quart is due to competitive prices now in effect in the Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Altoona, Pa. area.

In compliance with Office of Price Stabilization regulations the increase will affect consumers of the Cumberland area, adjacent West Virginia communities and the George's Creek region.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

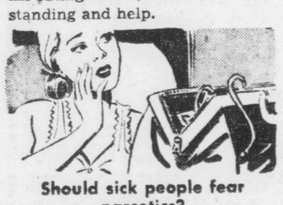
By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are you "your own worst enemy"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Karen Horney in her latest book, "Neurosis and Human Growth: The Struggle Toward Self-Realization." It is "pressures" from within your own mind that alienate you from your real self and make you ill and unhappy. These include the many varients of the neurotic pattern like the quest of glory, the "tyranny of the should" (morbid conscientiousness), neurotic pride, or at the other extreme, self-hate and self-contempt. But it is no less true that you have within yourself the forces which, if "liberated," can bring inner harmony and outward achievement.

Should you put an overweight child on a diet?

Answer: No, says Dr. Wilfred C. Hulse, chief psychiatrist of the Department of Welfare Children's Center, New York City. A child who is overweight is probably using his "sweet tooth" to console himself for feeling he is not wanted or accepted. He says to himself, "They don't like me anyway, so I might as well eat," and then, "They don't like me because I am fat." To be deprived of his consolation is just one more proof that his parents do not love him, and may normalize his weight at the cost of more serious emotional disturbance. It's his feelings, not his eating habits, that need understanding and help.



Should sick people fear narcotics?

Answer: Not to the extent of feeling that if you allow your doctor to give you a morphine injection you risk becoming a "dope fiend." It is not belittling the horrors of addiction to say that narcotics seem to involve little temptation for the average, reasonably healthy-minded person. A good rule, of course, is not to try to decide for yourself when you need the relief which opiates offer, but accept it only when your doctor says you need it. The real tragedy of the teen-ager (or the older person) who turns to narcotics for a "thrill" is the lack of normal emotional satisfactions which makes such a course appeal to him.

McCarthy Target Of Lying Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Deputy Undersecretary of State Carl Humelsine tonight accused Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of lying and "riding piggyback" on rehashed, old and completely disproved charges of Communist infiltration in the State Department.

McCarthy's repeated charges are disrupting department work to some extent, Humelsine said. And he added if he finds anyone in the department feeding McCarthy information, the employe will be fired.

Humelsine, in charge of the department's loyalty-security program, discussed McCarthy's charges during a television interview. McCarthy was not available immediately for comment.

Humelsine disclosed that of 28,000 department employes, "several thousand" have access to secret papers.

In connection with the department's loyalty program he said 800 employes have been under such suspicion that "detailed, serious" investigations were made. And 15 have been found unfit, while 188 quit while under scrutiny.

This is one of the points on which Humelsine directly charged McCarthy with making a statement that "isn't true." The Senator has contended the department's loyalty board has never found one of its employes unfit for government service, because of Communist activity.

When Is A Bridge Not A Bridge?

Magistrate J. Milton Dick has a poser for the attorney general:

Is a bridge just a bridge or is it part of a highway?

The answer could mean plenty—dollar-wise—to trucking firms accused of operating overweight vehicles.

For instance, there could be a $100 penalty if you exceed the weight limit of a certain bridge in Western Maryland. But if a bridge is classed as part of a highway—as one section of the truck weight law says it is—then the penalty could run into hundreds of dollars.

The magistrate is awaiting word from the attorney general before ruling in a case of the Elliott Motor Lines of Winchester, Va.

A driver for the trucking company is charged with exceeding by 17,300 pounds the load limit of the Potomac River bridge from Wiley Ford, W. Va. If it's just a bridge load violation it's a $100 fine. If it's highway load violation, the fine is six cents for each pound over the limit.

Termination Of Pact Irks Moscow Radio

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Moscow radio said tonight the Soviet ambassador in Washington has told the U. S. State Department that the ending of the Soviet-American trade agreement was "a further worsening of Soviet-American relations."

The broadcast said the Soviet ambassador gave his government's note to the State Department yesterday in reply to the U. S. decision to terminate the trade agreement of 1937.

The note said the U. S. action was "in contradiction to the appeal of the U. S. Congress to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. and the message of President Truman to N. M. Shvernik, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. which speak of striving for an improvement of Soviet-American relations."

Strike Hits Steel Mill

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 19 (AP) — The Lackawanna plant of Bethlehem Steel, which employs nearly 17,000 workers, started shutting down today after a "sick" walkout by about 300 conductors and brakemen of the South Buffalo Railway. The railway serves several firms.

Revenues Increase In July For B&O

Railway operating revenues of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for July were slightly more than $36,000,000, it was announced today following the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors.

This was nearly $3,500,000 higher than revenues for July of last year when earnings were affected to some extent by the lake dock strike. However, railway operating expenses increased by more than $3,500,000 because of higher wage and material costs. The maintenance of equipment item was more than a million and a half higher and the cost of running trains more than a million dollars higher than for July, 1950.

Daughter Is Born To Hatcheck Girl At Swanky Club

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19 (AP) — A 21-year-old hatcheck girl gave birth to a six-pound, 13-ounce girl early this morning in a cocktail lounge at Ciro's, swanky filmland night club.

While the floor show was on in full swing, Impressario Herman Hover stepped out on the stage to ask the time honored question:

"Is there a doctor in the house?"

There was. Dr. Bert Tardeau hurried to the private cocktail lounge upstairs and delivered the baby to Margaret Barstow, operator of the hatcheck stand. Her husband, Bruce, 24, an engineering student was at her side.

Lightning Kills Golf Caddie At Baltimore

U. S. Planes Soon May Tote Atom Missiles, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Sen. Hill (D-Ala) said today "it won't be long" before American fighting planes are carrying atomic missiles.

Hill, a member of the Senate Military Appropriations Subcommittee, told a reporter he believes atomic warheads now have been reduced in size to the point where they can be used as "aerial artillery."

"This will make a great difference in tactical aviation and may change a great deal of military thinking," the Alabama Senator declared.

An advocate of a swift buildup in long range striking power of the U. S. Air Force, Hill said he will urge the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Robert Lovett, acting secretary of defense, to reach early agreement on an increase in air power.

The Joint Chiefs and Lovett are scheduled to discuss military appropriations with the subcommittee tomorrow and Hill predicted they will be faced with a demand for an immediate increase in air funds.

As approved by the House, the $56,000,000,000 military money bill provides $19,854,000,000 for the Air Force, $20,125,000,000 for the Army and $15,552,000,000 for the Navy.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC) already has offered an amendment to increase the Air Force total by $5,000,000,000.

Cumberland Building Permits Again Lag

Building permit costs for the month of July in Cumberland dropped over 60 per cent below costs for the same month last year, figures compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reveal.

Cumberland permits ttaled $24,945 last July, far below the $75,075 figure compiled in July, 1950. The figure also was the lowest posted in Maryland's Fifth Federal Reserve District.

During the first seventh months of 1951 Cumberland permits have totaled $459,230, lagging very much behind other cities in development of the district. The report indicates Frederick spent $1,348,585 for building construction during the same seven months period; Hagerstown spent $1,083,280; and Salisbury $1,186,869.

Cumberland's seven-months total for 1951 also dropped $257,585 below the same period of 1950 which saw $716,816 spent here for construction.

Price Of Milk Increases Today

The price of milk will take a jump of one cent a quart in the Cumberland area today. John D. Liebau, manager of the Queen City Cooperative Dairy Inc., said the increase of pasteurized milk to 22 cents a quart is due to competitive prices now in effect in the Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Altoona, Pa. area.

In compliance with Office of Price Stabilization regulations the increase will affect consumers of the Cumberland area, adjacent West Virginia communities and the George's Creek region.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

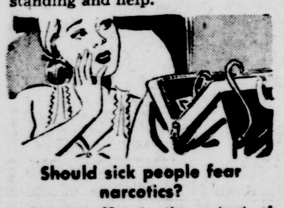
By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are you "your own worst enemy"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Karen Horney in her latest book, "Neurosis and Human Growth: The Struggle Toward Self-Realization." It is "pressures" from within your own mind that alienate you from your real self and make you ill and unhappy. These include the many varients of the neurotic pattern like the quest of glory, the "tyranny of the should" (morbid conscientiousness), neurotic pride, or at the other extreme, self-hate and self-contempt. But it is no less true that you have within yourself the forces which, if "liberated," can bring inner harmony and outward achievement.

Should you put an overweight child on a diet?

Answer: No, says Dr. Wilfred C. Hulse, chief psychiatrist of the Department of Welfare Children's Center, New York City. A child who is overweight is probably using his "sweet tooth" to console himself for feeling he is not wanted or accepted. He says to himself, "They don't like me anyway, so I might as well eat," and then, "They don't like me because I am fat." To be deprived of his consolation is just one more proof that his parents do not love him, and may normalize his weight at the cost of more serious emotional disturbance. It's his feelings, not his eating habits, that need understanding and help.



Should sick people fear narcotics?

Answer: Not to the extent of feeling that if you allow your doctor to give you a morphine injection you risk becoming a "dope fiend." It is not belittling the horrors of addiction to say that narcotics seem to involve little temptation for the average, reasonably healthy-minded person. A good rule, of course, is not to try to decide for yourself when you need the relief which opiates offer, but accept it only when your doctor says you need it. The real tragedy of the teen-ager (or the older person) who turns to narcotics for a "thrill" is the lack of normal emotional satisfactions which makes such a course appeal to him.

U. S. Citizens Jailed By Reds

The Czechoslovakian government has notified the U. S. State Department that an American official will be authorized to visit John Hvasta, 24-year-old Czech-American arrested for espionage in Bratislava in 1948. The meeting—the first between Hvasta and an American government officer since February 23, 1950—is to take place "on or about August 22."

Rep. Rodino (R., N. J.) has introduced a resolution calling upon the executive agencies to take every possible step for Hvasta's release. The resolution would also convey to the United Nations and the Czech government American indignation at the arrest, "sham trial," and imprisonment of Hvasta. A similar resolution on behalf of William Oatis, American newspaperman convicted by a Czech court of espionage, was adopted by the House August 14 and early action by the Senate is expected.

Hvasta, a State Department employe at the time of his arrest, was given a secret trial seven months thereafter. Washington was informed in June, 1949, that Hvasta had been found guilty of espionage and sentenced to three years imprisonment. After an appeal—again heard in secret—Hvasta's sentence was extended to 10 years.

Born in Czechoslovakia in 1927, Hvasta achieved United States citizenship as a minor when his mother was naturalized in 1944. In the formal charges against him, Hvasta has been identified by the Czechs as a Czech citizen. However, the Czech government has not questioned the right of the American State Department to intercede in his behalf.

Although Hvasta had served in the U. S. Navy and had entered Czechoslovakia after World War II as a student under the GI Bill of Rights, his case is different from that of Oatis because under Czech law he is also a citizen of his native country. The Czech government has refused to allow six other persons with claims to American nationality—but who have long resided in Czachoslovakia—to leave the country.

The whole problem of dual nationality is complicated. The United States has always taken the position that foreign governments cannot rightfully assert claims to the allegiance of their nationals who have lawfully obtained naturalization in the United States. Under American law, "all naturalized citizens of the United States, while in foreign countries, are entitled to and shall receive from this government the same protection accorded to native-born citizens."

Since relations with Yugoslavia have bettered, the State Department has been able in the past year to obtain permission to leave that country for 250 persons who claim American nationality. In addition, 30 non-American relatives of those persons have been allowed to come to this country. The State Department in April, 1950, lifted a regulation—in effect since 1948—banning visits to Yugoslavia of American nationals of Yugoslav origin.

A Hague convention of 1930 provides that neither of two states of which an individual has nationality can undertake to protect him while he is in the territory of the other. The United States has never ratified the convention, nor has Yugoslavia or Czechoslovakia.

How Many Wings

In recent days the long-continued controversy over how large an Air Force the United States must build has taken a new turn. Rep. Carl Vinson, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has called for a rapid build-up to 138 combat wings plus 25 troop carrier wings for a total of 163. In addition he would like to see the Navy build three supercarriers, instead of one, capable of handling the heaviest and longest range bombers.

Representative Vinson's estimate of what the Air Force needs differs, by a fairly wide margin, from most of the others which have been advanced. Three years ago the Administration set a 55-wing goal while Congress insisted on an expansion to 70 wings. The Air Force now is moving from a strength of 87 wings to 95. A wing, incidentally, may range from 30 bombers to 75 fighters with their ground crews, supply and other supports.

The public is singularly helpless in trying to reach a decision in a controversy of this sort. It has in its possession incomplete facts and figures about potential enemy strength. It has, in general, only a vague understanding of the difference in striking potential between, say, 150 wings and 163. So when the experts, who have all these data and a wealth of secret, classified information besides, are in violent disagreement, how is the public to judge who is right and who is wrong?.

If there is imminent and real peril, there is only one yardstick which most non-experts feel qualified to apply, and that is one of cost. Granting that the nation needs the most powerful air force in the world, what is the cost of building and maintaining the various-sized air armadas which are being advocated? And can the nation afford to pay the price without wrecking the economy or stripping the Army and Navy below the margin of safety?

Cancan Reception

When 1,500 fighting Americans came home recently from the Korean War they were greeted by the cancan girs on the docks of Seattle. The wolf calls and delighted whistles of the men drowned the harbor noises. The cancan girls had just returned to the line at the dockside after a temporary discontinuance of the dance reception—because the returning soldiers wanted to see the sight. They had heard about it at the front lnes.

The cancan is described in the dictionary as a rollicking dance of French origin, with indecorus gestures. Those who have seen the cancan in Paris can testify that the gestures become quite indecorus. It depends upon the dancers and the locale.

In this country the cancan is the usual feature of so-called 1890 frolics and is hailed with considerable applause, but as for being naughty—well, it's not nearly half as naughty as some of the American-grown burlesque gyrations that are passed off as dances.

Actually, there's no harm in a cancan reception for men who have been in Korea. Certainly there's more zip to such a "hello" than in cliche-infested speeches. And psychologists might even wonder about a returning soldier who would be bored by the sight of a dancing line.

The cancan should be the least of anyone's worries about the men coming back home. There are many more serious problems awaiting the returning fighters —problems of adjustment, problems of health, and the individual problems of the future.

How To Keep Well

Nutrition Plus

Obesity is not common after the age of 65. Some might say it disappears with age but there is a good chance that the opposite is true. In other words, the corpulent individual disappears with age. The lesson to be learned is to take off that "tummy."

America is nutritious conscious and in recent years our national consumption of protective foods has increased considerably. These are the more staple products including meat, eggs, cheese, milk, cereals, fruits, and vegetables. It has been worth while and is showing results, especially in the younger generation. Our boys and girls are taller and healthier. Pregnancy is safer and infant mortality is at a low ebb. Much of this can be traced to our abundance of food and interest in eating properly.

However, there is one fault with having it so good. Many adults are eatig too much and as a result have become overweight. This has gone so far, authorities estimate, that between 25 and 30 per cent of our adult population in America is obese. This has two drawbacks that are hard to overcome. In the first place, a tremendous amount of food is wasted; the portly one eats not only for his body needs but to nourish the excess blubber. The calories required to sustain the superfluous poundage of three overweights probably would feed one other normal individual.

The second objection is that obesity lessens life expectancy and encourages degenerative diseases. Traditionally, the fat man is jolly and easy going but studies have shown that the incidence of high blood pressure and its complications is one and one-half times greater in the corpulent than in persons of normal weight. Statistics also have revealed that, in countries where the food intake is restricted to such an extent that weight loss occurs, there are fewer cases of hypertension and heart trouble. Hardening of the arteries and gout also are associated with excess poundage. Diabetes, too, falls into this category; after weight is taken off many victims improve and less insulin can be used. Even cancer is said to be more prevalent in obesity; perhaps additional food is needed to feed the cancer cells.

Eating is a complex problem. For low income families, it is a matter of choosing and using the foods available to them. By careful planning they are able to obtain the best diet possible with the money and resources at their disposal. Some in this group become overweight because fattening foods are cheaper and easier to prepare. When money is no object, overeating usually is responsible for overweight and the cause can be traced either to a better appetite or psychological needs.

The current trend in the treatment of obesity is to discourage hunger. This plan has become a fertile field for everyone concerned. It is amusing to note how many products have appeared upon the scene, varying from bouillon cubes to candy. Copywriters induce buying with such catchy sentences as "Take our product, eat all you want, and lose weight." The copy never states that while the normal appetite may be suppressed by such tidbits, the abnormal appetite remains unaffected. This is important because it is the obese and not the lean person who is being treated.

SUN AND MOLES

V. T. writes: Could excessive sunlight stimulate moles to become cancerous?

REPLY

I doubt it, but your guess, is as good as mine because we do not know why moles become malignant. Irritation and trauma encourage malignancy and it is conceivable that repeated sunburn will do the same. On the other hand, millions of persons with moles have been exposed to sunlight, yet in only a few has cancer developed.

BEER WITH DROPSY

J. M. writes: Can a person with dropsy drink moderate amounts of beer?

REPLY

No. Beer is a fluid and contains a small amount of salt. It would be difficult to exist without fluid and salt but there is no need for the dropsical individual to consume his entire quota of these substances in beer.

PAIN IN BIG TOE

M. D. writes: What causes pain in the large toe knuckles when I walk?

REPLY

Among the possibilities are bunion, arthritis including the gouty type, and arch disturbances.

BABY PUG

Mrs. K. writes: My 10-month-old infant beats herself to sleep every night. She keeps hitting herself in the face with her fists until she falls asleep exhausted. Do you think she is abnormal?

REPLY

No. This is a variation of head-banging, swaying, and rocking, and seems to satisfy some basic need for rhythm. In older children the practice may satisfy an emotional need. Your child must be related to Baby B-Bomb, which specializes in giving her attendants black eyes.

Berlin A City Of Vivid Contrast During Reds' Youth Rally; Many Supposedly Communistic Youngsters Don't Like Communism; Handouts Not Enough

(ED. NOTE—Drew Pearson is on another tour of Europe, studying conditions there during this period of world tension and crisis. Herewith is another of his cabled dispatches from Europe.)

BERLIN.—I have just spent an evening behind the iron curtain. It's not hard to do here in Berlin where no guards patrol the line between the Russian and American sectors and where, if you flash a White House press card and look reasonably important, you can attend even the most exclusive of the Communist youth shows.

Berlin tonight is a city of vivid dramatic contrast—miles of bunting and flags everywhere, flags of every nation but particularly and ironically the flags of peace. Sandwiched in between almost every national flag is the blue and white emblem of peace. Standing out against the gaunt bomb-gutted ruins of Berlin, they made a genuine appeal to the tired population which never wants to see war again.

There were other contrasts. A Czech youth orchestra in immaculate blue and white uniforms played before the pillars of Berlin's bombed - out opera house. They played well and sang well. At one side stood shiny new Czech buses made in the Skoda Munitions Works. One thousand of these buses brought the Czech youth delegation to this year's rally and they now stood in contrast to the bomb-wrecked weary pillars of the old opera house.

Across from the Kaiser's once-ornate palace which the Russians tore down and removed piece by piece, a great platform stood in front of the bomb-shattered museum. The inside was an empty shell but outside a Russian ballet, a girl in Georgian costume, and Finnish folk dancers all performed. It was Russia's youth exhibition and you had to admit it was good. Lighting, acoustics and staging were all perfect; the music excellent and the dancing supurb. I couldn't tell what the girl in the Georgian costume said when she sang a ballad dedicated to Stalin and I don't think many of the German Communists could, either. But they liked her voice and applauded just the same.

Above the museum, the stone horse given to Kaiser William by Czar Alexander II peered down at this modern-day Communist rally while, on the crowd's edge a group of young Communists peered eagerly at the convertible Ford Mercury in which I had been driven across the iron curtain. On their shirts was written "activist," meaning their job was to whip up and activate enthusiasm among other party members. But they seemed much more enthusiastic about the modern motor production of the West than in communism.

Reds' Youth Rally No Flop

To read the headlines in American newspapers you got the impression that the Berlin youth rally was a flop. It wasn't. No rally which brings 2,000,000 youngsters together from all parts of the world is a flop and it's no use kidding ourselves.

The State Department, with a meagre budget, did a miraculous job of attracting a quarter of a million German youths into the Western sector, giving them food, literature and a sight of the vastly better living standards on our side of the iron curtain. But when the rally was only half over, orders came to close up certain youth depots. The food was costing $12 per day at one center and the State Department's budget was exhausted. Congressmen Taber of New York, Clevenger of Ohio and other economizers had pinched too many pennies and a great opportunity was thus snuffed out.

However, three-quarters of a million other youngsters never entered West Berlin. They braved the straw spread out in schoolrooms for them at night, put up with the poor Communist food and attended ballyhoo programs, all for the sake of Communism. And a score of 75 per cent against 25 per cent means that eventually democracy loses out to communism.

"Ami, Go Home!"

If you arrived early enough and flashed a White House press card, a U. S. military pass or even a District of Columbia police pass, an American could get into the most popular and packed performance of all—the North Korean. Seeing the Korean show gave some idea of the propaganda barrage this youth congress was subjected to. The highlight of their performance was a dance operetta in which a Korean mother, her child killed by Americans, is the heroine. The scene which really brought down the house was that in which she throws three grenades into an American camp. Three Americans then tear her clothes half off and take turns beating her while she takes from her blouse the flag of the peoples republic. Then, just as the Americans tie her to a tree preparing to shoot her, a shot rings out and Korean guerrillas come to her rescue. The heroine then shoots an American officer at point-blank range.

At this point, the audience goes wild; there is 20 minutes of applause; the Korean actors get curtain call after curtain call and Russian ladies rush up to embrace the embarrassed but happy Korean orchestra leader. The audience then leaves, chanting "Ami, Go Home!"—the slogan of derision for Americans thrown at us from the Adriatic to the Baltic.

This is a sample of the propaganda drilled in on the youths at the rally and there's no use in kidding ourselves about its effect.

Selling Ideas Is Important

I sat in one youth center in West Berlin talking to three boys from Saxony—one a carpenter's apprentice, one a locksmith's apprentice, and the third out of work. They sat in the George C. Marshall Building, in one end of which was a soup kitchen while in the center a toy edition of the Santa Fe Railway's "Chief" glided under bridges and over mountains in a huge electric-train exhibit.

Just outside stood "the European trains"—a beautifully built combination of the friendship and freedom trains, showing the importance of uniting Europe. A long line of supposedly Communist youngsters from East Berlin stood waiting to pass through, but the boys I talked to had already seen this impressive train.

As we talked of communism—which they didn't like—I asked what they thought of a United States of Europe.

"That's what we've got to have" said the carpenters' apprentice, banging his fist on the table. "We've got to be united, just as that train says. That's the way to lick communism and the way to lick war."

That remark to me pointed up the chief mistake we are making

Working Hours

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., August 19 —I was asked by a Boston friend to help him find a cottage in Gloucester which he could rent for the summer. On the following Saturday, we visited three real estate offices and all were closed. They were locked and bolted!

Why Merchants Lack Customers

Upon inquiring the reason, I learned that, in view of the recent raise in wages and the 40-hour week law, the real estate and insurance offices tried to "make both ends meet" by closing on Saturdays. This resulted in enabling the office clerks to have more time to themselves; but let us look at the result to the other parties involved.

This closing of the real estate office prevented my friend from renting a cottage because he could come down to look at cottages only during a weekend. The next two weekends were cold and rainy. This caused him to give up renting any cottage this season. I find this caused a loss of work to several different trades needed to be employed for opening up vacant cottages.

Why Living Costs Are High

Whether our sympathies are with these office employers or the clerks, the fact is that everyone involved loses by such nonsense. The clerks have no more money to take home; the real estate offices lose commissions; the cottage owners lose rents and the merchants lose customers. Higher wages may be deserved; but they should not be followed by shorter or fewer working hours which result in less business and higher prices. Certainly, this inflation balloon is bound to collapse sometime.

The plan of keeping an office or store open fewer hours in order to keep costs down is bad for the nation as a whole. Merchants are the bottleneck of business. The fewer hours an office or store is open, the less it sells; the less it sells, the less it buys from the factories. As retail sales decline, the factories are obligated to layoff employes. This unemployment results in less purchasing power and so the trouble increases. Working fewer hours may easily be a cause of the next business depression.

If prosperity is to continue more sales and more production are essential. This requires more work by all of us. "Money-wages" mean nothing until we turn them into "goods". What we can get for our weekly pay, in food, clothing and shelter are our real wages. This can be increased only through increased sales and increased production which requires longer hours, better work and more new inventions. Wageworkers have more goods today because of inventors and laboratories—not due to labor leaders and politicians.

Shall we destroy unions? No! Shall we abolish collective bargaining? No! Shall we enact anti-labor legislation? No! Consumers want satisfied labor with the highest real wages possible. But both employers and wageworkers must cooperate to increase sales and production and the quality of the products. This could be brought about by all agreeing on a wage that "the average" is worth and then pay a bonus for good work and more of it. Incentive pay is the consumer's only hope; and the wageworkers make up 80 per cent of the consumers.

What About Strikes?

Then finished costs would go down, causing lower prices to benefit consumers; while both real wages and real profits would increase likewise. But strikes which are costly to all parties must also be discouraged. It would greatly help in reducing strikes by inserting a clause in every labor contract that neither the labor officials nor the company officials could get any pay while a strike is on! This simple clause would do much to help out us consumers.

Another thought: Returning to my reference to the cottage. The owner of the vacant cottage had some idle money which he had planned to use in building another cottage next door. The fact, however, that he failed to rent his present vacant cottage caused him to give up building the new cottage. This will result in a loss to 27 different industries, from the woodsmen who cut lumber to the electricians, plumbers and painters. Yes, even the City of Gloucester loses one more cottage to tax while the new summer resident would lose a vacation making him more efficient all next year.

Money For Culture

Every once in a while, I come across a program on the radio from Europe that is paid for with the American taxpayers' money. Marshall Plan money, UNESCO money, I suppose Point IV money and now Ford Foundation money (not from the taxpayers), goes to preserve European and Asiatic culture.

If the American people like to spend their money that way and permit Congress to appropriate it to save European and Asiatic culture, particularly music, that is certainly a better way than sending Howard Fast's books to Europe as representative of American literature or sending Orson Welles to South America as an example of our best. This sort of thing cost the taxpayer plenty of money in the years of our alliance with Joe Stalin and of the so-called good neighbor policy.

However, if we are going in for culture all over the world, why do we put a tax on culture at home? The Metropolitan Opera Association occasionally puts forth a mild bleat that if opera is not relieved of taxation, it will close down. Actually, in the United States there are few active and constant opera companies, the Metropolitan being the most important.

Now, if Americans dislike opera and prefer juke-boxes, that is their business, but on the radio, the Metropolitan program of the Texas Company is a great success; such a program of heavy and light opera as the Chicago Tribune provides on Saturday nights is notable, and the audition programs attract attention. In fact, many radio listeners prefer good music to the murders which have recently become a sponsors' delight as a way to keep off controversial subjects.

That opera, which is a non-profit enterprise, should be taxed when churches and schools are not taxed, is characteristic of the intellect of law makers, who lack an understanding of the breadth and fullness of human culture. Certainly it takes no sense to tax American opera and at the same time to subsidize European opera and symphony orchestras. If we are going to spend money on music, why not start at home? Or if we dislike music so much that we must tax it, why subsidize it in Europe?

The top American symphony orchestras face the same problem. The rich tycoons and dowagers who used to make up the deficits are no longer rich, and the parvenues who have discovered windfalls in war and the new deal have no appreciation of music. The result is that the Philharmonic in New York is always in financial difficulties, and even the "Boston" survives because of its profits at Tanglewood to which thousands flock to listen to good music admirably played.

Tanglewood raises a special problem. It is a unique atmosphere in the Berkshires, where in spite of shameful roads and difficult access, an audience that has reached close to 20,000 at times, comes from all parts of the United States.

But the orchestral part of Tanglewood is not the story. It is the school that Serge Koussevitzky founded and nurtured where half the students are on scholarships, that is really important. And although the school is only about 10 years old, more or less, as we say up here, it has already produced a galaxy of American musicians of fine calibre.

That school has a spirit, a faith that is rarely to be found in such places and much of it was due to Koussevitzky's love of young people, of whom he never tired. He created a young people's atmosphere at Tanglewood, so that even those who came only to be seen were subdued by these talented youngsters into worshipful silence.

And now that Koussevitzky is dead, what will become of the school and its scholarships and its inspiration? This year, things have gone well at Tanglewood in the sense that the group that had worked with Koussevitzky continued, and Charles Munch cooperated with characteristic French wit.

Certainly it is as important to keep the school at Tanlewood alive as it is to keep European and Asiatic schools alive. I am not denying the virtue of the latter when I ask for fitting consideration for our own.

There are those who are tone deaf or who prefer "Old Smokey," which is delightful, to Beethoven's Missa Solemnis, which is also thought provoking. But the history of man is garnished by music of each people's own devising. America is producing music, beyond the hurdy-gurdy stage, in the American idiom. Surely a work of love should not be taxed.

Matter Of Fact

Danger At San Francisco

WASHINGTON

Behind the scenes, responsible officials are a great deal more worried by the Soviet decision to attend the Japanese peace treaty conference at San Francisco than they are admitting publicly. They expect Andrei Gromyko to arrive in San Francisco with the familiar olive branch in one hand and the familiar bludgeon in the other. And they fear that this time the Kremlin might actually succeed in using the olive branch and the bludgeon to isolate the United States from its allies.

On one point there is no doubt at all. The Kremlin will go to very great lengths to prevent Japanese rearmament, which is implicit in the treaty ably negotiated by Republican foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles. Direct Soviet action is not, indeed, ruled out.

The Kremlin has the capability of landing a small army of Communist-indoctrinated former Japanese prisoners, organized into at least two divisions, on the undefended Japanese island, Hokkaido. While this "liberation" army was landing, the Japanese Communists might be ordered by the Kremlin to go over to open revolt in southern Japan, now very lightly held by American troops.

Yet this sort of operation would require Soviet air and naval support. And whatever false whiskers the Soviet forces might wear, this would almost certainly bring on an unlimited third World War. Therefore it is considered much more probable that the Kremlin will adopt some such indirect course as the following:

Bludgeon Coming Up

The Korean cease-fire talks will be kept just this side of breakdown. Gromyko will arrive in San Francisco talking sweet reason, saying that the Korean War can still be settled on an acceptable basis, despite the extravagant demands of the Americans. Moreover, the great problems of Asia, like the future of Formosa and the recognition of Communist China, can also settled —if only the signing of the Japanese peace treaty is postponed.

Having disposed of the olive branch, he will then show the bludgeon. The Japanese peace treaty "will not be tolerated" by Russia or China—this the Kremlin has already said. The Soviets and their Chinese allies "will not sit idly by" while "imperialist" Japan is rearmed by "imperialist" America. The Sino-Soviet alliance provides for just such an eventuality. Finally, Gromyko will make it clear that a settlement of the Korean War is not to be expected on the heels of the signing of an "illegal and aggressive" Japanese peace treaty. In brief, the Kremlin's bludgeon will be the specter of a third World War.

If Gromyko does adopt some such course — and it will surprise the best-informed officials if he does not—this country will be placed in a really dangerous position. The Japanese peace treaty is already being denounced, and not only in the Kremlin, as a "white man's treaty." There is very grave doubt that independent Asiatic states like India, Burma and Indonesia can be persuaded to sign it.

Allies Not Enthusiastic

What is more, our Western allies, Britain and France in particular, are anything but enthusiastic about the treaty. The British particularly would be far from pained if Communist China were admitted to the United Nations, and the Formosa question settled in Communist China's favor. An end to the Korean War on reasonable terms, in return for a commitment to discuss such matters and to postpone the Japanese peace treaty, might seem a very tempting package deal to the British and others. This is so particularly if the alternative seemed to be an extension of the Korean War, or some other Sino-Soviet countermove which would be likely to lead to World War.

Yet Dulles, with the full backing of the State and Defense Departments, is deeply convinced that a defensible, sovereign Japan is absolutely essential if the Asiatic balance of power is to be restored. He is equally convinced that the treaty must be signed without delay. Otherwise the Japanese will conclude that the Kremlin is really calling the tune in Asia, and a great rush for the Soviet bandwagon will begin in Japan.

For these reasons, "we'll sign the treaty alone, if necessary," as or official has said. But there is no underestimating the dangers involved. Because of the fear of war, and because there is no real unity on Asiatic policy among the Western partners, the Kremlin may well have the best chance since the war to use the Japanese peace treaty issue to isolate the United States from its allies. The possibility of a sort of limited Sino-Soviet-American war in Asia, in which our Western allies would try to remain precariously neutral, has even been seriously considered. At any rate, it seems clear that a very great crisis may come to a head at San Francisco. As in the past, the best hope of dealing with it lies in standing firm.

U. S. Citizens Jailed By Reds

The Czechoslovakian government has notified the U. S. State Department that an American official will be authorized to visit John Hvasta, 24-year-old Czech-American arrested for espionage in Bratislava in 1948. The meeting—the first between Hvasta and an American government officer since February 23, 1950—is to take place "on or about August 22."

Rep. Rodino (R., N. J.) has introduced a resolution calling upon the executive agencies to take every possible step for Hvasta's release. The resolution would also convey to the United Nations and the Czech government American indignation at the arrest, "sham trial," and imprisonment of Hvasta. A similar resolution on behalf of William Oatis, American newspaperman convicted by a Czech court of espionage, was adopted by the House August 14 and early action by the Senate is expected.

Hvasta, a State Department employe at the time of his arrest, was given a secret trial seven months thereafter. Washington was informed in June, 1949, that Hvasta had been found guilty of espionage and sentenced to three years imprisonment. After an appeal—again heard in secret—Hvasta's sentence was extended to 10 years.

Born in Czechoslovakia in 1927, Hvasta achieved United States citizenship as a minor when his mother was naturalized in 1944. In the formal charges against him, Hvasta has been identified by the Czechs as a Czech citizen. However, the Czech government has not questioned the right of the American State Department to intercede in his behalf.

Although Hvasta had served in the U. S. Navy and had entered Czechoslovakia after World War II as a student under the GI Bill of Rights, his case is different from that of Oatis because under Czech law he is also a citizen of his native country. The Czech government has refused to allow six other persons with claims to American nationality—but who have long resided in Czachoslovakia—to leave the country.

The whole problem of dual nationality is complicated. The United States has always taken the position that foreign governments cannot rightfully assert claims to the allegiance of their nationals who have lawfully obtained naturalization in the United States. Under American law, "all naturalized citizens of the United States, while in foreign countries, are entitled to and shall receive from this government the same protection accorded to native-born citizens."

Since relations with Yugoslavia have bettered, the State Department has been able in the past year to obtain permission to leave that country for 250 persons who claim American nationality. In addition, 30 non-American relatives of those persons have been allowed to come to this country. The State Department in April, 1950, lifted a regulation—in effect since 1948—banning visits to Yugoslavia of American nationals of Yugoslav origin.

A Hague convention of 1930 provides that neither of two states of which an individual has nationality can undertake to protect him while he is in the territory of the other. The United States has never ratified the convention, nor has Yugoslavia or Czechoslovakia.

How Many Wings

In recent days the long-continued controversy over how large an Air Force the United States must build has taken a new turn. Rep. Carl Vinson, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has called for a rapid build-up to 138 combat wings plus 25 troop carrier wings for a total of 163. In addition he would like to see the Navy build three supercarriers, instead of one, capable of handling the heaviest and longest range bombers.

Representative Vinson's estimate of what the Air Force needs differs, by a fairly wide margin, from most of the others which have been advanced. Three years ago the Administration set a 55-wing goal while Congress insisted on an expansion to 70 wings. The Air Force now is moving from a strength of 87 wings to 95. A wing, incidentally, may range from 30 bombers to 75 fighters with their ground crews, supply and other supports.

The public is singularly helpless in trying to reach a decision in a controversy of this sort. It has in its possession incomplete facts and figures about potential enemy strength. It has, in general, only a vague understanding of the difference in striking potential between, say, 150 wings and 163. So when the experts, who have all these data and a wealth of secret, classified information besides, are in violent disagreement, how is the public to judge who is right and who is wrong?.

If there is imminent and real peril, there is only one yardstick which most non-experts feel qualified to apply, and that is one of cost. Granting that the nation needs the most powerful air force in the world, what is the cost of building and maintaining the various-sized air armadas which are being advocated? And can the nation afford to pay the price without wrecking the economy or stripping the Army and Navy below the margin of safety?

Cancan Reception

When 1,500 fighting Americans came home recently from the Korean War they were greeted by the cancan girs on the docks of Seattle. The wolf calls and delighted whistles of the men drowned the harbor noises. The cancan girls had just returned to the line at the dockside after a temporary discontinuance of the dance reception—because the returning soldiers wanted to see the sight. They had heard about it at the front lnes.

The cancan is described in the dictionary as a rollicking dance of French origin, with indecorus gestures. Those who have seen the cancan in Paris can testify that the gestures become quite indecorus. It depends upon the dancers and the locale.

In this country the cancan is the usual feature of so-called 1890 frolics and is hailed with considerable applause, but as for being naughty—well, it's not nearly half as naughty as some of the American-grown burlesque gyrations that are passed off as dances.

Actually, there's no harm in a cancan reception for men who have been in Korea. Certainly there's more zip to such a "hello" than in cliche-infested speeches. And psychologists might even wonder about a returning soldier who would be bored by the sight of a dancing line.

The cancan should be the least of anyone's worries about the men coming back home. There are many more serious problems awaiting the returning fighters —problems of adjustment, problems of health, and the individual problems of the future.

BEER WITH DROPSY

J. M. writes: Can a person with dropsy drink moderate amounts of beer?

REPLY

No. Beer is a fluid and contains a small amount of salt. It would be difficult to exist without fluid and salt but there is no need for the dropsical individual to consume his entire quota of these substances in beer.

PAIN IN BIG TOE

M. D. writes: What causes pain in the large toe knuckles when I walk?

REPLY

Among the possibilities are bunion, arthritis including the gouty type, and arch disturbances.

BABY PUG

Mrs. K. writes: My 10-month-old infant beats herself to sleep every night. She keeps hitting herself in the face with her fists until she falls asleep exhausted. Do you think she is abnormal?

REPLY

No. This is a variation of head-banging, swaying, and rocking, and seems to satisfy some basic need for rhythm. In older children the practice may satisfy an emotional need. Your child must be related to Baby B-Bomb, which specializes in giving her attendants black eyes.

Berlin A City Of Vivid Contrast During Reds' Youth Rally; Many Supposedly Communistic Youngsters Don't Like Communism; Handouts Not Enough

(ED. NOTE—Drew Pearson is on another tour of Europe, studying conditions there during this period of world tension and crisis. Herewith is another of his cabled dispatches from Europe.)

BERLIN.—I have just spent an evening behind the iron curtain. It's not hard to do here in Berlin where no guards patrol the line between the Russian and American sectors and where, if you flash a White House press card and look reasonably important, you can attend even the most exclusive of the Communist youth shows.

Berlin tonight is a city of vivid dramatic contrast—miles of bunting and flags everywhere, flags of every nation but particularly and ironically the flags of peace. Sandwiched in beween almost every national flag is the blue and white emblem of peace. Standing out against the gaunt bomb-gutted ruins of Berlin, they made a genuine appeal to the tired population which never wants to see war again.

There were other contrasts. A Czech youth orchestra in immaculate blue and white uniforms played before the pillars of Berlin's bombed-out opera house. They played well and sang well. At one side stood shiny new Czech buses made in the Skoda Munitions Works. One thousand of these buses brought the Czech youth delegation to this year's rally and they now stood in contrast to the bomb-wrecked weary pillars of the old opera house.

Across from the Kaiser's once-ornate palace which the Russians tore down and removed piece by piece, a great platform stood in front of the bomb-shattered museum. The inside was an empty shell but outside a Russian ballet, a girl in Georgian costume, and Finnish folk dancers all performed. It was Russia's youth exhibition and you had to admit it was good. Lighting, acoustics and staging were all perfect; the music excellent and the dancing supurb. I couldn't tell what the girl in the Georgian costume said when she sang a ballad dedicated to Stalin and I don't think many of the German Communists could, either. But they liked her voice and applauded just the same.

Above the museum, the stone horse given to Kaiser William by Czar Alexander II peered down at this modern-day Communist rally while, on the crowd's edge a group of young Communists peered eagerly at the convertible Ford Mercury in which I had been driven across the iron curtain. On their shirts was written "activist," meaning their job was to whip up and activate enthusiasm among other party members. But they seemed much more enthusiastic about the modern motor production of the West than in communism.

Reds' Youth Rally No Flop

To read the headlines in American newspapers you got the impression that the Berlin youth rally was a flop. It wasn't. No rally which brings 2,000,000 youngsters together from all parts of the world is a flop and it's no use kidding ourselves.

The State Department, with a meagre budget, did a miraculous job of attracting a quarter of a million German youths into the Western sector, giving them food, literature and a sight of the vastly better living standards on our side of the iron curtain. But when the rally was only half over, orders came to close up certain youth depots. The food was costing $12 per day at one center and the State Department's budget was exhausted. Congressmen Taber of New York, Clevenger of Ohio and other economizers had pinched too many pennies and a great opportunity was thus snuffed out.

However, three-quarters of a million other youngsters never entered West Berlin. They braved the straw spread out in schoolrooms for them at night, put up with the poor Communist food and attended ballyhoo programs, all for the sake of Communism. And a score of 75 per cent against 25 per cent means that eventually democracy loses out to communism.

"Ami, Go Home!"

If you arrived early enough and flashed a White House press card, a U. S. military pass or even a District of Columbia police pass, an American could get into the most popular and packed performance of all—the North Korean. Seeing the Korean show gave some idea of the propaganda barrage this youth congress was subjected to. The highlight of their performance was a dance operetta in which a Korean mother, her child killed by Americans, is the heroine. The scene which really brought down the house was that in which she throws three grenades into an American camp. Three Americans then tear her clothes half off and take turns beating her while she takes from her blouse the flag of the peoples republic. Then, just as the Americans tie her to a tree preparing to shoot her, a shot rings out and Korean guerrillas come to her rescue. The heroine then shoots an American officer at point-blank range.

At this point, the audience goes wild; there is 20 minutes of applause; the Korean actors get curtain call after curtain call and Russian ladies rush up to embrace the embarrassed but happy Korean orchestra leader. The audience then leaves, chanting "Ami, Go Home!"—the slogan of derision for Americans thrown at us from the Adriatic to the Baltic.

This is a sample of the propaganda drilled in on the youths at the rally and there's no use in kidding ourselves about its effect.

Selling Ideas Is Important

I sat in one youth center in West Berlin talking to three boys from Saxony—one a carpenter's apprentice, one a locksmith's apprentice, and the third out of work. They sat in the George C. Marshall Building, in one end of which was a soup kitchen while in the center a toy edition of the Santa Fe Railway's "Chief" glided under bridges and over mountains in a huge electric-train exhibit.

Just outside stood "the European trains"—a beautifully built combination of the friendship and freedom trains, showing the importance of uniting Europe. A long line of supposedly Communist youngsters from East Berlin stood waiting to pass through, but the boys I talked to had already seen this impressive train.

As we talked of communism—which they didn't like—I asked what they thought of a United States of Europe.

"That's what we've got to have" said the carpenters' apprentice, banging his fist on the table. "We've got to be united, just as that train says. That's the way to lick communism and the way to lick war."

That remark to me pointed up the chief mistake we are making

Working Hours

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., August 19 —I was asked by a Boston friend to help him find a cottage in Gloucester which he could rent for the summer. On the following Saturday, we visited three real estate offices and all were closed. They were locked and bolted!

Why Merchants Lack Customers

Upon inquiring the reason, I learned that, in view of the recent raise in wages and the 40-hour week law, the real estate and insurance offices tried to "make both ends meet" by closing on Saturdays. This resulted in enabling the office clerks to have more time to themselves; but let us look at the result to the other parties involved.

This closing of the real estate office prevented my friend from renting a cottage because he could come down to look at cottages only during a weekend. The next two weekends were cold and rainy. This caused him to give up renting any cottage this season. I find this caused a loss of work to several different trades needed to be employed for opening up vacant cottages.

Why Living Costs Are High

Whether our sympathies are with these office employers or the clerks, the fact is that everyone involved loses by such nonsense. The clerks have no more money to take home; the real estate offices lose commissions; the cottage owners lose rents and the merchants lose customers. Higher wages may be deserved; but they should not be followed by shorter or fewer working hours which result in less business and higher prices. Certainly, this inflation balloon is bound to collapse sometime.

The plan of keeping an office or store open fewer hours in order to keep costs down is bad for the nation as a whole. Merchants are the bottleneck of business. The fewer hours an office or store is open, the less it sells; the less it sells, the less it buys from the factories. As retail sales decline, the factories are obligated to layoff employes. This unemployment results in less purchasing power and so the trouble increases. Working fewer hours may easily be a cause of the next business depression.

If prosperity is to continue more sales and more production are essential. This requires more work by all of us. "Money-wages" mean nothing until we turn them into "goods". What we can get for our weekly pay, in food, clothing and shelter are our real wages. This can be increased only through increased sales and increased production which requires longer hours, better work and more new inventions. Wageworkers have more goods today because of inventors and laboratories—not due to labor leaders and politicians.

Shall we destroy unions? No! Shall we abolish collective bargaining? No! Shall we enact anti-labor legislation? No! Consumers want satisfied labor with the highest real wages possible. But both employers and wageworkers must cooperate to increase sales and production and the quality of the products. This could be brought about by all agreeing on a wage that "the average" is worth and then pay a bonus for good work and more of it. Incentive pay is the consumer's only hope; and the wageworkers make up 80 per cent of the consumers.

What About Strikes?

Then finished costs would go down, causing lower prices to benefit consumers; while both real wages and real profits would increase likewise. But strikes which are costly to all parties must also be discouraged. It would greatly help in reducing strikes by inserting a clause in every labor contract that neither the labor officials nor the company officials could get any pay while a strike is on! This simple clause would do much to help out us consumers.

Another thought: Returning to my reference to the cottage. The owner of the vacant cottage had some idle money which he had planned to use in building another cottage next door. The fact, however, that he failed to rent his present vacant cottage caused him to give up buliding the new cottage. This will result in a loss to 27 different industries, from the woodsmen who cut lumber to the electricians, plumbers and painters. Yes, even the City of Gloucester loses one more cottage to tax while the new summer resident would lose a vacation making him more efficient all next year.

Money For Culture

Every once in a while, I come across a program on the radio from Europe that is paid for with the American taxpayers' money. Marshall Plan money, UNESCO money, I suppose Point IV money and now Ford Foundation money (not from the taxpayers), goes to preserve European and Asiatic culture.

If the American people like to spend their money that way and permit Congress to appropriate it to save European and Asiatic culture, particularly music, that is certainly a better way than sending Howard Fast's books to Europe as representative of American literature or sending Orson Welles to South America as an example of our best. This sort of thing cost the taxpayer plenty of money in the years of our alliance with Joe Stalin and of the so-called good neighbor policy.

However, if we are going in for culture all over the world, why do we put a tax on culture at home? The Metropolitan Opera Association occasionally puts forth a mild bleat that if opera is not relieved of taxation, it will close down. Actually, in the United States there are few active and constant opera companies, the Metropolitan being the most important.

Now, if Americans dislike opera and prefer juke-boxes, that is their business, but on the radio, the Metropolitan program of the Texas Company is a great success; such a program of heavy and light opera as the Chicago Tribune provides on Saturday nights is notable, and the audition programs attract attention. In fact, many radio listeners prefer good music to the murders which have recently become a sponsors' delight as a way to keep off controversial subjects.

That opera, which is a non-profit enterprise, should be taxed when churches and schools are not taxed, is characteristic of the intellect of law makers, who lack an understanding of the breadth and fullness of human culture. Certainly it takes no sense to tax American opera and at the same time to subsidize European opera and symphony orchestras. If we are going to spend money on music, why not start at home? Or if we dislike music so much that we must tax it, why subsidize it in Europe?

The top American symphony orchestras face the same problem. The rich tycoons and dowagers who used to make up the deficits are no longer rich, and the parvenues who have discovered windfalls in war and the new deal have no appreciation of music. The result is that the Philharmonic in New York is always in financial difficulties, and even the "Boston" survives because of its profits at Tanglewood to which thousands flock to listen to good music admirably played.

Tanglewood raises a special problem. It is a unique atmosphere in the Berkshires, where in spite of shameful roads and difficult access, an audience that has reached close to 20,000 at times, comes from all parts of the United States.

But the orchestral part of Tanglewood is not the story. It is the school that Serge Koussevitzky founded and nurtured where half the students are on scholarships, that is really important. And although the school is only about 10 years old, more or less, as we say up here, it has already produced a galaxy of American musicians of fine calibre.

That school has a spirit, a faith that is rarely to be found in such places and much of it was due to Koussevitzky's love of young people, of whom he never tired. He created a young people's atmosphere at Tanglewood, so that even those who came only to be seen were subdued by these talented youngsters into worshipful silence.

And now that Koussevitzky is dead, what will become of the school and its scholarships and its inspiration? This year, things have gone well at Tanglewood in the sense that the group that had worked with Koussevitzky continued, and Charles Munch cooperated with characteristic French wit.

Certainly it is as important to keep the school at Tanlewood alive as it is to keep European and Asiatic schools alive. I am not denying the virtue of the latter when I ask for fitting consideration for our own.

There are those who are tone deaf or who prefer "Old Smokey," which is delightful, to Beethoven's Missa Solemnis, which is also thought provoking. But the history of man is garnished by music of each people's own devising. America is producing music, beyond the hurdy-gurdy stage, in the American idiom. Surely a work of love should not be taxed.

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

Behind the scenes, responsible officials are a great deal more worried by the Soviet decision to attend the Japanese peace treaty conference at San Francisco than they are admitting publicly. They expect Andrei Gromyko to arrive in San Francisco with the familiar olive branch in one hand and the familiar bludgeon in the other. And they fear that this time the Kremlin might actually succeed in using the olive branch and the bludgeon to isolate the United States from its allies.

On one point there is no doubt at all. The Kremlin will go to very great lengths to prevent Japanese rearmament, which is implicit in the treaty ably negotiated by Republican foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles. Direct Soviet action is not, indeed, ruled out.

The Kremlin has the capability of landing a small army of Communist-indoctrinated former Japanese prisoners, organized into at least two divisions, on the undefended Japanese island, Hokkaido. While this "liberation" army was landing, the Japanese Communists might be ordered by the Kremlin to go over to open revolt in southern Japan, now very lightly held by American troops.

Yet this sort of operation would require Soviet air and naval support. And whatever false whiskers the Soviet forces might wear, this would almost certainly bring on an unlimited third World War. Therefore it is considered much more probable that the Kremlin will adopt some such indirect course as the following:

Bludgeon Coming Up

The Korean cease-fire talks will be kept just this side of breakdown. Gromyko will arrive in San Francisco talking sweet reason, saying that the Korean War can still be settled on an acceptable basis, despite the extravagant demands of the Americans. Moreover, the great problems of Asia, like the future of Formosa and the recognition of Communist China, can also settled —if only the signing of the Japanese peace treaty is postponed.

Having disposed of the olive branch, he will then show the bludgeon. The Japanese peace treaty "will not be tolerated" by Russia or China—this the Kremlin has already said. The Soviets and their Chinese allies "will not sit idly by" while "imperialist" Japan is rearmed by "imperialist" America. The Sino-Soviet alliance provides for just such an eventuality. Finally, Gromyko will make it clear that a settlement of the Korean War is not to be expected on the heels of the signing of an "illegal and aggressive" Japanese peace treaty. In brief, the Kremlin's bludgeon will be the specter of a third World War.

If Gromyko does adopt some such course — and it will surprise the best-informed officials if he does not—this country will be placed in a really dangerous position. The Japanese peace treaty is already being denounced, and not only in the Kremlin, as a "white man's treaty." There is very grave doubt that independent Asiatic states like India, Burma and Indonesia can be persuaded to sign it.

Allies Not Enthusiastic

What is more, our Western allies, Britain and France in particular, are anything but enthusiastic about the treaty. The British particularly would be far from pained if Communist China were admitted to the United Nations, and the Formosa question settled in Communist China's favor. An end to the Korean War on reasonable terms, in return for a commitment to discuss such matters and to postpone the Japanese peace treaty, might seem a very tempting package deal to the British and others. This is so particularly if the alternative seemed to be an extension of the Korean War, or some other Sino-Soviet countermove which would be likely to lead to World War.

Yet Dulles, with the full backing of the State and Defense Departments, is deeply convinced that a defensible, sovereign Japan is absolutely essential if the Asiatic balance of power is to be restored. He is equally convinced that the treaty must be signed without delay. Otherwise the Japanese will conclude that the Kremlin is really calling the tune in Asia, and a great rush for the Soviet bandwagon will begin in Japan.

For these reasons, "we'll sign the treaty alone, if necessary," as an official has said. But there is no underestimating the dangers involved. Because of the fear of war, and because there is no real unity on Asiatic policy among the Western partners, the Kremlin may well have the best chance since the war to use the Japanese peace treaty issue to isolate the United States from its allies. The possibility of a sort of limited Sino-Soviet-American war in Asia, in which our Western allies would try to remain precariously neutral, has even been seriously considered. At any rate, it seems clear that a very great crisis may come to a head at San Francisco. As in the past, the best hope of dealing with it lies in standing firm.

University Seeks Better Broilers

Poor Feathering Being Studied

Because market quality of broilers is one of the chief factors which determines the success of the broiler grower, the University of Maryland started an experiment involving 8,000 birds to study some of the factors which affect poor feathering. Sixteen pens of 500 broilers each were started August 10 at the University's Broiler Experimental Station at Salisbury, Md.

Feathering differs among broilers of various strains and breeds. Nutrition and management may cause variations, too. According to Dr. G. F. Combs, professor of poultry nutrition, the effects of changes in the ration on feather quality of broilers will be studied in this trial.

This trial involves a study of the need for supplemental nicotinic acid and pantothenic acid in a practical-type ration in order to obtain well-feathered broilers at 10 weeks of age. The effect of replacing corn with 5 percent pulverized oats, 5 percent wheat standard middlings, or 5 percent pulverized oats and 5 percent wheat standard middlings will also be tested.

One group will also receive protamone (containing the hormone, thyroxine). Thyroxine is known to affect feather growth and may improve feather development during the summer months since the chicken normally secretes less thyroxine during hot weather.

Dr. Combs believes this trial will supply some important answers which will aid in the production of good-quality broilers.

in our battle against communism. In Berlin, Moscow was selling an idea—we were handing out soup and bread. In the rest of Europe, Moscow has been selling an idea—we've been handing out Marshall Plan money to build buildings, railroads and roads. These are important. But sometimes people will fight harder for an idea than for full stomachs.

What we could do very easily and where we have been missing the boat is to sell both an idea and bread—the idea of uniting Europe and preventing war. We've hinted at this from time to time but until we sell that constructive idea and sell it hard the Communists may be able to continue outselling us with their phony idea on a 75-to-25 ratio.

Peach Thinning Process Related

Fruit Specialist Gives Advantages

It's not to late to thin off any cull peaches or to thin off any peaches where the branches are too heavily loaded so that tree breakage is threatened. A. F. Vierheller, Extension fruit specialist from the University of Maryland points out that thinning of fruit is an attempt to balance the load so that the tree can nourish the fruits to best advantage. It requires about 30 leaves to develop a good peach. While it is best to thin early, it is never to late to thin.

Peaches grow to a certain size, early in the season, then they go through a stone-hardening period during which the fruit sizes only moderately. During the final two weeks before maturity, the peach goes into a "final swell", as it sizes rapidly.

Since the leaves of any plant are the digestive parts, thinning peaches so there is proper balance of leaves and fruits allows for more starches, sugars and other nutrients per fruit. Sugar make flavor and also build color. so thinning causes better size, flavor and color.

"It may seem strange," Mr. Vierheller says, "but thinning usually does not reduce yields. There are less fruits but larger ones, so the yield may even be increased through thinning. Surely quality is improved."

Court Sustains Peddling Law

The so-called "Green River" ordinance, which prohibits door-to-door peddling by book agents, magazine salesmen and other peddlers was recently sustained by the United States Supreme Court.

The original ordinance, according to the August Newsletter of the Maryland Municipal League, has been adopted by more than four hundred cities and towns since 1931, it was first enacted by Green River, Wis. The recent court decision sustaining the ordinance involved an adaptation of it by the City of Alexandria, La.

In its decision, the Supreme Court stated, "Subscriptions may be made by anyone interested in receiving the magazine without the annoyance of house-to-house canvassing. We think these communities that have found these methods of sale obnoxious may control them by ordinance."

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Good Manners And Drinking

Lord Northcliffe, the proprietor of many newspapers, invited me to his house to dinner when I was in London in 1919. We got to talking about the great experiment, prohibition, as the country was on the brink of it at that time.

John Wheeler

"I never saw a creative man worth his salt who was a teetotaler," remarked my host. "Can you name one?"

I fidgeted around nervously in my brain and finally came up with William Jennings Bryan who was scratched on the grounds he didn't fill the prescription. Of course, if I had been quick-witted, I could have nominated a neighbor who lived right down the street, George Bernard Shaw. So Northcliffe carried his point, although he later went on the water wagon himself, swallowing large doses of charged water and smoking big black cigars. He died in a couple of years, but maybe that had nothing to do with it.

My wife contends drinking does not improve anyone or light up a spark, casting sidelong glances at me as she discourses on the subject. I don't agree and name outstanding examples which she brushes off like she does most of my answers. We recently had a chance to observe boozing in summer resorts on a brief tour when we stopped for a couple of days at a dude ranch. There were 17 horses and about 50 customers, so while a few rode western saddles, most of the rest mounted bar stools. You should see some of the boys and girls in blue jeans and jodhpurs taking a 9 o'clock gallop in the hot sun with a hangover.

John L. Sullivan, the former heavyweight champion of the world, was a great and loud drinker. A friend of mine went into a saloon one night and was introduced to the champ. The man was smoking a 25 cent cigar, and suddenly he saw a big fist coming towards his face. He thought maybe John L. was going to practice on him until he reached down, pulled the heater from between my friend's lips and stuck it in his own mouth. Then he turned to him and said,

"I want you to know I wouldn't do that for every So And So." This was considered a compliment in those days.

Booth Tarkington, always a delightful gentleman, was quite a drinker in his youth and an amusing one. Many years before he died, he quit entirely and used to preach on the evils of alcohol to his friends. Hugh McNair Kahler, the editor, and I were reminiscing the other day about Tark and some of his pranks and strangely enough the funny ones always seemed to have occurred during the period when he was sipping cocktails. After he retired from the cafe circuit, he was introduced to a dignified gentleman one day and instead of shaking hands, the newcomer backed away.

"He explained to me afterwards," went on Mr. Kahler, "he had met Tark years ago and, as they shook hands, he dropped a lighted cigaret in his handkerchief pocket, and then poured a glass of beer on top of it to douse the threatened fire."

Lou Maxon, the advertising tycoon, gets more gallant and generous, if possible, when slightly stimulated. He wants to pick up all the checks in sight. We went to Europe together and met two young ladies on the ship, one very pretty and the other would never be mistaken for Elizabeth Taylor or Rita Hayworth. The night before we landed we sat up very late, as my companion wanted to see the coast of France when we called at Cherbourg. About 10 the next morning he was struggling to get dressed in our cabin and not feeling like doing road work or taking setting-up exercises.

"What are you doing?" I asked him from my bunk.

"Trying to shave without cutting my throat," he answered. "I made a date to meet that girl this morning in the smoking room—the ugly one."

"Why do you keep it?" I suggested. "You'll probably never see her again after we land."

"You're right," he answered, "but she's so damn homely, I don't want to offend her."

That's one for Emily Post's book.

Ever buy a car from this angle?

SURE, a trim new Buick makes a mighty pretty picture when you see it in your driveway, or watch it wheel by.

But if you could get a mechanic's-eye view of this big, broad beauty as it sits on a lift, you'd see an impressive picture of rugged brawn that makes good-to-look-at Buicks give such a good account of themselves on the road.

You'd see the full-length torque-tube drive that firms the whole power relay system, and steadies your going like a giant hand beneath you.

You'd see big sturdy wheels with really wide rims that provide surer footing, give better car control, make tires last longer.

You'd see all four wheels cushioned by stout coil springs that are completely service-free, practically breakproof—and a principal reason for the ever-level Buick ride.

University Seeks Better Broilers

Poor Feathering Being Studied

Because market quality of broilers is one of the chief factors which determines the success of the broiler grower, the University of Maryland started an experiment involving 8,000 birds to study some of the factors which affect poor feathering. Sixteen pens of 500 broilers each were started August 10 at the University's Broiler Experimental Station at Salisbury, Md.

Feathering differs among broilers of various strains and breeds. Nutrition and management may cause variations, too. According to Dr. G. F. Combs, professor of poultry nutrition, the effects of changes in the ration on feather quality of broilers will be studied in this trial.

This trial involves a study of the need for supplemental nicotinic acid and pantothenic acid in a practical-type ration in order to obtain well-feathered broiler, at 10 weeks of age. The effect of replacing corn with 5 percent pulverized oats, 5 percent wheat standard middlings, or 5 percent pulverized oats and 5 percent wheat standard middlings will also be tested.

One group will also receive protamone (containing the hormone, thyroxine). Thyroxine is known to affect feather growth and may improve feather development during the summer months since the chicken normally secretes less thyroxine during hot weather.

Dr. Combs believes this trial will supply some important answers which will aid in the production of good-quality broilers.

in our battle against communism. In Berlin, Moscow was selling an idea—we were handing out soup and bread. In the rest of Europe, Moscow has been selling an idea—we've been handing out Marshall Plan money to build buildings, railroads and roads. These are important. But sometimes people will fight harder for an idea than for full stomachs.

What we could do very easily and where we have been missing the boat is to sell both an idea and bread—the idea of uniting Europe and preventing war. We've hinted at this from time to time but until we sell that constructive idea and sell it hard the Communists may be able to continue outselling us with their phony idea on a 75-to-25 ratio.

Peach Thinning Process Related

Fruit Specialist Gives Advantages

It's not to late to thin off any cull peaches or to thin off any peaches where the branches are too heavily loaded so that tree breakage is threatened. A. F. Vierheller, Extension fruit specialist from the University of Maryland points out that thinning of fruit is an attempt to balance the load so that the tree can nourish the fruits to best advantage. It requires about 30 leaves to develop a good peach. While it is best to thin early, it is never to late to thin.

Peaches grow to a certain size, early in the season, then they go through a stone-hardening period during which the fruit sizes only moderately. During the final two weeks before maturity, the peach goes into a "final swell", as it sizes rapidly.

Since the leaves of any plant are the digestive parts, thinning peaches so there is proper balance of leaves and fruits allows for more starches, sugars and other nutrients per fruit. Sugar make flavor and also build color. so thinning causes better size, flavor and color.

"It may seem strange," Mr. Vierheller says, "but thinning usually does not reduce yields. There are less fruits but larger ones, so the yield may even be increased through thinning. Surely quality is improved."

Court Sustains Peddling Law

The so-called "Green River" ordinance, which prohibits door-to-door peddling by book agents, magazine salesmen and other peddlers was recently sustained by the United States Supreme Court.

The original ordinance, according to the August Newsletter of the Maryland Municipal League, has been adopted by more than four hundred cities and towns since 1931, it was first enacted by Green River, Wis. The recent court decision sustaining the ordinance involved an adaptation of it by the City of Alexandria, La.

In its decision, the Supreme Court stated, "Subscriptions may be made by anyone interested in receiving the magazine without the annoyance of house-to-house canvassing. We think these communities that have found these methods of sale obnoxious may control them by ordinance."

Porpoise Mistaken For Floating Body

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 19 (AP)—A call came into state police headquarters today:

There is a body floating just off North Beach Park.

An undertaker was called and officers joined him in hurrying to the scene.

The "body" was that of a porpoise.

But, said the people who called, it looked just like a man with a bald head.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Good Manners And Drinking

Lord Northcliffe, the proprietor of many newspapers, invited me to his house to dinner when I was in London in 1919. We got to talking about the great experiment, prohibition, as the country was on the brink of it at that time.

John Wheeler

"I never saw a creative man worth his salt who was a teetotaler," remarked my host. "Can you name one?"

I fidgeted around nervously in my brain and finally came up with William Jennings Bryan who was scratched on the grounds he didn't fill the prescription. Of course, if I had been quick-witted, I could have nominated a neighbor who lived right down the street, George Bernard Shaw. So Northcliffe carried his point, although he later went on the water wagon himself, swallowing large doses of charged water and smoking big black cigars. He died in a couple of years, but maybe that had nothing to do with it.

My wife contends drinking does not improve anyone or light up a spark, casting sidelong glances at me as she discourses on the subject. I don't agree and name outstanding examples which she brushes off like she does most of my answers. We recently had a chance to observe boozing in summer resorts on a brief tour when we stopped for a couple of days at a dude ranch. There were 17 horses and about 50 customers, so while a few rode western saddles, most of the rest mounted bar stools. You should see some of the boys and girls in blue jeans and jodhpurs taking a 9 o'clock gallop in the hot sun with a hangover.

John L. Sullivan, the former heavyweight champion of the world, was a great and loud drinker. A friend of mine went into a saloon one night and was introduced to the champ. The man was smoking a 25 cent cigar, and suddenly he saw a big fist coming towards his face. He thought maybe John L. was going to practice on him until he reached down, pulled the heater from between my friend's lips and stuck it in his own mouth. Then he turned to him and said,

"I want you to know I wouldn't do that for every So And So." This was considered a compliment in those days.

Booth Tarkington, always a delightful gentleman, was quite a drinker in his youth and an amusing one. Many years before he died, he quit entirely and used to preach on the evils of alcohol to his friends. Hugh McNair Kahler, the editor, and I were reminiscing the other day about Tark and some of his pranks and strangely enough the funny ones always seemed to have occurred during the period when he was sipping cocktails. After he retired from the cafe circuit, he was introduced to a dignified gentleman one day and instead of shaking hands, the newcomer backed away.

"He explained to me afterwards," went on Mr. Kahler, "he had met Tark years ago and, as they shook hands, he dropped a lighted cigaret in his handkerchief pocket, and then poured a glass of beer on top of it to douse the threatened fire."

Lou Maxon, the advertising tycoon, gets more gallant and generous, if possible, when slightly stimulated. He wants to pick up all the checks in sight. We went to Europe together and met two young ladies on the ship, one very pretty and the other would never be mistaken for Elizabeth Taylor or Rita Hayworth. The night before we landed we sat up very late, as my companion wanted to see the coast of France when we called at Cherbourg. About 10 the next morning he was struggling to get dressed in our cabin and not feeling like doing road work or taking setting-up exercises.

"What are you doing?" I asked him from my bunk.

"Trying to shave without cutting my throat," he answered. "I made a date to meet that girl this morning in the smoking room—the ugly one."

"Why do you keep it?" I suggested. "You'll probably never see her again after we land."

"You're right," he answered, "but she's so damn homely, I don't want to offend her."

That's one for Emily Post's book.

Ever buy a car from this angle?

SURE, a trim new Buick makes a mighty pretty picture when you see it in your driveway, or watch it wheel by.

But if you could get a mechanic's-eye view of this big, broad beauty as it sits on a lift, you'd see an impressive picture of rugged brawn that makes good-to-look-at Buicks give such a good account of themselves on the road.

You'd see the full-length torque-tube drive that firms the whole power relay system, and steadies your going like a giant hand beneath you.

You'd see big sturdy wheels with really wide rims that provide surer footing, give better car control, make tires last longer.

You'd see all four wheels cushioned by stout coil springs that are completely service-free, practically breakproof – and a principal reason for the ever-level Buick ride.

But mainly, you'd see the massive foundation that backbones every Buick – the deep, wide, X-member frame that's rugged as a rock, and a brute for strength.

So when you look at the beauty of a Buick—the big mileage power of its valve-in-head Fireball Engine—and the moneysaving ability of its Dynaflow Drive*—don't overlook the tough stamina that goes with it all.

And don't overlook the fact that a new '51 Buick, with all its heft, costs less per pound than any other car of comparable size, structure and weight.

Better come see us first chance you get—and find out what a smart buy this is—from every angle.

Watch Out For Ray Guns

The rivalry between the Pepsi-Cola and Coca Cola companies, the Hatfields and McCoys of the merchandise mart, reached its zenith in the last couple of months. The Coca Cola people accidentally drew June at the Atlantic City convention of the American Medical Association. A normal birth televised in color for the first time over a closed circuit and was witnessed by 1,500 persons at the convention hall. The mother, Mrs James Gallagher while giving birth twelve ounce boy, sipped Coca Cola in three colors, a feat of inadvertent promotion almost equal to Anna Held's milk baths.

John Crosby

"How," I kept asking myself, tossing in my bed, "is Faye Emerson, the Pepsi girl, going to top this one?"

Well, she didn't top it exactly. But she matched it last week on her "Wonderful Town" show. The Wonderful Town of the week was, of all places, Atlanta, Ga., the home town, or more properly, the seat of the empire of the Coca Cola company. Miss Emerson rounded up some of the town's most conspicuous residents and alumni, Coca Cola tipplers all, and plied them with Pepsi Cola, an act of lese majeste almost as grave as shooting Princess Elizabeth. Never once was the name Coca Cola mentioned though everything else that came out of Atlanta was.

According to the way I score these corporate boxing matches, this one is a draw, though a bloody one. I think both of these big boys, Pepsi and Coca, better take a long rest before staging a rematch. I san't stand much more of this blood-letting.

As of today, Captain Video—the real Captain Video (Al Hodge) is on vacation. Just before he left, Captain Video slipped on a black hood but the man in the black hood this week, kiddies, is just an impersonator, not the real man at all. In other words, we're all in mortal danger until next Monday. As any fool knows, Captain Video has been protecting us earthlings from all manner of fiends from the other planets, boys who really play rough.

It was only a little while ago that Balgar, an arch-fiend from another planet, blew into town (which on this program designates the entire globe). He'd snap his fingers, this particular arch-fiend, and his victims would disintegrate. They didn't die; they turned into vapor which Balgar stuffed into bottles in case he wanted them back some time. If it hadn't been for Captain Video, who ended this medical malpractice in a hurry, we'd all be in bottles by now.

And now, with the world—and especially outer space—in the shape it's in, Video has to go off on vacation, leaving us all defenseless. Till next Monday, kids, keep a sharp eye peeled for arch-fiends. Hit the dirt when you see anything resembling a ray-gun. Watch out for strange space ships. You're on your own this week.

Well, just one more then, this one from my Stork Club collection which is one of the world's most fabulous — an expression I picked up somewhere.

"And now," said the announced, "here is the world's most fabulous host—Sherman Billingsley."

The world's most fabulous fell into discussion with an Army captain. "Ya wanna hear a funny story," said fabulous. "There was a boy killed in Italy and he was killed in the same town where his father was born."

Well, it is a funny story. I haven't laughed so hard since old Bargar was stuffing people into bottles.

Watch Out For Ray Guns

The rivalry between the Pepsi-Cola and Coca Cola companies, the Hatfields and McCoys of the merchandise mart, reached its zenith in the last couple of months. The Coca Cola people accidentally drew June at the Atlantic City convention of the American Medical Association. A normal birth televised in color for the first time over a closed circuit and was witnessed by 1,500 persons at the convention hall. The mother, Mrs James Gallagher while giving birth to a nine-pound, twelve ounce boy, sipped Coca Cola in three colors, a feat of inadvertent promotion almost equal to Anna Held's milk baths.

John Crosby

"How," I kept asking myself, tossing in my bed, "is Faye Emerson, the Pepsi girl, going to top this one?"

Well, she didn't top it exactly. But she matched it last week on her "Wonderful Town" show. The Wonderful Town of the week was, of all places, Atlanta, Ga., the home town, or more properly, the seat of the empire of the Coca Cola company. Miss Emerson rounded up some of the town's most conspicuous residents and alumni, Coca Cola tipplers all, and plied them with Pepsi Cola, an act of lese majeste almost as grave as shooting Princess Elizabeth. Never once was the name Coca Cola mentioned though everything else that came out of Atlanta was.

According to the way I score these corporate boxing matches, this one is a draw, though a bloody one. I think both of these big boys, Pepsi and Coca, better take a long rest before staging a rematch. I can't stand much more of this blood-letting.

As of today, Captain Video—the real Captain Video (Al Hodge) is on vacation. Just before he left, Captain Video slipped on a black hood but the man in the black hood this week, kiddies, is just an impersonator, not the real man at all. In other words, we're all in mortal danger until next Monday. As any fool knows, Captain Video has been protecting us earthlings from all manner of fiends from the other planets, boys who really play rough.

It was only a little while ago that Balgar, an arch-fiend from another planet, blew into town (which on this program designates the entire globe). He'd snap his fingers, this particular arch-fiend, and his victims would disintegrate. They didn't die; they turned into vapor which Balgar stuffed into bottles in case he wanted them back some time. If it hadn't been for Captain Video, who ended this medical malpractice in a hurry, we'd all be in bottles by now.

And now, with the world—and especially outer space—in the shape it's in, Video has to go off on vacation, leaving us all defenseless. Till next Monday, kids, keep a sharp eye peeled for arch-fiends. Hit the dirt when you see anything resembling a ray-gun. Watch out for strange space ships. You're on your own this week.

Well, just one more then, this one from my Stork Club collection which is one of the world's most fabulous — an expression I picked up somewhere.

"And now," said the announced, "here is the world's most fabulous host—Sherman Billingsley."

The world's most fabulous fell into discussion with an Army captain. "Ya wanna hear a funny story," said fabulous. "There was a boy killed in Italy and he was killed in the same town where his father was born."

Well, it is a funny story. I haven't laughed so hard since old Bargar was stuffing people into bottles.

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, 9ug. 19 (INS) — It will be something, won't it, if John Agar gets a new lease on his career at the studio where his ex,—Shirley Temple, once reigned as queen bee?

Quietly, Agar tested Saturday at 20th Century-Fox for the lead opposite Mitzi Gaynor in "I Don't Care Girl," the Eva Tanguay story.

George Jessel, who wrote the story and will produce, tells me he is personally pulling for Agar.

"He's perfect for the part opposite Mitzi, our new zing girl," says Jessel, "I hope he gets it."

If 20th isn't hot in the bidding for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" — how come luscious, blonde Marilyn Monroe is being sent to New York to see the way Carol Channing plays the dauntless dumbbell?

Yes, before Marilyn reports to RKO for "Clash By Night" she makes a special trip to the big town to see the Anita Loos-Joe Fields hit in action.

Physically, Marlyn fills the bill—but whether she is experienced enough to take on such a top comedy performance remains to be seen.

• — • — •

Zachary Scott, who's been around in his time, is acting like a fluttery Spanish duena over his 16-year-old daughter, Waverley's, first date.

Waverley is double-dating tomorrow night with her best girl friend, and Maureen O'Hara's two Irish brothers, Charles and James Fitzsimons.

After ten thousand words of advice and paternal orders — Zach made a reservation for the kids for the early show at Ciro's; ordered flowers for the table, instructed the captain about food and ginger-ale—and then decided to go along himself!

Rita Hayworth's dinner partner at Dolly Parker's party honoring Anthony Eden was Russell Nype.

Shimmering like a diamond in an ice-blue satin gown, Rita was gay, charming and beautiful at the first social affair she's attended since her return.

Young Nype did not escort her home. Rita arrived and departed alone.

Other beauties at the same party — Greer Garson, Deborah Kerr, Ethel Barrymore, Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Janet Gaynor and lovely Lorena Mayer.

Bob Topping off on a three weeks fishing trip in Oregon. To cool things off between him and Lana Turner?

Marlon Brando better jack up his sense of humor. There's a take-off on him in Gloria Swanson's new comedy, a character named Conde Marlo who wears sweat shirts and sneakers and talks like he had adenoids, just like our boy Marlon.

Stanley Kramer gunning for Bette Davis for "Ethan Frome." He bought it from Warners where it was originally intended for Bette.

Jerry Lewis' doctor told him to play golf because, "the only air you've inhaled in years is from night club ventilators."

A happy girl is Sophie Tucker, just named "outstanding woman citizen" of the year by the National Ladies Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans of the United States. Last year's award went to Eleanor Roosevelt.

Another, jivin' with joy is Bob Clarke who has just found out he's in the "first ten" in film magazine's fan pool of the most popular newcomers. Bob clicked big in "Hard, Fast and Beautiful."

Blanche Ring, veteran musical star, is very ill in St. John's Hospital. She recently divorced Charles Winninger after a separation of 27 years.

Marjane, French singing star, seriously injured in an automobile accident just out of Quebec, is in a hospital there. She made a hit recently in her engagement at the Mocambo.

Fred Astaire, off to Kentucky to buy horses, after he finishes his MGM picture.

Johnny Meyer, of pick-up-the-check publicity, looks blue picking up checks all by his lonesome since his parting with Patti.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Why let ridged nails spoil your fingertip beauty? Some can be cured; others improved! Here's how.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

You have more control over the beauty at your fingertips than most women realize. Nail flaws are the easiest to mend. Even the ridged nail is preventable, curable, or disguisable. Does that surprise you? Well, just give a thought to these causes and remedies:

Ridges that run across the nail are usually caused by rough treatment and the ensuing bruises. If you have crosswise ridges, be more cautious in the way you use your hands; avoid blows and sharp encounters with your nails.

Smooth Fingertips

Be especially careful in your manicure techniques. Perhaps you should give up your regular cuticle shaping for a while. The wielding of orange sticks and similar tools can inflict damage readily, causing crosswise ridges that take months to grow out. You can control your cuticle very satisfactorily by soaking your hands in warm, sudsy water. Then push the cuticle back gently with a soft towel.

If your nails bear verticle ridges and always have, there's a good chance that you have inherited them along with your grandmother's pearls. Camouflage is the only course open to you. Try this artifice for miracle results:

During your weekly manicure, after you have removed polish and soaked and dried your hands, place a drop of hot olive oil on each nail. Let it remain on for fifteen minutes. Rinse and dry your hands again.

Camouflage Technique

Now, (be careful about this—easy does it!) using the smooth side of an emery board, gently rub it across the ridges from the top to the moon. Do not saw. At no time try to remove any more than the horny top of the ridges. Twice over lightly is enough each week. The slight ridging that is always sure to be left can be covered with a base and three thin coats of polish.

Should all your nails suddenly develop ridges, most likely it is an indication that your physical condition is not as good as it should be. Then, consult your doctor—with your nails free of polish for his scrutiny. You have signs of health as well as beauty at your finger tips.

Tomorrow: Nurturing a youthful-looking skin.

That kind of bidding produced a doubled 4-Spades contract for South at most tables of a big duplicate game. In all of those cases West led the diamond K. But the result was not the same everywhere, though every East gave his partner a high-card signal on the opening trick. Some used the J and some the Q. Where the larger card was employed as a signal, the declarer was set two tricks. Where the lower honor was played, he went down only one.

Why such a difference?

Where the Q was played, West knew he could next underlead his A, which he did, leading the 8 to the second trick. East won with the J and shifted at once to the heart 3. The Q won that, then the A scored. That put South down one, and a later trick with the spade Q made it two.

When East put the J on the first trick, every West next scored his diamond A. On that East put the 3, completing a high-low, whereupon West then led the diamond 8. This brought East's Q and a ruff by South with the spade 4. The spade A and K were scored, the club Q led to the A, the diamond 7 ruffed by the spade 8 to clear that suit from everybody's hand, the club K and J scored, South discarding the heart 5, and the spade 9 was then led to West's Q. West now had nothing left but his heart A-Q-7, while South had the spade 10 and heart K-8. West therefore had to give South a trick with the K. It was a nice throw-in play.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, 9ug. 19 (INS) — It will be something, won't it, if John Agar gets a new lease on his career at the studio where his ex,—Shirley Temple, once reigned as queen bee?

Quietly, Agar tested Saturday at 20th Century-Fox for the lead opposite Mitzi Gaynor in "I Don't Care Girl," the Eva Tanguay story.

George Jessel, who wrote the story and will produce, tells me he is personally pulling for Agar.

"He's perfect for the part opposite Mitzi, our new zing girl," says Jessel, "I hope he gets it."

If 20th isn't hot in the bidding for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" — how come luscious, blonde Marilyn Monroe is being sent to New York to see the way Carol Channing plays the dauntless dumbbell?

Yes, before Marilyn reports to RKO for "Clash By Night" she makes a special trip to the big town to see the Anita Loos-Joe Fields hit in action.

Physically, Marlyn fills the bill—but whether she is experienced enough to take on such a top comedy performance remains to be seen.

Zachary Scott, who's been around in his time, is acting like a fluttery Spanish duena over his 16-year-old daughter, Waverley's, first date.

Waverley is double-dating tomorrow night with her best girl friend, and Maureen O'Hara's two Irish brothers, Charles and James Fitzsimons.

After ten thousand words of advice and paternal orders — Zach made a reservation for the kids for the early show at Ciro's; ordered flowers for the table, instructed the captain about food and ginger-ale—and then decided to go along himself!

Rita Hayworth's dinner partner at Dolly Parker's party honoring Anthony Eden was Russell Nype.

Shimmering like a diamond in an ice-blue satin gown, Rita was gay, charming and beautiful at the first social affair she's attended since her return.

Young Nype did not escort her home. Rita arrived and departed alone.

Other beauties at the same party — Greer Garson, Deborah Kerr, Ethel Barrymore, Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Janet Gaynor and lovely Lorena Mayer.

Bob Topping off on a three weeks fishing trip in Oregon. To cool things off between him and Lana Turner?

Marlon Brando better jack up his sense of humor. There's a take-off on him in Gloria Swanson's new comedy, a character named Conde Marlo who wears sweat shirts and sneakers and talks like he had adenoids, just like our boy Marlon.

Stanley Kramer gunning for Bette Davis for "Ethan Frome." He bought it from Warners where it was originally intended for Bette.

Jerry Lewis' doctor told him to play golf because, "the only air you've inhaled in years is from night club ventilators."

A happy girl is Sophie Tucker, just named "outstanding woman citizen" of the year by the National Ladies Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans of the United States. Last year's award went to Eleanor Roosevelt.

Another, jivin' with joy is Bob Clarke who has just found out he's in the "first ten" in film magazine's fan pool of the most popular newcomers. Bob clicked big in "Hard, Fast and Beautiful."

Blanche Ring, veteran musical star, is very ill in St. John's Hospital. She recently divorced Charles Winninger after a separation of 27 years.

Marjane, French singing star, seriously injured in an automobile accident just out of Quebec, is in a hospital there. She made a hit recently in her engagement at the Mocambo.

Fred Astaire, off to Kentucky to buy horses, after he finishes his MGM picture.

Johnny Meyer, of pick-up-the-check publicity, looks blue picking up checks all by his lonesome since his parting with Patti.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Why let ridged nails spoil your fingertip beauty? Some can be cured; others improved! Here's how.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

You have more control over the beauty at your fingertips than most women realize. Nail flaws are the easiest to mend. Even the ridged nail is preventable, curable, or disguisable. Does that surprise you? Well, just give a thought to these causes and remedies:

Ridges that run across the nail are usually caused by rough treatment and the ensuing bruises. If you have crosswise ridges, be more cautious in the way you use your hands; avoid blows and sharp encounters with your nails.

Smooth Fingertips

Be especially careful in your manicure techniques. Perhaps you should give up your regular cuticle shaping for a while. The wielding of orange sticks and similar tools can inflict damage readily, causing crosswise ridges that take months to grow out. You can control your cuticle very satisfactorily by soaking your hands in warm, sudsy water. Then push the cuticle back gently with a soft towel.

If your nails bear verticle ridges and always have, there's a good chance that you have inherited them along with your grandmother's pearls. Camouflage is the only course open to you. Try this artifice for miracle results:

During your weekly manicure, after you have removed polish and soaked and dried your hands, place a drop of hot olive oil on each nail. Let it remain on for fifteen minutes. Rinse and dry your hands again.

Camouflage Technique

Now, (be careful about this—easy does it!) using the smooth side of an emery board, gently rub it across the ridges from the top to the moon. Do not saw. At no time try to remove any more than the horny top of the ridges. Twice over lightly is enough each week. The slight ridging that is always sure to be left can be covered with a base and three thin coats of polish.

Should all your nails suddenly develop ridges, most likely it is an indication that your physical condition is not as good as it should be. Then, consult your doctor—with your nails free of polish for his scrutiny. You have signs of health as well as beauty at your finger tips.

Tomorrow: Nurturing a youthful-looking skin.

Police To Quiz Two Boys, 11, In Truck Fire

Two 11-year-old boys have admitted setting afire a ton-and-a-half truck of the Community Baking Company and will be questioned Tuesday in the office of the state's attorney.

The truck, used to transport baked goods to Uniontown, Pa., was destroyed by the blaze Wednesday shortly before noon while parked in a lot alongside the bakery on Henderson Avenue.

Lieut. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the City Police Bureau, said both boys admitted their part in setting the blaze when questioned.

Bakery officials told Lieut. Lilya the truck had been refueled and parked in the lot awaiting the next trip to Uniontown Wednesday night. Heat from the sun caused the gasoline to expand and some of the fuel emitted from the tank, dripping on the running board.

The boys told Lieut. Lilya they placed some of the fuel in a plastic tube and tried to ignite it. When that failed, they dropped a lighted match on the running board and the fuel immediately caught fire. The boys said they fled on their bicycles and within a matter of minutes the entire truck was in flames.

Firemen from Engine Companies No. 1 and 4 extinguished the fire, with East Side firemen remaining at the scene for more than an hour. Bakery officials said the $5,000 truck was a complete loss.

Parents of the accused boys will also be required to appear before the state's attorney, Lieut. Lilya said.

Police are still investigating the theft of three boxes of candy from a storage shed in the rear of the Liberty Theatre on Thursday. Youngsters are believed responsible for the theft.

Released From Duty

Sgt. Harry G. Clingerman, 470 Goethe Street, has been released from active duty with the U. S. Army. He was ordered to service last October. Thirteen hundred enlisted reservists stationed at Fort George G. Meade, who were involuntarily ordered to active duty during the Korean conflict, will be released by the end of December.

Flynn Is Honored By Texas Chamber

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn has been selected as the only law enforcement officer in Maryland this year to receive the Mission, Texas, Chamber of Commerce Gold Seal of Progress Award for his outstanding work in Cumberland.

Thirty-nine other police chiefs throughout the United States, District of Columbia and Alaska also have been named recipients of the annual award.

All apparently were picked by survey, correspondence, newspaper articles and other methods without their knowledge.

Police To Quiz Two Boys, 11, In Truck Fire

Two 11-year-old boys have admitted setting afire a ton-and-a-half truck of the Community Baking Company and will be questioned Tuesday in the office of the state's attorney.

The truck, used to transport baked goods to Uniontown, Pa., was destroyed by the blaze Wednesday shortly before noon while parked in a lot alongside the bakery on Henderson Avenue.

Lieut. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the City Police Bureau, said both boys admitted their part in setting the blaze when questioned.

Bakery officials told Lieut. Lilya the truck had been refueled and parked in the lot awaiting the next trip to Uniontown Wednesday night. Heat from the sun caused the gasoline to expand and some of the fuel emitted from the tank, dripping on the running board.

The boys told Lieut. Lilya they placed some of the fuel in a plastic tube and tried to ignite it. When that failed, they dropped a lighted match on the running board and the fuel immediately caught fire. The boys said they fled on their bicycles and within a matter of minutes the entire truck was in flames.

Firemen from Engine Companies No. 1 and 4 extinguished the fire, with East Side firemen remaining at the scene for more than an hour. Bakery officials said the $5,000 truck was a complete loss.

Parents of the accused boys will also be required to appear before the state's attorney, Lieut. Lilya said.

Police are still investigating the theft of three boxes of candy from a storage shed in the rear of the Liberty Theatre on Thursday. Youngsters are believed responsible for the theft.

Released From Duty

Sgt. Harry G. Clingerman, 470 Goethe Street, has been released from active duty with the U. S. Army. He was ordered to service last October. Thirteen hundred enlisted reservists stationed at Fort George G. Meade, who were involuntarily ordered to active duty during the Korean conflict, will be released by the end of December.

Tribe Splits, Retains Lead By Half Game

Early Wynn Annexes Opener, 4-0; Chicago Takes Nightcap, 7-6

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox beat off a five-run Cleveland rally in the eighth to take a 7-6 nightcap victory today after the Indians had won the opener 4-0 behind Early Wynn's seven-hit pitching. The split left the Tribe a half game in front in American league.

The second contest kept the Comiskey Park crowd of 46,864 in their seats until the last. The Sox ran up a 7-1 lead by scoring five times in the seventh only to see the Indians count five runs in the eighth.

Starter Lou Kretlow and Randy Gumpert were belted out in the Indian uprising and it took Lefty Billy Pierce to check it and protect the Sox one-run lead.

Easter's 18th homer following a walk to Al Rosen touched off the Indians' five-run outburst in the eighth. Harry Simpson followed with a double, and that was all for Kretlow.

In the opener, the Tribe tallied three unearned runs in the second inning and Sam Chapman hit his fifth four-bagger of the campaign in the eighth.

Chico Carrasquel's bobble of Rosen's grounder set up the three-run outbreak that assured Wynn his 14th triumph against 11 defeats.

He succeeds Barney Wilson who resigned along with McCray.

New York Giants Chalk Up Eighth Consecutive Win

Bob Thomson's Homer Defeats Phillies, 5-4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 (AP) — Bobby Thomson's home run in the eighth inning with one on enabled the New York Giants to come from behind and defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 4, today.

The victory was the second place Giants' ninth consecutive and the loss was the Phillies' eighth straight.

Richie Ashburn tripled with two on, then stole home in the fifth inning to give the Phillies their first three runs. Del Wilber's triple and starting hurler Jocko Thompson's single with two down in the sixth gave Philadelphia its other run. Box:

Murphy To Fight Maxim Wednesday

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Joey Maxim of Cleveland defends his world light heavyweight title for the first time Wednesday night against Irish Bob Murphy of San Diego, Calif., in the top boxing match of the week.

The 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden is expected to draw at least 10,000 fans and a gate of $50,000. It will get the full radio and television treatment over CBS at 9:00 p. m. (EST).

Maxim, who won the championship by knocking out Freddie Mills in the 10th round at London, Jan. 24, 1950, put his title in the deep freeze for 16 months. In the meantime he ventured into the heavyweight division and absorbed a bad beating last May 30 at Chicago from Ezzard Charles.

Both men are 29 years old. Murphy is a rough and ready southpaw with a good knockout punch while Maxim depends more on speed and boxing skill for his edge.

Wins Golf Title

OAK HILL, W. Va., Aug. 19 (AP)—Amateur Ed M. Tutwiler, Jr., of Mt. Hope, slammed 36 holes in six under par today to win the annual State Open Golf Tournament by six strokes with a 72-hole total of 276.

FIGHT FANS visiting Greenwood Lake, N. Y., training camp, get double their money's worth as they see not one but two top ranking scrappers condition for forthcoming bouts. Skipping rope are Billy Graham (left), who meets Kid Gavilan for the welter title Aug. 29, and Irish Bob Murphy, who meets Joey Maxim in a light heavyweight championship duel Aug. 22. (International Soundphoto)

Lefty Warren Spahn Bags 15th Win, 13-4

BOSTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Lefty Warren Spahn, aided by a 13 hit attack, pitched his 15th win and 18th complete game as the Boston Braves overwhelmed the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-4 before 13,713 fans today.

Willard Marshall with his tenth homer and two singles and Ebba St. Claire with three singles paced the attack that gave the Braves two big innings—five runs in the sixth and seven in the seventh.

Earl Torgeson contributed his 16th homer with two on to provide the blow that turned the game into a rout and finished Ralph Branca, Dodger starter and loser.

In the ninth Roy Campanella belted his 26th homer with Andy Pafko, who had singled, aboard. Box:

Lowly Pirates Top Cubs Twice

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19 (AP)—The last place Pittsburgh Pirates today swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, coming from behind in the last two innings to take the nightcap 5-4 after righthander Don Carlsen pitched the Bucs to a 4-2 win in his major league debut in the opener.

Ralph Kiner connected for home run number 34 in the first game. Clyde McCullough's pinch hit single with two out in the ninth gave the Bucs the second game at the expense of John Klippstein who pitched brilliant ball until Pittsburgh rallied with three runs in the eighth. Bill Howerton's home run tied it up for the Pirates in the ninth. Box:

A's Give Yanks Worst Beating Of Season, 15-1

Philadelphia Scores Nine Runs In Seventh

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — The lowly Philadelphia Athletics knocked the New York Yankees out of a first-place tie in the American League today with a 15-1 victory over the Yanks.

Morrie Martin stopped the New Yorkers with seven hits and the A's clinched the verdict with a nine-run seventh inning compiled on seven hits, two walks, a hit batter and two Yankee errors.

It was the worst trouncing of the season for the Yankees, and the nine runs scored against them in the seventh was the biggest inning against the New York club in many years.

Lefty Martin breezed to his eighth victory against four losses. He was scored on in the sixth inning when Jerry Coleman tapped a force-play grounder after the bases had become loaded with none out. Martin joined Mel Parnell, Boston southpaw, as the only pitchers to lick the Yanks three times.

Center fielder Dave Philley, who has been in a slump ever since the Athletics secured him in the early-season deal with Chicago, led the slaughter with five hits and a walk for a perfect day. Catcher Joe Astroth hit the only homer of the game, his first of the season. It came in the eighth inning off Frank Shea, third New York hurler, with a runner on. Box:

Manager Charley Doyle's Cumberland Merchants provided the big surprise in the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when they shook a 21-game losing streak by downing the Frostburg Demons in the Mountain City by the score of 6-3.

It was Cumberland's first win since May 27 when the locals defeated Keyser, 2-1.

The Merchants racked up 14 hits at the expense of John Frank. Lowe rapped four singles, Cooper two singles and a double and Ray Blackburn three base wallops. Danny Drew with three safeties and Urbas and Durbin with two apiece led the Demons at the plate.

Fielding highlights were a shoestring catch which Wolfe converted into a double play and a great throw by Ted Durbin that cut down a runner at the plate.

Carl Wilfong Wins 12th

Keyser stayed out in front in the close pennant race by swamping Lonaconing under a 29-hit barrage by the score of 28-2.

Carl Wilfong hurled the first seven innings and posted his 12th consecutive victory for the Firemen. He struck out eight. Earl Hess paced Keyser at bat with six hits in seven tries. Bob Hess and Barney Barnhouse were runners-up with four hits each. Wayne Raines of Keyser hit a grand slam homer in the first inning. He also hammered a triple and drove in a total of seven runs. Cameron accounted for three of 'Coney's eight hits.

Raines Beats Hyndman

Bobby Raines, Bruce High and American Legion pitching ace, made his league debut with Westvaco and hurled the Papermakers to a 3-1 win over the Hyndman Firemen at Hyndman, Pa. Bobby yielded three hits and fanned nine. Kiser, Hyndman hurler, struck out seven.

Peter Deremer had two scratch singles for Hyndman. The other blow came from the bat of Harry Minnicks. Only four balls were hit to the outfield on Raines, including Minnicks' single. Pattison, Woodson and Patrone had two hits apiece for Westvaco.

League president Carl Dicken last night announced that two postponed games will be played off this week. Hyndman plays 'Coney on Wednesday at 5 p. m. in Midland and 'Coney plays the Cumberland Merchants at Stitcher Field, Thursday at 5 p. m. Hyndman is transferring its Saturday, August 25 game to Keyser. The scores:

Aussies Defeat U. S. Netmen In Doubles Tourney

Mulloy And Talbert, Patty, Trabert Lose

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 19 (INS)—America's Davis Cup hopes were dealt a stunning jolt today when a quartet of Australians beat our best in the semi-finals of the U. S. National Doubles Tennis Championship.

The top-ranked foreign duo of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor easily disposed of the would-be Davis cup tandem of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

And Australia's Don Candy and Mervyn Rose scored a tremendous and dramatic upset by beating the top-seeded American team of Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Billy Talbert of New York, 6-4, 6-8, 20-18, 9-7.

It was a three hour marathon that required 78 games.

Sedgman and McGregor meet Candy and Rose tomorrow for the championship. It is the third All-Australian final in the tourney's history, the others being in 1939 and 1949.

Sedgman won the title last year when he teamed with John Bromwich. They beat Mulloy and Talbert.

The women's final tomorrow pits Doris Hart, Coral Gables, Fla., and Shirley Fry, Akron, O., the top-seeded team, against the second-ranked team of Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Cal. and Pat Todd of La Jolla, Cal.

Miss Chaffee and Mrs. Todd won their semi-final match today, 6-3, 6-3, over England's Kay Tuckey and Jean Quertier.

The Rose-Candy thrilling triumph over the veteran American pair produced the longest set in the tournament since 1946 when Talbert and Mulloy won the fifth set and championship, 20-18 over Jack Guernsey and Don McNeill.

Talbert and Mulloy, four-time winners of the championship, were at set point six times, but the Aussies fought back in the face of apparent defeat. Mulloy, Candy, and Talbert were broken successively in the 35th, 36th and 37th games and Rose finally proved to be the set winner when he held service in the 38th game.

Tribe Splits, Retains Lead By Half Game

Early Wynn Annexes Opener, 4-0; Chicago Takes Nightcap, 7-6

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox beat off a five-run Cleveland rally in the eighth to take a 7-6 nightcap victory today after the Indians had won the opener 4-0 behind Early Wynn's seven-hit pitching. The split left the Tribe a half game in front in American league.

The second contest kept the Comiskey Park crowd of 46,864 in their seats until the last. The Sox ran up a 7-1 lead by scoring five times in the seventh only to see the Indians count five runs in the eighth.

Starter Lou Kretlow and Randy Gumpert were belted out in the Indian uprising and it took Lefty Billy Pierce to check it and protect the Sox one-run lead.

Easter's 18th homer following a walk to Al Rosen touched off the Indians' five-run outburst in the eighth. Harry Simpson followed with a double, and that was all for Kretlow.

In the opener, the Tribe tallied three unearned runs in the second inning and Sam Chapman hit his fifth four-bagger of the campaign in the eighth.

Chico Carrasquel's bobble of Rosen's grounder set up the three-run outbreak that assured Wynn his 14th triumph against 11 defeats.

He succeeds Barney Wilson who resigned along with McCray.

New York Giants Chalk Up Eighth Consecutive Win

Bob Thomson's Homer Defeats Phillies, 5-4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 (AP) — Bobby Thomson's home run in the eighth inning with one on enabled the New York Giants to come from behind and defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 4, today.

The victory was the second place Giants' ninth consecutive and the loss was the Phillies' eighth straight.

Richie Ashburn tripled with two on, then stole home in the fifth inning to give the Phillies their first three runs. Del Wilber's triple and starting hurler Jocko Thompson's single with two down in the sixth gave Philadelphia its other run. Box:

Murphy To Fight Maxim Wednesday

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Joey Maxim of Cleveland defends his world light heavyweight title for the first time Wednesday night against Irish Bob Murphy of San Diego, Calif., in the top boxing match of the week.

The 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden is expected to draw at least 10,000 fans and a gate of $50,000. It will get the full radio and television treatment over CBS at 9:00 p. m. (EST).

Maxim, who won the championship by knocking out Freddie Mills in the 10th round at London, Jan. 24, 1950, put his title in the deep freeze for 16 months. In the meantime he ventured into the heavyweight division and absorbed a bad beating last May 30 at Chicago from Ezzard Charles.

Both men are 29 years old. Murphy is a rough and ready southpaw with a good knockout punch while Maxim depends more on speed and boxing skill for his edge.

Lefty Warren Spahn Bags 15th Win, 13-4

BOSTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Lefty Warren Spahn, aided by a 13 hit attack, pitched his 15th win and 18th complete game as the Boston Braves overwhelmed the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-4 before 13,713 fans today.

Willard Marshall with his tenth homer and two singles and Ebba St. Claire with three singles paced the attack that gave the Braves two big innings—five runs in the sixth and seven in the seventh.

Earl Torgeson contributed his 16th homer with two on to provide the blow that turned the game into a rout and finished Ralph Branca, Dodger starter and loser.

In the ninth Roy Campanella belted his 26th homer with Andy Pafko, who had singled, aboard. Box:

Lowly Pirates Top Cubs Twice

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19 (AP)—The last place Pittsburgh Pirates today swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, coming from behind in the last two innings to take the nightcap 5-4 after righthander Don Carlsen pitched the Bucs to a 4-2 win in his major league debut in the opener.

Ralph Kiner connected for home run number 34 in the first game. Clyde McCullough's pinch hit single with two out in the ninth gave the Bucs the second game at the expense of John Klippstein who pitched brilliant ball until Pittsburgh rallied with three runs in the eighth. Bill Howerton's home run tied it up for the Pirates in the ninth. Box:

A's Give Yanks Worst Beating Of Season, 15-1

Philadelphia Scores Nine Runs In Seventh

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — The lowly Philadelphia Athletics knocked the New York Yankees out of a first-place tie in the American League today with a 15-1 victory over the Yanks.

Morrie Martin stopped the New Yorkers with seven hits and the A's clinched the verdict with a nine-run seventh inning compiled on seven hits, two walks, a hit batter and two Yankee errors.

It was the worst trouncing of the season for the Yankees, and the nine runs scored against them in the seventh was the biggest inning against the New York club in many years.

Lefty Martin breezed to his eighth victory against four losses. He was scored on in the sixth inning when Jerry Coleman tapped a force-play grounder after the bases had become loaded with none out. Martin joined Mel Parnell, Boston southpaw, as the only pitchers to lick the Yanks three times.

Center fielder Dave Philley, who has been in a slump ever since the Athletics secured him in the early-season deal with Chicago, led the slaughter with five hits and a walk for a perfect day. Catcher Joe Astroth hit the only homer of the game, his first of the season. It came in the eighth inning off Frank Shea, third New York hurler, with a runner on. Box:

Mt. Savage Stars Beat Pen-Mar Champs, 2-1

MT. SAVAGE, Aug. 19 — Roy Hott's single scored two runs in the final inning to give the Mt. Savage Little League All-Stars a 2-1 decision over Barrelville, champions of the Pen-Mar Little League, here today.

Tommy Birmingham and George Bishields had hit safely before Hott's blow broke up the game in the 6th.

Glass, Witt and Jones of Barrelville and Bishields and T. Birmingham of Mt. Savage rapped two hits each. Score:

BARRELVILLE	000 001—1	9	0
MT. SAVAGE	000 002—2	7	1

Witt and Morris, Hotchkiss, Gaughan (3), Jones (5) and Bishields.

Dick Collins, Brandeis U. quarterback, received 10 varsity letters in three sports at Waltham High School.

Merchants Pull Bi-State Upset, Beat Frostburg

Locals Score 6-3 Win, Raines Beats Hyndman

Manager Charley Doyle's Cumberland Merchants provided the big surprise in the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when they shook a 21-game losing streak by downing the Frostburg Demons in the Mountain City by the score of 6-3.

It was Cumberland's first win since May 27 when the locals defeated Keyser, 2-1.

The Merchants racked up 14 hits at the expense of John Frank. Lowe rapped four singles, Cooper two singles and a double and Ray Blackburn three base wallops. Danny Drew with three safeties and Urbas and Durbin with two apiece led the Demons at the plate.

Fielding highlights were a shoe-string catch which Wolfe converted into a double play and a great throw by Ted Durbin that cut down a runner at the plate.

Carl Wilfong Wins 12th

Keyser stayed out in front in the close pennant race by swamping Lonaconing under a 29-hit barrage by the score of 28-2.

Carl Wilfong hurled the first seven innings and posted his 12th consecutive victory for the Firemen. He struck out eight. Earl Hess paced Keyser at bat with six hits in seven tries. Bob Hess and Barney Barnhouse were runners-up with four hits each. Wayne Raines of Keyser hit a grand slam homer in the first inning. He also hammered a triple and drove in a total of seven runs. Cameron accounted for three of 'Coney's eight hits.

Raines Beats Hyndman

Bobby Raines, Bruce High and American Legion pitching ace, made his league debut with Westvaco and hurled the Papermakers to a 3-1 win over the Hyndman Firemen at Hyndman, Pa. Bobby yielded three hits and fanned nine. Kiser, Hyndman hurler, struck out seven.

Peter Deremer had two scratch singles for Hyndman. The other blow came from the bat of Harry Minnicks. Only four balls were hit to the outfield on Raines, including Minnicks' single. Pattison, Woodson and Patrone had two hits apiece for Westvaco.

League president Carl Dicken last night announced that two postponed games will be played off this week. Hyndman plays 'Coney on Wednesday at 5 p. m. in Midland and 'Coney plays the Cumberland Merchants at Stitcher Field, Thursday at 5 p. m. Hyndman is transferring its Saturday, August 25 game to Keyser. The scores:

Trapshoot Bleachers Collapse; Nine Injured

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 19 (AP) —Nine persons were injured today in a collapse of a bleachers behind a firing line at the 52nd Grand American Trapshoot.

Lucious T. Williams, 40, Fairborn, O., was the most seriously injured. His right leg was fracturd as the new steel and wood structure, erected just a week ago and approved by the underwriters, buckled.

The bleachers collapsed while filled with 500 spectators watching the windup of the 200-target, 16-yard Dayton homecoming shoot, last of the preliminary events prior to the opening of tomorrow's week-long championships.

Aussies Defeat U. S. Netmen In Doubles Tourney

Mulloy And Talbert, Patty, Trabert Lose

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 19 (INS)—America's Davis Cup hopes were dealt a stunning jolt today when a quartet of Australians beat our best in the semi-finals of the U. S. National Doubles Tennis Championship.

The top-ranked foreign duo of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor easily disposed of the would-be Davis cup tandem of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

And Australia's Don Candy and Mervyn Rose scored a tremendous and dramatic upset by beating the top-seeded American team of Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Billy Talbert of New York, 6-4, 6-8, 20-18, 9-7.

It was a three hour marathon that required 78 games.

Sedgman and McGregor meet Candy and Rose tomorrow for the championship. It is the third All-Australian final in the tourney's history, the others being in 1939 and 1949.

Sedgman won the title last year when he teamed with John Bromwich. They beat Mulloy and Talbert.

The women's final tomorrow pits Doris Hart, Coral Gables, Fla., and Shirley Fry, Akron, O., the top-seeded team, against the second-ranked team of Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Cal. and Pat Todd of La Jolla, Cal.

Miss Chaffee and Mrs. Todd won their semi-final match today, 6-3, 6-3, over England's Kay Tuckey and Jean Quertier.

The Rose-Candy thrilling triumph over the veteran American pair produced the longest set in the tournament since 1946 when Talbert and Mulloy won the fifth set and championship, 20-18 over Jack Guernsey and Don McNeill.

Talbert and Mulloy, four-time winners of the championship, were at set point six times, but the Aussies fought back in the face of apparent defeat. Mulloy, Candy, and Talbert were broken successively in the 35th, 36th and 37th games and Rose finally proved to be the set winner when he held service in the 38th game.

Cumberland, Maryland

Helen J. Martin, Plaintiff, vs. John C. Martin, Defendant, No. 22,180 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the Plaintiff, Helen J. Martin, of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, John C. Martin, Defendant, whose last known address was 1847 Covington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and whose residence is unknown, two successive subpoenaes having been issued against the said John C. Martin and returned "Non Est" by the Sheriff of Baltimore City.

The bill states that on the 25th day of September, 1943, the said Helen J. Martin was married to John C. Martin, with whom she resided until November, 1949; that the said John C. Martin has declared his intention to live with her no longer and has abandoned her without any just cause or reason and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said Helen J. Martin and John C. Martin have had by said marriage four children who are still alive, viz: John E., born on the 16th day of January, 1944, Bonita G., born on the 26th day of January, 1945, Charles J., born on the 7th day of July, 1947, and Richard A., born on the 20th day of June, 1950, and that the said Helen J. Martin asks the guardianship and custody of the said infant child.

It is thereupon this 18th day of August, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four (4) successive weeks before the 19th day of September, 1951, giving notice to the said John C. Martin, against whom two successive subpoenaes have been returned "Non Est," of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of October, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Women Recaptured

DOTHAN, Ala., Aug. 19 (AP) — Southeast Alabama officers early today captured six of eight women prisoners who fled from Julia Tutwiler Prison at Wetumpka last night. Police halted four in a speeding car with blasts of shotgun fire.

The flag of the mayor of New York City has five stars, representing the city's five boroughs.

EXECUTRIX NOTICE

THIS IS TO GIVE NOTICE, That the subscriber has obtained from the Orphans' Court of Allegany County, Maryland, letters Testamentary on the estate of Alice V. Helen J. Martin, Plaintiff, vs. John C. Martin, Defendant, No. 22,180 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the Plaintiff, Helen J. Martin, of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, John C. Martin, Defendant, whose last known address was 1847 Covington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and whose residence is unknown, two successive subpoenaes having been issued against the said John C. Martin and returned "Non Est" by the Sheriff of Baltimore City.

The bill states that on the 25th day of September, 1943, the said Helen J. Martin was married to John C. Martin, with whom she resided until November, 1949; that the said John C. Martin has declared his intention to live with her no longer and has abandoned her without any just cause or reason and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said Helen J. Martin and John C. Martin have had by said marriage four children who are still alive, viz: John E., born on the 16th day of January, 1944, Bonita G., born on the 26th day of January, 1945, Charles J., born on the 7th day of July, 1947, and Richard A., born on the 20th day of June, 1950, and that the said Helen J. Martin asks the guardianship and custody of the said infant child.

It is thereupon this 18th day of August, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four (4) successive weeks before the 19th day of September, 1951, giving notice to the said John C. Martin, against whom two successive subpoenaes have been returned "Non Est," of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of October, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Buchanan Named Chairman Of Chest Campaign

Drive Scheduled For October 3-13

George L. Buchanan, Buckingham Road, vice president and general manager of Buchanan Lumber Company, will be chairman for the 1951-52 Cumberland Community Chest Campaign, Earl C. Robertson, president, announces.

Buchanan has been active in chest affairs for many years and was a past Advance Gifts chairman. He has also served as president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Office To Open

He will head the campaign, which will get underway October 3, to raise funds needed to operate the nine Red Feather agencies in Cumberland for the coming year. The drive will terminate October 13. Headquarters this year will be in the Union Street County Building and the office will open September 4.

Director for this year's campaign is H. M. Haylor, of Beaver Associates, who has served in that capacity for the past two years. Members of the budget committee met with representatives of the nine Red Feather agencies last week to review tentative budget figures for the coming year. A meeting of the budget committee is planned for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at which time final approval of the 1951-52 total is expected.

Budget Group To Meet

Members of the budget committee headed by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, include Mrs. Gerard Everstine, John F. Chisholm, Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO); David T. Davis, Harry C. Landis, cashier, First National Bank, Clarence Lippel, attorney, George W. Lucas, president, Building Trades Council, Henry A. Mackey, and James F. Martin, Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

The nine Red Feather agencies included in the 1951-52 campaign are Associated Charities, Baby Welfare Society, Boy Scouts, Central YMCA, Girl Scouts, Jewish Welfare Society, Keating Memorial Day Nursery, Salvation Army and Travelers Aid Society.

Court Ousted Church Group Holds Service

The Pentecostal Church group which has been banned by court order from worshipping in the Holiness Mission Church at Wiley Ford, W. Va., held its regular Sunday School at 10 a. m. and its evening worship at 7:45 o'clock in the Fire Hall yesterday.

Leonard M. Campbell, a local service station operator, is minister for the group.

To Continue Services

Mrs. Faith Campbell, wife of the pastor, said yesterday the Pentecostal worshippers hope to continue regular weekly services in the Fire Hall until such time as a new church can be built or another place for worship located.

The group is planning a constructive youth and adult program with emphasis on the founding of a new church building, she added.

The Pentecostal group had been worshipping in the Holiness Mission Church, Mrs. Campbell pointed out, after the church was started in Wiley Ford in 1941 as a community church with congregational form of government and the right of the majority of the worshippers to decide on its leadership.

Upon the resignation of Daniel Klavuhn, the first minister, in 1947 part of the original congregation left the church and part remained, Mrs. Campbell stated. Those remaining chose the Pentecostal faith, she remarked.

Recognizes Mortgage Payment

After a court injunction unlocked the doors of the church which had been barred by Klavuhn when he returned as minister in 1950 the fight between the two factions was taken to Mineral County Circuit Court, Keyser, W. Va.

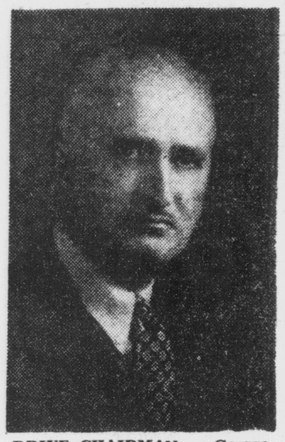
Judge Ernest M. See then signed an order which restored the church and property to the jurisdiction of the Holiness Mission Church, recognizing the seven original trustees as custodians of the property. The court also recognized that the Pentecostal group had paid off an $1,100 mortgage during their tenure as members of the church, Mrs. Campbell noted.

Before the court action was taken the Pentecostal group held revival meetings in May and a vacation Bible School was conducted in June with an enrollment of 108 pupils.

Picardy Youth Held On Theft Charges

James Crabtree, Picardy, is being held in city jail on theft charges and will be given a hearing Tuesday or Wednesday. The sheriff's office also has a warrant for a parole violation by Crabtree, police added.

Trooper Jack Browning of the Maryland State Police said yesterday Crabtree is being held on charges of the theft of a sun visor and three hub caps, as well as the theft of two tires from a wrecked automobile owned by Stanley Cross, Hagerstown. Browning said the visor and hub caps were stolen on or about August 9 three quarters of a mile from Paw Paw, W. Va. The two tires were taken at the scene of a wreck near Gordon's Restaurant on Oldtown Road June 23, Browning added.



DRIVE CHAIRMAN — George L. Buchanan has been named chairman for the 1951-52 Cumberland Community Chest Campaign. The drive will get underway October 3 and will terminate October 13. Headquarters will open September 4, at the Union Street County Building.

Union Security Vote Scheduled At Amcelle Plant

Local 1874 Plans Intensive Campaign

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will begin balloting tomorrow in a three-day union security election to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board at the Amcelle plant.

A similar election held in August 1948, resulting in a 7,530 to 75 vote in favor of union security has been ruled invalid as top CIO officials failed to sign non-communist affidavits prior to the election.

Top national and local Textile Workers Union of America officials had, however, fully complied with the requirements.

Playford Aldridge, Local 1874 president, announced that labor board and union representatives will meet in the company's offices today to check the pay roll list of eligible voters. It has been agreed by all parties the eligibility period shall cover all production and maintenance employes on the company payroll for the week ending August 11.

Voting Places Named

Voting places will be located in the Main, CA and Textile Cafeterias on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The Union Booth, located on the company parking lot at the main gate will be added as a voting place on Wednesday and Thursday.

Employes will vote on their own time during lunch periods at the cafeterias or at the Union Booth before or leaving work. The company and the union will have official observers assigned to the labor board agents during voting periods.

Voting hours at the cafeterias will be 1:30 to 4 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m.; and 5 to 8 p. m. on all three days. Hours at the union booth on Wednesday and Thursday will be 6:15 to 7:30 a. m.; 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. and 10:15 to 11:15 p. m.

It is expected that the vote counting will conclude during the early hours of Friday.

Local 1874 has under way a campaign to insure a large turn out of eligible voters. Aldridge declared "The union security clause of the contract negotiated with the company last week will not be valid until a favorable majority of Celanese employees have voted "yes" in the coming election.

"The unfair feature, aside from the fact that we won such a vote by more than 100 to one in 1948, is that the Taft-Hartley law demands a majority of all eligible voters must vote yes before we can win.

"Two thousand Celanese workers could vote yes without even one solitary vote being cast no and we would lose the election because the yes vote would not reach a majority of eligible voters."

Vice President Election

Another election will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Textile Hall, according to Charles E. Jones, Local 1874 election committee chairman.

In this contest a vice president will be selected to succeed John Fatkin, who resigned. Selected to run in a preliminary event last week are Howard "Red" Bush and Melvin Harris.

Voting at the union hall will be conducted Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. and Thursday from 10 a. m. to noon.

Ambulance Service Offered To Disabled

Ambulance service for disabled members will be provided by Local 1874, Textile Workers of American (CIO), in the union security election planned at the Amcelle plant tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

The local said it will provide ambulance service Wednesday and Thursday for any member who is disabled but is willing to be moved to the polls to cast a vote.

Transportation to and from the voting booths will be provided for members who are not scheduled to work on any of the three days of the NLRB poll.

School Will Open

SS. Peter and Paul High School and graded school will open September 5. A half-day session is planned for the opening day of the school term.

New FFA Judging Contest Added To Fair Events

Weeklong Exposition Commences Today

One of the new features in the weeklong 34th annual Cumberland Fair, which starts today, is a Garrett and Allegany County Future Farmers of America Judging Contest.

James H. House, supervisor of the Boys' FFA Department at the Fair this year, observed that for seven successive years Allegany County FFA boys competed in a livestock judging contest at Fairgo.

Garrett Included

This year it was decided to expand the contest to include youngsters from Garrett County too.

House believes that between 50 and 60 boys, representing all nine FFA chapters in the two counties, will take part in the contest. In Allegany County FFA chapters function at Flintstone, Oldtown, Fort Hill, Allegany and Beall High Schools. Garrett County has chapters at Grantsville, Friendsville, Accident and Oakland High Schools.

The judging contest will be an all-day affair Thursday, Auguest 23. A total of $110 in premiums is offered for winners in these contests. The Cumberland Fair Association offers $60 of this prize money and the other $50 comes from the State FFA Association.

A different vocational agriculture teacher will be the chairman of each of the five classes in the contest.

The chairmen are John Reckner, Oakland, sheep; Marvin Callis, Accident, beef; Virgil Lough, Friendsville, swine; Merle Garletts, Grantsville, dairy cattle, and House, poultry.

Begins at 10

The livestock judging — sheep, beef and swine—will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday. At 1 p. m. the dairy cattle and poultry judging contests will begin.

Official judges for the contest will be Martin E. Gannon, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the University of Maryland, livestock; J. W. Pou, head of the Dairy Husbandry Department, University of Maryland, dairy cattle, and C. A. Smith, this city, manager and show secretary of the fair's Pultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Department, poultry.

All livestock to be judged by the boys will be selected from any the general entries at the fair.

Chief responsibility for preparations for the annual fair here rests with the officers and directors of the Cumberland Fair Association. Officers include Harry E. Flook, general manager; Tasker G. Lowndes, president; J. Glenn Beall, vice-president; John Schwarzenbach, treasurer; Carl Schmutz, corresponding secretary, and Frank A. Wolfhope. All also are directors. Other directors include Earl C. Robertson, F. Brooke Whiting, Charles Jeffries, R. F. McHenry, Albert O'Neal, Harry J. Barton, Clifton W. White, Oliver H. Bruce, Ja., nd William Winterberg.

Hi-Y Training Camp Planned

The fifth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y officers' training camp will get underway at Pleasant Valley Camp near Grantsville the weekend of Sept. 7-9, Winfield H. Adam, secretary of Central YMCA, announced.

This intensive training program is planned to develop more able officers and better Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs, Adam said, and is part of the Cumberland Central YMCA's youth curriculum.

All officers of the Cumberland, Hagerstown and Martinsburg, W. Va., Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs are eligible to attend the three-day affair, Adam continued, with advisors of the organizations also invited.

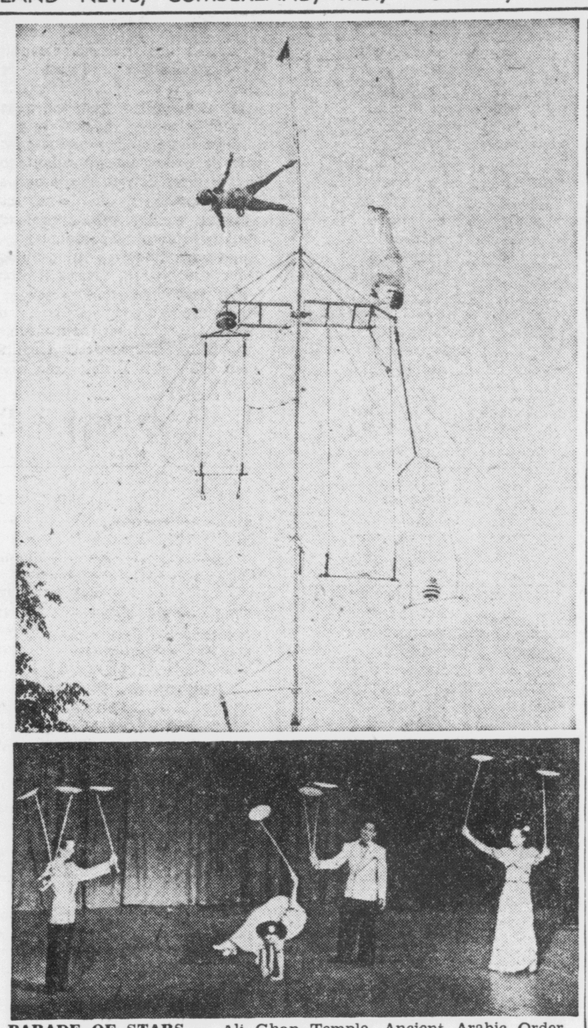
The training camp's program will consist of officer training discussions, model club meetings, demonstrations of good activities, fellowship with other club officers, co-ed activities, recreation, swimming, hiking, council fires and other outdoor studies.

The conference leader will be Ralph L. Lewis, new program secretary of the Central YMCA, and he will be assisted by Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of the Mt. Savage Episcopal Church, and Mrs. M. Carolyn Dunlap, advisor of the Fort Hill High School Tri-Hi-Y.

News In Brief

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will meet this evening at 9 o'clock in the club room, Baltimore Street. Following the meeting two movies on railroading will be shown.

LaVale Volunteer firemen yesterday answered a call about 3 o'clock near the police station. An automobile motor caught fire but little damage was reported by firemen.



PARADE OF STARS — Ali Ghan Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is sponsoring the Parade of Stars as its contribution to the Cumberland Fair which opens for one week at Fairgo today. The gala "Parade" includes numerous acts of entertainment for Fair attenders and will be held nightly on the stage in front of the grandstand. Two of the sensational acts which will appear as part of the Parade of Stars are Millette and Penny, a father and daughter aerialist team which performs on the high trapeze, and the La Foun Troupe, four accomplished acrobats and jugglers.

Today's Sermonette

Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord. 130th Psalm 1:1.

By REV. ALLEN B. L. FISHER

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Grace Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

There are four divisions in this Psalm and each contains two verses. They may be named prayer, penitence, patience and peace.

Prayer

1. "Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord. Lord, hear my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications."

Rev. Fisher

The prayer is drawn from the Psalmist's soul because he is down in the depths. Probably a great majority of real prayers have come up out of the depths. Perhaps that is one reason that there are depths to get into. The history of man and nations does not show that they lost their souls when in the depths but when on the heights. Be most prayerful in the depths. God hears from the depths. There is none too deep. God heard Dives even in Hell and called his "Son." "Who shall separate us from the love of God?" Paul exclaims, "I am persuaded that neither life nor death nor height nor depth shall separate us."

Penitence

2. "If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord who shall stand? But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared (worshipped)." The second division is most beautiful for it is the penitential division. I suppose that never is the human being so pleasing and so appealing in God's sight as when his heart is truly penitent. What an appeal there must have been to the heart of God when the penitent Psalmist, in longing hope, pleadingly said, "There is forgiveness with thee."

Patience

3 "I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait ,and in his word do I hope. My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning: I say more than they that watch for the morning." The third division is the one of patience. How much we miss through lack of patience! The delightful and refreshing glades, the cool shadows and refreshing fountains of waters are all passed by in our haste and restlessness. God is not hurried and that wealth that is His shall become ours when we learn how to wait upon Him. "Be still," he says, "and know that I am God." "In returning and rest shall ye be saved. In quietness and confidence shall be your strength." It is the finest art of the human soul—waiting for God as they that watch for the morning. The marvelous love of God and His grace are not known by shoutings and tumult and violence, but by patience. "Wait I say on the Lord."

Peace

4. "Let Israel hope in the Lord; for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption. And He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities." The peace of God is based upon hope. Hope is the very breath of life for God's children here. That hope is based upon the redemption, through our Lord Jesus Christ. "With the Lord there is mercy and there is redemption." Mercy and redemption! These two words explain the cross. May you know the eternal peace established by the Prince of Peace. Through Him may your hearts be kept in the peace of God that passeth understanding!

County Bar To Meet

The Allegany County Bar Association will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Law Library at Allegany County Court House.

Budget For 1951-52 Will Be Presented For Action Today

Action on a 1951-52 budget ordinance calling for a tax rate of $1.31 will be taken at a meeting of the Mayor and Council this morning.

Two of the five members of the city executive body declined to commit themselves when the budget calling for a four cent increase in the tax rate was presented Thursday morning.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said he wanted more time to study the budget, item by item, to see if some more of the appropriations could be trimmed.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, also declined to make a commitment at that time, saying she felt the budget should be studied more thoroughly and added there was no need for an immediate decision since formal action was not planned until today.

The budget provides $1,025,842.26 for operating expenses and $236,717.74 for debt service for a total of $1,262,560.

Officials said the tax rate was kept down one cent, to $1.31, by dividing the rate into 94.75 cents for operating expenses and 36.25 cents for debt service.

Rubber Workers Seek Wage Boost At Kelly Plant

Request Reopening Of Wage Clause

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers Union of America)CIO), has asked the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to open negotiations for a wage increase at the local tire plant.

The action was announced by R. C. Burkhart, president, at a meeting of the union Saturday night.

The request for the opening of talks on a "substantial wage increase" was made under terms of a reopening clause in the two-year pact which will be effective until May 1, 1953.

The discussions may open early in September and will include some 1,900 hourly paid workers at the plant.

The average wage at the plant is about $1.62 an hour.

A report on the 1951 CIO Summer School at Ohio State University was given at the meeting by Clarence Arnold and Delton Johnson, who represented Local 26 at the sessions.

Visitors Utilize Deep Creek Lake Fishing Paradise

Approximately 9,000 anglers fished the mountain waters of Deep Creek Lake during the month of July the State Game and Inland Fish Commissioner revealed. An estimated 33,000 man hours were spent, with varying degrees of success, by fishermen who came from all parts of the state and neighboring territory. Fishery investigators of the commission reveal that four per cent of the fishermen were cottage residents and that 96 per cent came as visitors and guests.

The monthly Creel Census on Deep Creek Lake reveals only fair success and the reservoir dropped below the average of other Maryland fishing waters. It took the average fisherman 2½ hours to land one fish and he spent approximately 4.8 hours fishing on each trip.

Fishing success has been blamed on lack of stocking but it appears that at least 10 per cent of the fishermen caught half of the fish whereas the other half caught nothing which might infer that there is more need for a good missionary like Izaak Walton to assist more than half of the fishermen in the technique of successful angling.

Further proof of the State's argument that stocking is not entirely the answer or synonymous with good fishing is substantiated by information regarding fish in the creel. Thirty-nine per cent of the total catch were Black Crappie, 27 per cent Yellow Perch, eight per cent Smallmouth Black Bass of which 600 were keepers and 2,870 had to be returned and five per cent Largemouth Bass, 340 of which were keepers and 350 of which were returned.

Technicians point out that Smallmouth Black Bass are not stocked as adults although Largemouth Black Bass weighing over 1½ pounds have been stocked in Deep Creek Lake annually. The Largemouth fishery is not holding up compared to Smallmouth "natives." Therefore, considerable time should be given to this Smallmouth Bass program according to Maryland Inland Fishing Authorities. Other species caught were Sunfish, Rock Bass, Brown Bullheads, Channel Catfish and Golden Shiners.

Five Transactions Listed In Deeds

Five deeds, two involving large tracts of land, have been recorded in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

Largest consideration was involved in the sale of property on the east side of Allegany Street, near Paca Street, for about $14,000. Ida B. Brandler sold the property to Charles L. Collins and Hazel A. Lemon.

Henry H. Fazenbaker transferred ownership of some 414 acres of land along the east side of the county road leading from Lonaconing to Westernport to Charles T. Clise and Ruth B. Clise for about $12,000. This area is part of the tract called "Walbridge."

Joseph Edgar Dennison sold property to Fred M. Ruehl and Marion R. Ruehl on the west side of Auburn Avenue, near Fort Hill Avenue, for about $8,500. Lula Blanche Zembower and J. Reese Zembower sold two lots and improvements on the south side of Bedford Road, east of Cumberland, to Susan Pearl Dickens, for about $6,500. Eleanor E. Kerns transferred to Mary A. Schriver and Gertrude V. Schriver her ownership of 117 acres along Gorman Road in Election District 33.

NEW TEACHER — John J. Mostowski, Olyphant, Pa., is the new agriculture teacher for Flintstone High School. A graduate of Pennsylvania State Teachers College, he was appointed by the Allegany County Board of Education last week.

University Plans Police School In September

Chief D. B. Wiseman To Direct Program

A police school is being planned at the University of Maryland this fall, Chief Daniel B. Wiseman of the University police announces all mayors and councilmen are urged to call the proposed school to the attention of their police departments in a newsletter from the Maryland Municipal League.

The school will consist of five classes of three hours each every other month from September through May of 1952 with certificates being issued at completion of the course.

The meetings will be held in the auditorium of the Agriculture Building and will convene at seven p. m. on the scheduled dates.

Under direction of Chief Wiseman, the details of the school will be arranged for by Dean Joseph M. Ray of the College of Special and Continuation Studies of the University.

The tentative program is as follows:

September 11, Traffic. Members of the Maryland State Police: Major Ruxton M. Ridgely, Cpl. J. A. McIsaac, TFC J. F. White. Members of the American Automobile Association. Claud R. McCamment, Richard Hartman. Lectures, visual instruction and motion pictures will be available.

November 13, Court Room Procedure. State's Attorney Carlyle Lancaster, Prince Georges County, Circuit Court Judge Dudley Diggs, Members of the Faculty of the University.

January 8, Reports and Files: Evidence. State Police: Captain G. E. Davidson, Lt. J. T. Knight. Members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

March 11, Boys Clubs as Police Activity. Lt. William Hartung, Baltimore City Police Department. The Value Of Photography in Evidence. State Police: Sgt. P. B. Rowland. Members of the Prince Georges County Police.

May 13, Criminal Investigation and Interrogation. State Police Capt. G. E. Davidson, Sgt. J. J. Cassidy and Sgt. G. E. Newcomer.

The school is being presented by the University in cooperation with the State Police, the American Automobile Association, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Prince George's County Police Department and the State's Attorneys and Magistrates of Prince Georges County

Electrification Contest Again Open To 4-H

Adult 4-H Club received word from Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the County Rural Electrification Demonstration awards will be made again this year.

The announcement discloses that the Maryland Utilities Association is giving Maryland 4-H Club girls and boys an opportunity to win their way to 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland.

Awards are made for outstanding rural electrification developments in each county of the state. The 4-H contest allows for as many as 46 winners, two per county. The scholarships are for next year's 4-H Club Week at College Park.

Winners will be selected from 4-H Club demonstrations given during the summer and fall months this year.

Last year the county winners were Richard Fagan and Nelson Robinson of the Union Grove 4-H Club.

The adult leaders have received a list of contest rules. One emphasizes that to qualify for an award in any county there must be competition among at least three rural electrification demonstrations in the county.

Exchange Club To Hold Picnic Aug. 25

The Cumberland Exchange Club will hold its annual picnic at Ali Ghan Shrine Club on Saturday, August 25.

All members who plan to attend the event are urged to contact John M. Robb, chairman.

The regular Tuesday meetings of the club have been cancelled until September 4, it was announced yesterday.

Flood Conduit Construction To Cross Centre St.

Intersection Work To Begin Today

Construction of the pressure conduit through the intricate maze of cables and pipe line at the intersection of Frederick and Centre streets will get underway today the Corps of Army Engineers announced.

Flood work is progressing satisfactorily with only major construction at the Frederick Street and Greene Street sections remaining, they added.

Thomas Earle and Sons, subcontractors on the Frederick Street phase, reported they were ready to cross Centre Street at Frederick with the large pressure conduit which extends to Henderson Avenue.

The contractors hope to work on one side of Centre doing most of the digging and construction by hand, leaving the other half of the street for traffic. When the first section is completed it will be bridged for traffic and the second half will be started, they stated.

The excessive number of water, gas and sewer lines and telephone cables under the intersection plus the small area makes it impossible for the use of heavy machinery and most of the work must be done by hand labor, the engineers pointed out.

The conduit along Valley Street has been completed and the coffer dam on the north end of the street will be removed this week. Blacktopping of the street surface is also expected to be started immediately, they went on.

The removal of steel piling at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad on Williams Street will complete that portion of the work. The Lehigh Street-Walnut Alley conduit is fast approaching its junction with Greene Street and the crossing of the main West Side thoroughfare remains the large major portion of that construction work.

Work on the Henderson Avenue portion of the Frederick Street job is not expected to be started for some time yet, the engineers explained. That will probably be the final stage of the present phase of the flood project.

School Lunch Participation Hits Record

More than 8,600,000 children participated in the National school lunch program during the 1950-51 school year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. Participation established a new record, being 10 percent more than in 1949-50 and 42 percent more than the first year of operation (1946-47), according to Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee.

The school lunch program is designed to improve the health and well-being of the Nation's children and to broaden the market for agricultural food commodities.

Out of a total of 1.4 billion lunches served during the year, 67 percent were complete lunches (Type A), compared with 64 percent the year before. The Type A meal must furnish at least one-third of a child's daily nutritional requirements and consist of a minimum of one-half pint of milk, two ounces of meat, poultry, fish or other protein-rich food, three-fourths cup of vegetables or fruit, and a serving of bread and butter or margarine.

The total cost of the program in 1950-51 was $350 million, of which $214 million was spent for food locally by participating schools under supervision of the state department of education.

The Production and Marketing Administration, which administers the program for the department, allocated more than $68 million directly to the states and territories. Federal funds averaged 4.9 cents per meal served, compared with 5.1 cents the previous year.

Allocations to the states are made on the basis of state per capita income and the number of children of school age, with participating schools being reimbursed for a part of the food costs on the basis of the number of meals served.

City Firemen Check Two Fires Yesterday

City firemen answered two calls yesterday. Central Fire Company extinguished an overheated refrigerator motor at the residence of C. L. Moyer, 624 North Centre Street, at 4:40 a. m. Firemen said the house was filled with smoke as a result of the fire.

Spontaneous combustion caused gasoline fumes to catch fire yesterday afternoon in an automobile owned by Donald Weber, 534 Eastern Avenue. South End firemen answered the call at 3:08 at Constitution Park. No damage was reported in either fire.

Weather

The beautiful summerish day yesterday was incentive for a refreshing swim, a picnic, or a stroll through the woods. The temperature was ideal for a siesta near a babbling brook. The high mercury reading reported by the weatherman at Constitution Park was 90, the low 55 and at 8 p. m. yesterday the thermometer stood at 77. Humidity registered yesterday was 39 per cent. The forecaster predicts some cloudiness today with little change in temperature. The high will be in the middle 80's.

Army Engineers Face House Group Quiz On Flood Control Projects

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee complained today that the Army Engineers have drastically underestimated the cost of civil works projects through inadequate planning.

It called for new procedures to give Congress more accurate data on flood control and rivers and harbors projects.

It also called for a restudy of projects now under construction.

Saturation Point Is Reached

The new procedures—principally up-to-date planning reports and revised cost estimates—will be effective next year when the Army Engineers come before the appropriations committee to justify their annual budget for "civil functions."

Reporting on an investigation of cost increases on 182 projects now being built, the committee said:

"Undoubtedly, some of the 182 projects would not be under construction today if Congress had had reliable information from the Corps of Engineers, developed by competent engineering planning."

The committee concluded also that the "saturation point for civil works projects has been reached, and no new projects should be undertaken until the current construction program is advanced to a considerable degree."

It said, however, that it would not foreclose early consideration of "any proposed projects involving urgent matters of grave import."

The committee said the 182 projects were estimated to cost $2,638,517,000 when Congress authorized them beginning in 1927. The same projects are now estimated to cost $5,912,451,000.

The committee did not hold the engineers responsible for price increases which have added $1,887,000,000 to original cost estimates or for authorized project extensions amounting to $576,814,000.

30.6 Per Cent Added

But, it said, some $800,000,000, or 30.6 per cent, has been added to original cost estimates because of engineering and economic miscalculations.

The committee itemized them as follows:

Inadequacies, defined as omissions in planning and estimating, $188,975,000.

Unforeseen conditions, $279,524,000.

Structural and engineering modifications, $206,194,000.

Changed local needs or situations, $134,515,000.

Buchanan Named Chairman Of Chest Campaign

Drive Scheduled For October 3-13

George L. Buchanan, Buckingham Road, vice president and general manager of Buchanan Lumber Company, will be chairman for the 1951-52 Cumberland Community Chest Campaign, Earl C. Robertson, president, announces.

Buchanan has been active in chest affairs for many years and was a past Advance Gifts chairman. He has also served as president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Office To Open

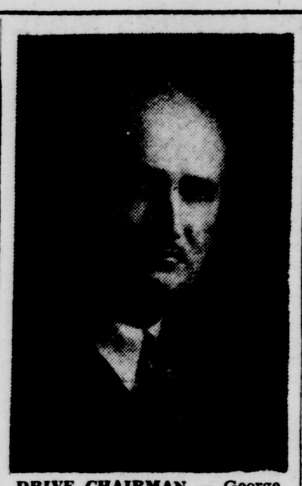
He will head the campaign, which will get underway October 3, to raise funds needed to operate the nine Red Feather agencies in Cumberland for the coming year. The drive will terminate October 13. Headquarters this year will be in the Union Street County Building and the office will open September 4.

Director for this year's campaign is H. M. Haylor, of Beaver Associates, who has served in that capacity for the past two years. Members of the budget committee met with representatives of the nine Red Feather agencies last week to review tentative budget figures for the coming year. A meeting of the budget committee is planned for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at which time final approval of the 1951-52 total is expected.

Budget Group To Meet

Members of the budget committee headed by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, include Mrs. Gerard Everstine, John F. Chisholm, Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO); David T. Davis, Harry C. Landis, cashier, First National Bank, Clarence Lippel, attorney, George W. Lucas, president, Building Trades Council, Henry A. Mackey, and James F. Martin, Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

The nine Red Feather agencies included in the 1951-52 campaign are Associated Charities, Baby Welfare Society, Boy Scouts, Central YMCA, Girl Scouts, Jewish Welfare Society, Keating Memorial Day Nursery, Salvation Army and Travelers Aid Society.



DRIVE CHAIRMAN — George L. Buchanan has been named chairman for the 1951-52 Cumberland Community Chest Campaign. The drive will get underway October 3 and will terminate October 13. Headquarters will open September 4, at the Union Street County Building.

Court Ousted Church Group Holds Service

The Pentecostal Church group which has been banned by court order from worshipping in the Holiness Mission Church at Wiley Ford, W. Va., held its regular Sunday School at 10 a. m. and its evening worship at 7:45 o'clock in the Fire Hall yesterday.

Leonard M. Campbell, a local service station operator, is minister for the group.

To Continue Services

Mrs. Faith Campbell, wife of the pastor, said yesterday the Pentecostal worshippers hope to continue regular weekly services in the Fire Hall until such time as a new church can be built or another place for worship located.

The group is planning a constructive youth and adult program with emphasis on the founding of a new church building, she added.

The Pentecostal group had been worshipping in the Holiness Mission Church, Mrs. Campbell pointed out, after the church was started in Wiley Ford in 1941 as a community church with congregational form of government and the right of the majority of the worshippers to decide on its leadership.

Upon the resignation of Daniel Klavuhn, the first minister, in 1947 part of the original congregation left the church and part remained, Mrs. Campbell stated. Those remaining chose the Pentecostal faith, she remarked.

Recognizes Mortgage Payment

After a court injunction unlocked the doors of the church which had been barred by Klavuhn when he returned as minister in 1950 the fight between the two factions was taken to Mineral County Circuit Court, Keyser, W. Va.

Judge Ernest M. See then signed an order which restored the church and property to the jurisdiction of the Holiness Mission Church, recognizing the seven original trustees as custodians of the property. The court also recognized that the Pentecostal group had paid off an $1,100 mortgage during their tenure as members of the church, Mrs. Campbell noted.

Before the court action was taken the Pentecostal group held revival meetings in May and a vacation Bible School was conducted in June with an enrollment of 108 pupils.

Picardy Youth Held On Theft Charges

James Crabtree, Picardy, is being held in city jail on theft charges and will be given a hearing Tuesday or Wednesday. The sheriff's office also has a warrant for a parole violation by Crabtree, police added.

Trooper Jack Browning of the Maryland State Police said yesterday Crabtree is being held on charges of the theft of a sun visor and three hub caps, as well as the theft of two tires from a wrecked automobile owned by Stanley Cross, Hagerstown. Browning said the visor and hub caps were stolen on or about August 9 three quarters of a mile from Paw Paw, W. Va. The two tires were taken at the scene of a wreck near Gordon's Restaurant on Oldtown Road June 23, Browning added.

Union Security Vote Scheduled At Amcelle Plant

Local 1874 Plans Intensive Campaign

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will begin balloting tomorrow in a three-day union security election to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board at the Amcelle plant.

A similar election held in August 1948, resulting in a 7,530 to 75 vote in favor of union security has been ruled invalid as top CIO officials failed to sign non-communist affidavits prior to the election.

Top national and local Textile Workers Union of America officials had, however, fully complied with the requirements.

Playford Aldridge, Local 1874 president, announced that labor board and union representatives will meet in the company's offices today to check the pay roll list of eligible voters. It has been agreed by all parties the eligibility period shall cover all production and maintenance employes on the company payroll for the week ending August 11.

Voting Places Named

Voting places will be located in the Main, CA and Textile Cafeterias on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The Union Booth, located on the company parking lot at the main gate will be added as a voting place on Wednesday and Thursday.

Employes will vote on their own time during lunch periods at the cafeterias or at the Union Booth before or leaving work. The company and the union will have official observers assigned to the labor board agents during voting periods.

Voting hours at the cafeterias will be 1:30 to 4 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m.; and 5 to 8 p. m. on all three days. Hours at the union booth on Wednesday and Thursday will be 6:15 to 7:30 a. m.; 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. and 10:15 to 11:15 p. m.

It is expected that the vote counting will conclude during the early hours of Friday.

Local 1874 has under way a campaign to insure a large turn out of eligible voters. Aldridge declared "The union security clause of the contract negotiated with the company last week will not be valid until a favorable majority of Celanese employees have voted "yes" in the coming election.

"The unfair feature, aside from the fact that we won such a vote by more than 100 to one in 1948, is that the Taft-Hartley law demands a majority of all eligible voters must vote yes before we can win.

"Two thousand Celanese workers could vote yes without even one solitary vote being cast no and we would lose the election because the yes vote would not reach a majority of eligible voters."

Vice President Election

Another election will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Textile Hall, according to Charles E. Jones, Local 1874 election committee chairman.

In this contest a vice president will be selected to succeed John Fatkin, who resigned. Selected to run in a preliminary event last week are Howard "Red" Bush and Melvin Harris.

Voting at the union hall will be conducted Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. and Thursday from 10 a. m. to noon.

Ambulance Service Offered To Disabled

Ambulance service for disabled members will be provided by Local 1874, Textile Workers of American (CIO), in the union security election planned at the Amcelle plant tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

The local said it will provide ambulance service Wednesday and Thursday for any member who is disabled but is willing to be moved to the polls to cast a vote.

Transportation to and from the voting booths will be provided for members who are not scheduled to work on any of the three days of the NLRB poll.

School Will Open

SS. Peter and Paul High School and graded school will open September 5. A half-day session is planned for the opening day of the school term.

New FFA Judging Contest Added To Fair Events

Weeklong Exposition Commences Today

One of the new features in the weeklong 34th annual Cumberland Fair, which starts today, is a Garrett and Allegany County Future Farmers of America Judging Contest.

James H. House, supervisor of the Boys' FFA Department at the Fair this year, observed that for seven successive years Allegany County FFA boys competed in a livestock judging contest at Fairgo.

Garrett Included

This year it was decided to expand the contest to include youngsters from Garrett County too.

House believes that between 50 and 60 boys, representing all nine FFA chapters in the two counties, will take part in the contest. In Allegany County FFA chapters function at Flintstone, Oldtown, Fort Hill, Allegany and Beall High Schools. Garrett County has chapters at Grantsville, Friendsville, Accident and Oakland High Schools.

The judging contest will be an all-day affair Thursday, Auguest 23. A total of $110 in premiums is offered for winners in these contests. The Cumberland Fair Association offers $60 of this prize money and the other $50 comes from the State FFA Association.

A different vocational agriculture teacher will be the chairman of each of the five classes in the contest.

The chairmen are John Reckner, Oakland, sheep; Marvin Callis, Accident, beef; Virgil Lough, Friendsville, swine; Merle Garletts, Grantsville, dairy cattle, and House, poultry.

Begins at 10

The livestock judging — sheep, beef and swine—will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday. At 1 p. m. the dairy cattle and poultry judging contests will begin.

Official judges for the contest will be Martin E. Gannon, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the University of Maryland, livestock; J. W. Pou, head of the Dairy Husbandry Department, University of Maryland, dairy cattle, and C. A. Smith, this city, manager and show secretary of the fair's Pultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Department, poultry.

All livestock to be judged by the boys will be selected from any the general entries at the fair.

Chief responsibility for preparations for the annual fair here rests with the officers and directors of the Cumberland Fair Association. Officers include Harry E. Flook, general manager; Tasker G. Lowndes, president; J. Glenn Beall, vice-president; John Schwarzenbach, treasurer; Carl Schmutz, corresponding secretary, and Frank A. Wolfhope. All also are directors. Other directors include Earl C. Robertson, F. Brooke Whiting, Charles Jeffries, R. F. McHenry, Albert O'Neal, Harry J. Barton, Clifton W. White, Oliver H. Bruce, Ja., nd William Winterberg.

Hi-Y Training Camp Planned

The fifth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y officers' training camp will get underway at Pleasant Valley Camp near Grantsville the weekend of Sept. 7-9, Winfield H. Adam, secretary of Central YMCA, announced.

This intensive training program is planned to develop more able officers and better Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs, Adam said, and is part of the Cumberland Central YMCA's youth curriculum.

All officers of the Cumberland, Hagerstown and Martinsburg, W. Va., Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs are eligible to attend the three-day affair, Adam continued, with advisors of the organizations also invited.

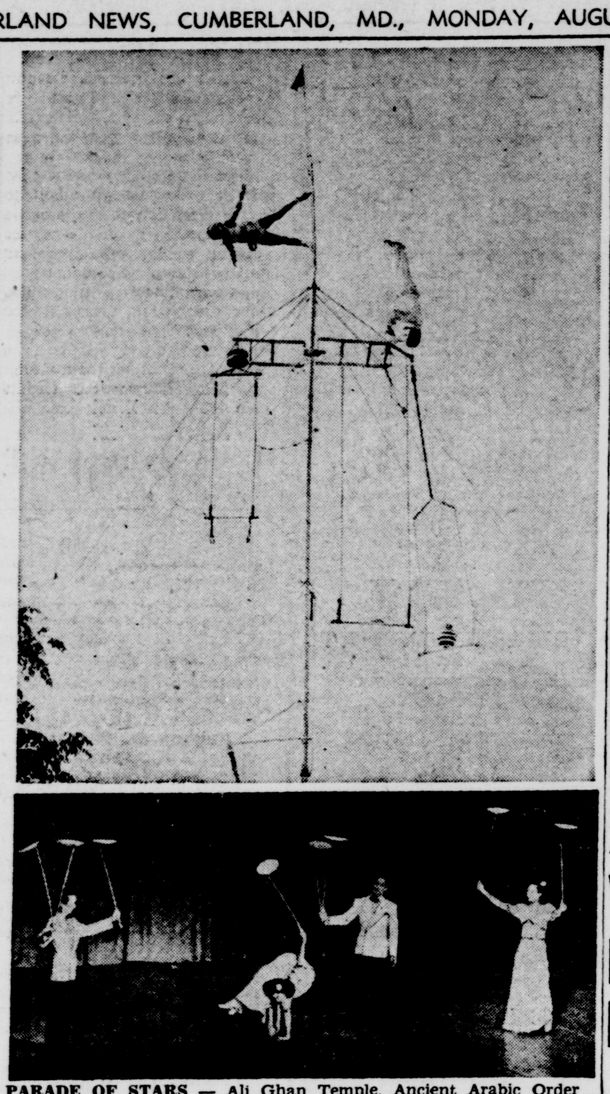
The training camp's program will consist of officer training discussions, model club meetings, demonstrations of good activities, fellowship with other club officers, co-ed activities, recreation, swimming, hiking, council fires and other outdoor studies.

The conference leader will be Ralph L. Lewis, new program secretary of the Central YMCA, and he will be assisted by Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of the Mt. Savage Episcopal Church, and Mrs. M. Carolyn Dunlap, advisor of the Fort Hill High School Tri-Hi-Y.

News In Brief

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will meet this evening at 9 o'clock in the club room, Baltimore Street. Following the meeting two movies on railroading will be shown.

LaVale Volunteer firemen yesterday answered a call about 3 o'clock near the police station. An automobile motor caught fire but little damage was reported by firemen.



PARADE OF STARS — Ali Ghan Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is sponsoring the Parade of Stars as its contribution to the Cumberland Fair which opens for one week at Fairgo today. The gala "Parade" includes numerous acts of entertainment for Fair attenders and will be held nightly on the stage in front of the grandstand. Two of the sensational acts which will appear as part of the Parade of Stars are Millette and Penny, a father and daughter aerialist team which performs on the high trapeze, and the La Foun Troupe, four accomplished acrobats and jugglers.

Today's Sermonette

Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord. 130th Psalm 1:1.

By REV. ALLEN B. L. FISHER

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Grace Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

There are four divisions in this Psalm and each contains two verses. They may be named prayer, penitence, patience and peace.

Prayer

1. "Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord. Lord, hear my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications."

Rev. Fisher

The prayer is drawn from the Psalmist's soul because he is down in the depths. Probably a great majority of real prayers have come up out of the depths. Perhaps that is one reason that there are depths to get into. The history of man and nations does not show that they lost their souls when in the depths but when on the heights. Be most prayerful in the depths. God hears from the depths. There is none too deep. God heard Dives even in Hell and called his "Son." "Who shall separate us from the love of God?" Paul exclaims, "I am persuaded that neither life nor death nor height nor depth shall separate us."

Penitence

2. "If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord who shall stand? But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared (worshipped)." The second division is most beautiful for it is the penitential division. I suppose that never is the human being so pleasing and so appealing in God's sight as when his heart is truly penitent. What an appeal there must have been to the heart of God when the penitent Psalmist, in longing hope, pleadingly said, "There is forgiveness with thee."

Patience

3 "I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait ,and in his word do I hope. My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning: I say more than they that watch for the morning." The third division is the one of patience. How much we miss through lack of patience! The delightful and refreshing glades, the cool shadows and refreshing fountains of waters are all passed by in our haste and restlessness. God is not hurried and that wealth that is His shall become ours when we learn how to wait upon Him. "Be still," he says, "and know that I am God." "In returning and rest shall ye be saved. In quietness and confidence shall be your strength." It is the finest art of the human soul—waiting for God as they that watch for the morning. The marvelous love of God and His grace are not known by shoutings and tumult and violence, but by patience. "Wait I say on the Lord."

Peace

4. "Let Israel hope in the Lord; for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption. And He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities." The peace of God is based upon hope. Hope is the very breath of life for God's children here. That hope is based upon the redemption, through our Lord Jesus Christ. "With the Lord there is mercy and there is redemption." Mercy and redemption! These two words explain the cross. May you know the eternal peace established by the Prince of Peace. Through Him may your hearts be kept in the peace of God that passeth understanding!

County Bar To Meet

The Allegany County Bar Association will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Law Library at Allegany County Court House.

Budget For 1951-52 Will Be Presented For Action Today

Action on a 1951-52 budget ordinance calling for a tax rate of $1.31 will be taken at a meeting of the Mayor and Council this morning.

Two of the five members of the city executive body declined to commit themselves when the budget calling for a four cent increase in the tax rate was presented Thursday morning.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said he wanted more time to study the budget, item by item, to see if some more of the appropriations could be trimmed.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, also declined to make a commitment at that time, saying she felt the budget should be studied more thoroughly and added there was no need for an immediate decision since formal action was not planned until today.

The budget provides $1,025,842.26 for operating expenses and $236,717.74 for debt service for a total of $1,262,560.

Officials said the tax rate was kept down one cent, to $1.31, by dividing the rate into 94.75 cents for operating expenses and 36.25 cents for debt service.

Rubber Workers Seek Wage Boost At Kelly Plant

Request Reopening Of Wage Clause

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers Union of America)CIO), has asked the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to open negotiations for a wage increase at the local tire plant.

The action was announced by R. C. Burkhart, president, at a meeting of the union Saturday night.

The request for the opening of talks on a "substantial wage increase" was made under terms of a reopening clause in the two-year pact which will be effective until May 1, 1953.

The discussions may open early in September and will include some 1,900 hourly paid workers at the plant.

The average wage at the plant is about $1.62 an hour.

A report on the 1951 CIO Summer School at Ohio State University was given at the meeting by Clarence Arnold and Delton Johnson, who represented Local 26 at the sessions.

Visitors Utilize Deep Creek Lake Fishing Paradise

Approximately 9,000 anglers fished the mountain waters of Deep Creek Lake during the month of July the State Game and Inland Fish Commissioner revealed. An estimated 33,000 man hours were spent, with varying degrees of success, by fishermen who came from all parts of the state and neighboring territory. Fishery investigators of the commission reveal that four per cent of the fishermen were cottage residents and that 96 per cent came as visitors and guests.

The monthly Creel Census on Deep Creek Lake reveals only fair success and the reservoir dropped below the average of other Maryland fishing waters. It took the average fisherman 2½ hours to land one fish and he spent approximately 4.8 hours fishing on each trip.

Further proof of the State's argument that stocking is not entirely the answer or synonymous with good fishing is substantiated by information regarding fish in the creel. Thirty-nine per cent of the total catch were Black Crappie, 27 per cent Yellow Perch, eight per cent Smallmouth Black Bass of which 600 were keepers and 2,870 had to be returned and five per cent Largemouth Bass, 340 of which were keepers and 350 of which were returned.

Technicians point out that Smallmouth Black Bass are not stocked as adults although Largemouth Black Bass weighing over 1½ pounds have been stocked in Deep Creek Lake annually. The Largemouth fishery is not holding up compared to Smallmouth "natives." Therefore, considerable time should be given to this Smallmouth Bass program according to Maryland Inland Fishing Authorities. Other species caught were Sunfish, Rock Bass, Brown Bullheads, Channel Catfish and Golden Shiners.

Five Transactions Listed In Deeds

Five deeds, two involving large tracts of land, have been recorded in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

Largest consideration was involved in the sale of property on the east side of Allegany Street, near Paca Street, for about $14,000. Ida B. Brandler sold the property to Charles L. Collins and Hazel A. Lemon.

Henry H. Fazenbaker transferred ownership of some 414 acres of land along the east side of the county road leading from Lonaconing to Westernport to Charles T. Clise and Ruth B. Clise for about $12,000. This area is part of the tract called "Walbridge."

Joseph Edgar Dennison sold property to Fred M. Ruehl and Marion R. Ruehl on the west side of Auburn Avenue, near Fort Hill Avenue, for about $8,500. Lula Blanche Zembower and J. Reese Zembower sold two lots and improvements on the south side of Bedford Road, east of Cumberland, to Susan Pearl Dickens, for about $6,500. Eleanor E. Kerns transferred to Mary A. Schriver and Gertrude V. Schriver her ownership of 117 acres along Gorman Road in Election District 33.

University Plans Police School In September

Chief D. B. Wiseman To Direct Program

A police school is being planned at the University of Maryland this fall. Chief Daniel B. Wiseman of the University police announces all mayors and councilmen are urged to call the proposed school to the attention of their police departments in a newsletter from the Maryland Municipal League.

The school will consist of five classes of three hours each every other month from September through May of 1952 with certificates being issued at completion of the course.

The meetings will be held in the auditorium of the Agriculture Building and will convene at seven p. m. on the scheduled dates.

Under direction of Chief Wiseman, the details of the school will be arranged for by Dean Joseph M. Ray of the College of Special and Continuation Studies of the University.

The tentative program is as follows:

September 11, Traffic. Members of the Maryland State Police: Major Ruxton M. Ridgely, Cpl. J. A. McIsaac, TFC J. F. White. Members of the American Automobile Association. Claud R. McCamment, Richard Hartman. Lectures, visual instruction and motion pictures will be available.

November 13, Court Room Procedure. State's Attorney Carlyle Lancaster, Prince Georges County, Circuit Court Judge Dudley Diggs, Members of the Faculty of the University.

January 8, Reports and Files: Evidence. State Police: Captain G. E. Davidson, Lt. J. T. Knight. Members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

March 11, Boys Clubs as Police Activity. Lt. William Hartung, Baltimore City Police Department. The Value Of Photography in Evidence. State Police: Sgt. P. B. Rowland. Members of the Prince Georges County Police.

May 13, Criminal Investigation and Interrogation. State Police Capt. G. E. Davidson, Sgt. J. J. Cassidy and Sgt. G. E. Newcomer.

The school is being presented by the University in cooperation with the State Police, the American Automobile Association, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Prince George's County Police Department and the State's Attorneys and Magistrates of Prince Georges County

Electrification Contest Again Open To 4-H

Adult 4-H Club received word from Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the County Rural Electrification Demonstration awards will be made again this year.

The announcement discloses that the Maryland Utilities Association is giving Maryland 4-H Club girls and boys an opportunity to win their way to 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland.

Awards are made for outstanding rural electrification developments in each county of the state. The 4-H contest allows for as many as 46 winners, two per county. The scholarships are for next year's 4-H Club Week at College Park.

Winners will be selected from 4-H Club demonstrations given during the summer and fall months this year.

Last year the county winners were Richard Fagan and Nelson Robinson of the Union Grove 4-H Club.

The adult leaders have received a list of contest rules. One emphasizes that to qualify for an award in any county there must be competition among at least three rural electrification demonstrations in the county.

Exchange Club To Hold Picnic Aug. 25

The Cumberland Exchange Club will hold its annual picnic at Ali Ghan Shrine Club on Saturday, August 25.

All members who plan to attend the event are urged to contact John M. Robb, chairman.

The regular Tuesday meetings of the club have been cancelled until September 4, it was announced yesterday.

Flood Conduit Construction To Cross Centre St.

Intersection Work To Begin Today

Construction of the pressure conduit through the intricate maze of cables and pipe line at the intersection of Frederick and Centre streets will get underway today the Corps of Army Engineers announced.

Flood work is progressing satisfactorily with only major construction at the Frederick Street and Greene Street sections remaining, they added.

Thomas Earle and Sons, subcontractors on the Frederick Street phase, reported they were ready to cross Centre Street at Frederick with the large pressure conduit which extends to Henderson Avenue.

The contractors hope to work on one side of Centre doing most of the digging and construction by hand, leaving the other half of the street for traffic. When the first section is completed it will be bridged for traffic and the second half will be started, they stated.

The excessive number of water, gas and sewer lines and telephone cables under the intersection plus the small area makes it impossible for the use of heavy machinery and most of the work must be done by hand labor, the engineers pointed out.

The conduit along Valley Street has been completed and the coffer dam on the north end of the street will be removed this week. Blacktopping of the street surface is also expected to be started immediately, they went on.

The removal of steel piling at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad on Williams Street will complete that portion of the work. The Lehigh Street-Walnut Alley conduit is fast approaching its junction with Greene Street and the crossing of the main West Side thoroughfare remains the large major portion of that construction work.

Work on the Henderson Avenue portion of the Frederick Street job is not expected to be started for some time yet, the engineers explained. That will probably be the final stage of the present phase of the flood project.

School Lunch Participation Hits Record

More than 8,600,000 children participated in the National school lunch program during the 1950-51 school year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. Participation established a new record, being 10 percent more than in 1949-50 and 42 percent more than the first year of operation (1946-47), according to Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee.

The school lunch program is designed to improve the health and well-being of the Nation's children and to broaden the market for agricultural food commodities.

Out of a total of 1.4 billion lunches served during the year, 67 percent were complete lunches (Type A), compared with 64 percent the year before. The Type A meal must furnish at least one-third of a child's daily nutritional requirements and consist of a minimum of one-half pint of milk, two ounces of meat, poultry, fish or other protein-rich food, three-fourths cup of vegetables or fruit, and a serving of bread and butter or margarine.

The total cost of the program in 1950-51 was $350 million, of which $214 million was spent for food locally by participating schools under supervision of the state department of education.

The Production and Marketing Administration, which administers the program for the department, allocated more than $68 million directly to the states and territories. Federal funds averaged 4.9 cents per meal served, compared with 5.1 cents the previous year.

Allocations to the states are made on the basis of state per capita income and the number of children of school age, with participating schools being reimbursed for a part of the food costs on the basis of the number of meals served.

City Firemen Check Two Fires Yesterday

City firemen answered two calls yesterday. Central Fire Company extinguished an overheated refrigerator motor at the residence of C. L. Moyer, 624 North Centre Street, at 4:40 a. m. Firemen said the house was filled with smoke as a result of the fire.

Spontaneous combustion caused gasoline fumes to catch fire yesterday afternoon in an automobile owned by Donald Weber, 534 Eastern Avenue. South End firemen answered the call at 3:08 at Constitution Park. No damage was reported in either fire.

Weather

The beautiful summerish day yesterday was incentive for a refreshing swim, a picnic, or a stroll through the woods. The temperature was ideal for a siesta near a babbling brook. The high mercury reading reported by the weatherman at Constitution Park was 90, the low 55 and at 8 p. m. yesterday the thermometer stood at 77. Humidity registered yesterday was 39 per cent. The forecaster predicts some cloudiness today with little change in temperature. The high will be in the middle 80's.

Army Engineers Face House Group Quiz On Flood Control Projects

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee complained today that the Army Engineers have drastically underestimated the cost of civil works projects through inadequate planning.

It called for new procedures to give Congress more accurate data on flood control and rivers and harbors projects.

It also called for a restudy of projects now under construction..

Saturation Point Is Reached

The new procedures—principally up-to-date planning reports and revised cost estimates—will be effective next year when the Army Engineers come before the appropriations committee to justify their annual budget for "civil functions."

Reporting on an investigation of cost increases on 182 projects now being built, the committee said:

"Undoubtedly, some of the 182 projects would not be under construction today if Congress had had reliable information from the Corps of Engineers, developed by competent engineering planning."

The committee concluded also that the "saturation point for civil works projects has been reached, and no new projects should be undertaken until the current construction program is advanced to a considerable degree."

It said, however, that it would not foreclose early consideration of "any proposed projects involving urgent matters of grave import."

The committee said the 182 projects were estimated to cost $2,638,517,000 when Congress authorized them beginning in 1927. The same projects are now estimated to cost $5,912,451,000.

The committee did not hold the engineers responsible for price increases which have added $1,887,000,000 to original cost estimates or for authorized project extensions amounting to $576,814,000.

30.6 Per Cent Added

But, it said, some $800,000,000, or 30.6 per cent, has been added to original cost estimates because of engineering and economic miscalculations.

The committee itemized them as follows:

Inadequacies, defined as omissions in planning and estimating, $188,975,000.

Unforeseen conditions, $279,524,000.

Structural and engineering modifications, $206,194,000.

Changed local needs or situations, $134,515,000.

Weather Forecast
Some cloudiness today with little change in temperature.

NEW CRISIS PERILS TRUCE TALKS

GOP Senators Demand Free Korea

Charge Reds In State Dept. Affect Policy

Acheson's Asiatic Course Criticized

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Eight Republican senators called on the Truman administration tonight to demand "liberation and unification" of Korea as the price for peace in that country.

In a blistering attack on the administeration's foreign policies, the eight senators accused President Truman of "doing nothing" to help Congress rid the State Department of "Communist infiltration." They said such Red influences have affected Far Eastern policies of the United States government.

The loss of China to the Communists was due, they declared, to the Yalta agreement and administration "appeasement" of Reds.

The eight are Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, Wiley of Wilconsin H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Knowland of California, Cain of Washington, Brewster of Maine and Flanders of Vermont.

Without directy endorsing MacArthur's proposals for bombing Manchuria, blockading Red China and using Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa, the Senators said that "any peace short of the liberation nad unification of Korea is a delusion." MacArthur made his proposals long before truce negotiations began at Kaesong.

Sen. Cain (R-Wash), who had a hand in drafting the report, told newsmen that in demanding liberation of all Korea, the Republicans were talking about a permanent peace settlement. He said that while a cease-fire might be reached on terms short of Communist evacuation of all Korea, he believes any final peace that does not unify the country will be unsatisfactory.

The eight Republicans laid stress on unification.

"If a truce is negotiated, based upon the restoration of the status quo at the 38th parallel, the Communists will remain in control of the northern half of the country and the objectives of the United Nations will not have been fulfilled," their report said, continuing:

"Any settlement at the 38th parallel is a Chinese Communist victory x x x Gen. MacArthur had driven the North Koreans to the Yalu (boundary between Korea and Manchuria) and had victory within his grasp when this new and formidable enemy entered the field. To make a settlement south of the Yalu therefore is to admit the success of the Chinese aggressors."

Attached to the views of the eight were letters by Sen. Lodge (R-Mass) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) supporting a few of the GOP contentions.

U. S. Production Swells To Record $326 Billion Year

WASHINGTON, July 19 (AP) — The country's total output of goods and services swelled to a record $326,000,000,000-a-year volume in the second quarter of this year, the Commerce Department reported today.

This reflected a nearly 20 per cent increase in overall output in the first 12 months of the Korean war—as measur d in dollar volume. But the figures were inflated somewhat by higher prices, making the speed-up seem greater than it actually was.

The rate of gain was slackening, too, for the April-May-June quarter produced only $7,000,000,000 of the $51,000,000,000 annual rate rise which occurred in the entire 12 months following the outbreak of the Korean war.

Foes Of Aid Bill Cut Face Uphill Battle In Senate

Committees Take Up Big Measure Today

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18 (AP) — Administration backers will renew an uphill struggle tomorrow to stave off a big slash in the Truman $8,500,000,000 foreign aid bill.

The House has already sliced $1,001,000,000 off the big bill, designed to erect economic and military defenses against Communism in Europe and elsewhere. In the Senate some members of both parties are talking of a total reduction of possibly $2,000,000,000.

Sen. Connally (D-Tex) will convene the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees in joint session tomorrow to start going over the bill and revising it for presentation to the Senate.

Special target of those who hope to wield the pruning knife is the economic aid section of the bill, amounting to $2,200,000,000. They argue that Europe is on the road to economic recovery, with the aid of Marshall Plan billions, and that the U. S. taxpayer can't stand any more huge grants. The administration contends that continued economic aid is as important as guns in erecting barriers against Communism.

While the big foreign aid bill is under committee consideration, the Senate Finance Committee will meet tomorrow to try to speed action on the administration's request for greatly increased taxes.

No one was predicting, however, that the President would get the $10,000,000,000 he asked. The House voted $7,200,000,000 and many senators are talking of a still smaller sum.

Youth Marooned On Texas Peak

EI PASO, Tex., Aug. 19 (AP) — A college sophomore, fascinated most of his life by 8,751-foot Guadalupe Peak, was marooned on that mountain tonight without food or water—one of his legs painfully punctured by cactus spines.

He is John Eoff, 19, son of a Ballinger, Tex., dentist and a student at Abilene Christian College.

A companion, Jim Erwin, also 19, said Eoff fell to an almost inaccessible ledge.

Eddy County (N.M.) Deputy Sheriff Ed Price estimated late this afternoon that rescuers could not reach the youth until about midnight.

Eoff slipped and fell into the cactus about 6:30 a. m. (CST) today. He had nothing to eat or drink with him. The fall was at about the 8,000-foot level.

Erwin said the cactus spines punctured the ligament of a leg and Eoff was unable to move.

Acheson Blasts 12 Accusations By Calif. Official

Secretary Replies To Knight's Charges

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson has denounced as "either entirely incorrect or distortions of the truth" 12 accusations made against him by Lt. Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California.

The criticisms range from his handling of Formosa policy through State Department security questions to the Alger Hiss case.

They were formulated by Knight, a Republican, after he had been challenged by John B. Elliott, Los Angeles civic leader and a Democrat to back up criticisms of Acheson in a speech Knight made at Chico, California, April 17.

Acheson Forwards Replies

Knight's complaints were sent to the State Department by Elliott with a request that they be answered in detail. Acheson forwarded replies from his staff.

At one point in the exchange the State Department said approximately $90,000,000 in arms and ordnance has been given Chiang Kai-Shek's Nationalist Chinese forces on Formosa, and $300,000,000 more is scheduled this year.

In addition, the department mentioned a "600-man" United States military mission on Formosa "assisting in the reorganization of Chiang's forces."

On June 24, Maj. Gen. William C. Chase, head of the mission, said in Taipeh, Formosa, the U.S. group had 1,250 members.

No Explanation Of Variation

Tonight, in answer to a request for clarification, the Defense Department said it has announced that 500 to 600 men, are there now. There was no explanation of the variations.

While Elliott released the exchange of correspondence between himself, Knight and Acheson, Knight also released in Los Angeles his latest letter to Elliott on the controversy.

Knight's letter of Aug. 18 was written after he had received, through Elliott, the Acheson rebuttals. Knight continues disputing the Secretary and in a concluding paragraph declares: "The finest thing Dean Acheson could do would be to resign today."

Gen. Bradley Says He Is Anticipating Korean Armistice

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley said tonight he is anticipating a truce in Korea. But he warned that any letdown in the defense effort might be "handing our future chances for freedom to those who would enslave us."

In a CBS radio talk, the United States Chief of Staff merely noted "we Americans are anticipating an armistice" and did not elaborate. Word from Korea was that cease-fire negotiations slipped back toward a pattern of deadlock.

"The armistice would mean that the United Nations have met one more challenge, that we have won another tough engagement in the continuing struggle with Communist aggression," Bradley said.

Even with a truce, he cautioned, "it may be some time before our troops are withdrawn."

Atomic Defense Buildup Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Civil Defense Administrator Millard Caldwell said today that not one city in the United States "has even approached the point where it could withstand an atomic attack now."

What's more, Caldwell said in a broadcast, the armed forces would not be able to supply adequate protection against an atomic attack against this country.

Caldwell said that his organization had "done the basic necessary planning and we have the basic organization" for effective civil defense work in an emergency.

But he added that this was only about one-fifteenth of the preparation needed. He called for 15,000,000 volunteer workers in the civil defense program, and more money from Congress to carry out the program.

Child Who Teethed On Window Sill Dies

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19 (AP) — Two-year-old Thomas Cubbage, Baltimore, who teethed on the kitchen window sill, died yesterday at Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Lead poisoning from eating paint from the sill was blamed for the child's death, hospital officials said.

The child's father said Thomas had been eating paint from the sill and from an outside wall for the past year and a half.

"Peace Pledge" Closes German Red Youth Rally

Half Million Swear Allegiance To Stalin

BERLIN, Aug. 19 (AP)—A half million young German Communists massed in East Berlin's Red Square swore allegiance to Stalin and his "world peace" drive tonight.

With clenched fists aloft, the vast throng of blue-shirted Soviet zone boys and girls vowed to "wreck the criminal plans of the Western warmakers."

Three times they shouted:
"We swear it."

Communist rulers of East Germany brought the crowd to a pitch with two hours of haranguing against the West. German, French, Soviet, Chinese, Korean Communists and one American, a woman known as Frances Damon, railed at President Truman's policies and Western Europe's defense preparations.

Grotewohl Heads Speakers

East German Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl climaxed the speeches with the declaration the Reds would strike at and sabotage Western rearmament.

The oath-taking rite ended the final rally of the two-weeks-long "World Youth Festival" sponsored by the Kremlin. It has jammed Berlin with two million German youth and 22,000 Red leaders from scores of nations.

The young Germans were brought to the rally in trucks under the direction of their unit leaders.

Older East Berliners were told pointedly that they should be there, too, on the sidelines. Many came. The Marx-Engels Square was a sea of humanity and the adjoining streets, including Unter Den Linden, were choked with onlookers.

Anti-Reds Leave "Sign"

The oath-taking rite injected some German drama, much like the old Nazi mass hysteria. The fireworks display that capped the whole jamboree appeared to be by far the most appreciated part of the program.

West Berlin anti-Communists left their "sign" on the Red rally. Three times, small balloons came over and discharged hundreds of anti-Red pamphlets that floated down over the crowd and were scooped up. Communist police and "Free German Youth" (FDJ) orderlies seized the leaflets as quickly as they could.

Storm, Growing In Ferocity, Has 130-Mile Winds

Rising Winds Whistle Over Old Mayan Ruins

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP) — The hurricane that killed at least 60 people on Jamaica slammed into the Yucatan peninsula tonight.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the great Caribbean storm, still packing 130-mile-an-hour winds, hit the coast of the peninsula at 10:30 p.m. (EST).

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 19 (AP)—Winds that reached 80 miles an hour at 8 p. m. and were rapidly increasing thundered across Cozumel island as the Caribbean hurricane bore down upon the Yucatan peninsula tonight.

The center, packing 130-mile winds, was 40 miles offshore and was expected to cross the coastline within a few hours about 40 miles to the south of Cozumel, storm warning headquarters at Miami reported. Rising winds whistled over the ancient Mayan ruins on the Yucatan peninsula.

By midnight the rampaging winds will lash the ruins of the old cities of Chichen Itza, Uxmal and Tuloon, and the modern city of Merida on the north coast. The storm is expected to cross Yucatan and enter the Gulf of Mexico tomorrow.

Behind it lay devastation and at least 60 dead in the British colonial island of Jamaica.

Far behind it, in the spawning area of hurricanes, falling barometric pressure and changing wind patterns northeast of Puerto Rico indicated an "area of suspicion" which Miami storm warning headquarters said will be closely watched. A hurricane hunter airplane will probe the area tomorrow.

Rainsqualls with rising wind spattered Cozumel island, off the east coast of Yucatan. The steamship William Lykes, north of the Yucatan channel which separates Cuba and the mainland, reported heavy squalls of 55-mile winds.

Barring a sudden change of direction, the storm center will pass between Cozumel island and Ascension Bay, cross the narrow Mexican state of Quintana Roo and move into Yucatan about midnight. Hurricane winds were forecast for all of the northern half of the Yucatan peninsula and adjacent waters.

This advisory disclosed the tropic-born monster has grown alarmingly in size and ferocity in the past few hours of its passage along the open sea.

60 Dead In Jamaica; 70 Prisoners Escape

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 19 (AP) —Residents of this British island colony, still groggy from the worst hurricane in its history, organized a manhunt today for 70 prisoners who fled when the winds toppled a wall of the island penitentiary here.

The death toll from the big blow Friday night and yesterday was estimated at 60. The damage was put unofficially at close to $17,000,000.

Four died in Port Royal, a town of 2,000 that lies at the end of a long, sandy tongue of land that bounds Kingston on the south. Not one building there remained in sound condition.

Eight died in May Pen, near the former U. S. base, Vernam Field.

But Kingston was the hardest hit. The capital city of 120,000 was without light and power. Communications were crippled.

Baruch Optimistic On 81st Birthday

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Bernard M. Baruch (above), adviser to presidents, was 81 years old today but he put off any birthday celebration until he is 90.

His plans for the day were a quiet home observance with family and a few close friends and a stroll in Central Park.

The tall financier interrupted this routine long enough to receive reporters and photographers in his Manhattan apartment and to pass out some optimistic observations.

He listed this country's two main enemies as the Kremlin and inflation, but declared:

"We'll come out of this all right."

Allied Attacks, Jet Battle Mark Korean Fighting

Two Red MIGs Are Downed, 5 Damaged

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP)—Allied troops fought forward in sharp, limited-offensive attacks aimed at key hill positions on the Korean west-central, central and eastern fronts in bad weather Sunday.

In the air over Red Northwest Korea, 29 American F-86 Sabrejets fought a spectacular battle with 46 Communist jets. The Air Force reported two Red MIG-15s were destroyed and five were damaged, while all American planes returned from this third big jet fight in two days.

North Koreans Fight Back

A dispatch from the east-central front just before midnight Sunday said dogged Allied infantry, drenched by the driving rain and near exhaustion, had inched their way to the top of a mountain mass north of Yanggu.

Even with their supply route cut in the rear by well-placed artillery fire, the North Koreans continued to fight back, however.

An Eighth Army briefing officer said that in this heaviest action of the day, rain was so heavy and visibility so poor that the advancing Allies often could see only 75 feet.

Northwest and southwest of the east coastal town of Kansong, other Allied forces seized, lost and seized again a series of hilltops from stubborn Red defenders.

Allies Take Strategic Hills

On the west-central front Allied troops took two strategic hills north and northwest of Kumhwa. A few hundred yards farther north, however, they confronted a 3,300-foot mountain pass from which entrenched Communists poured down artillery and mortar fire.

Farther west, the Allies launched an attack north of Yonchon but were forced to withdraw under heavy enemy fire.

All these actions at chosen points along a 100-mile-wide front were aimed at securing dominant heights.

Reds Protest Neutral Zone "Violation"

U. N. Command Hints Charge Trumped Up

MUNSAN, Korea, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP)—The U. N. command said today the possibility exists that North Korean guerrillas violated the Kaesong neutral zone to break off the armistice talks and keep the war going.

An official release said the joint investigation of the incident yesterday failed completely to identify the armed bands as belonging to any U. N. command military formation.

A joint liaison team yesterday investigated Red complaints that an Allied band had killed one Red and wounded another inside the Kaesong neutral zone early Sunday morning.

The release said the U. N. command was continuing its inquiry today.

The chief Communist delegate at truce talks, North Korean Lt. Gen. Nam Il, already had protested officially, Peiping radio said.

The protest and the firm Allied statement brought the talks to a new crisis.

Joy And Ridgway Confer

Nam Il demanded "a satisfactory reply immediately."

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy conferred in Tokyo with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

The U. N. command said members of a Chinese patrol ambushed near Panmunjom were able to describe one of the attackers only as "a plainclothesman with a white shirt, black trousers and carrying a sidearm."

The assistant platoon commander, Li Ching-Lin, told Col. James Murray, U.N. investigator, that none of the attacking group was seen wearing steel helmets. The helmets are standard equipment for all U.N. regular forces.

But Li added that he could not see clearly "because I was running away."

Murray said other members of the Chinese squad were unable to give any direct evidence as to the identity of their assailants.

Throughout the Korean war roving partisan bands have pillaged and looted in many sections of Korea.

Only Reds Police Zone

Since the start of the talks the Reds have insisted on exclusively policing the Kaesong neutral zone.

Joy flew to Tokyo last night.

The chief of the United Nations cease-fire delegation was accompanied by Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, truce team member who sat in on the smaller subcommittee which is trying to iron out differences on a buffer zone.

The informal subcommittee session slipped back Sunday toward the pattern of deadlock which had marked the larger meetings.

Results of the subcommittee talks are closely guarded secrets. The four-member joint committee had another session slated for today—11 a. m. (8 p. m., EST, Sunday). Sunday's meeting lasted only 90 minutes, the shortest session since the smaller group convened Friday.

Czechs See Launching Of Freedom Balloons

MUNICH, Aug. 19 (INS)—The Crusade for Freedom loosed a new balloon-pamphlet barrage directed at Czechoslovakia today and reported that Czech observers witnessed the launching from a plane.

Workers for the Western organization sending missives through the sky to points behind the iron curtain said that a Czech liaison type plane hovered over the launching area near Bavaria for an hour during the afternoon.

Tanker Blast Kills Six

SINGAPORE, Monday, Aug. 20 (AP) —Two explosions and fire aboard a Shell Oil Co. tanker early today left six persons dead, 10 missing, and more than 20 injured.

U. S. Jet Pilot Sets Speed Record Of 628.698 Miles An Hour

DETROIT, Aug. 19 (AP)—An Air Force test pilot pushed a fully-armed F-86E Sabrejet fighter plane around a 100-kilometer oval at 628.698 miles an hour today to break all existing world records for a closed course of the 62-mile-plus distance.

Col. Fred J. Ascani set the mark in streaking around the Wayne Major Airport in the featured Thompson Trophy event of the National Air Races.

But an even higher mark—635.411 mph—racked up by Col. Ascani in a trial run Friday over the same course probably will be certified eventually by world aviation authorities as the new world record.

In other top events of the big two-day air show's final day:

John Paul Johns, Van Nuys, Calif., won the famed Continental Motors Trophy race for midget planes for the second straight year with a record breaking average of 197.318 mph for the 37½ mile course.

A last-minute starter, First Lt. William D. Baisley, San Francisco, won the Allison jet race to Indianapolis and return — an event in which several persons narrowly escaped death.

Lt. Col. John W. Lafko, 32-year-old Korean war veteran, from Austin, Tex., made a crash landing with his F-84 Thunder Jet shortly after his takeoff in the Allison event. He barely skimmed over several automobiles on a car-jammed highway adjoining the airport.

In the Thompson event, Col. Ascani, a veteran of 53 combat missions in World War II, and now chief test pilot in the Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., covered the 100-kilometer course in five minutes, 55.804 seconds in his orange-nosed Sabre.

A crowd of 91,000 gasped in awe as he streaked across the airport at the start and finish of the speed run.

His Friday record was not made public pending today's performance. National Aeronautic Association officials said today's mark would be certified as the Thompson record and that Friday's mark would be submitted to Federation Aeronautic Internationale for certification as the world record for such a course.

The old record was 605.230 mph, set by John Douglas Derry of Great Britain in a British-made DeHavilland Sapphire jet April 12, 1948. But air race officials said Col. Ascani's plane was a stock model off North American's assembly line and the British plane was stripped down especially for the speed test.

British-Iranian Oil Talks Bogged Down

TEHRAN, Iran, Aug. 19 (AP) — British-Iranian oil talks bogged down in delay and confusion today. Both sides apparently were trying to dodge responsibility for any breakdown of negotiations.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi said the Iranian reply submitted last night rejected most British proposals for breaking the deadlock that has closed the nationalized, British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's Abadan refinery.

It had been announced the Iranian reply would be published tonight, but after meeting for an hour the negotiators announced it would be held up, apparently for fear it would result in a final break.

Young Actress Forsakes Film Career To Become Nun

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19 (AP) — Movie Actress Juanita Quigley, at 20 a veteran in motion pictures, has forsaken her screen career to become Sister Quentin Rita of the Catholic Daughters of Mary and Joseph.

She knelt in a bridal gown before the altar of St. Paul the Apostle's Church yesterday and promised herself to Christ. Her promise was given with those of two other young women in exercises conducted by the Most Rev. Timothy Manning, auxiliary bishop of Los Angeles.

Miss Quigley was known as "Baby Jane" when she was a child star in films. She has appeared in scores of pictures, one of the first being with Claudette Colbert in "Imitation of Life" in which she had more than 400 speaking lines. Her last film was "National Velvet" starring Mickey Rooney. Juanita's sister, Rita, was an actress also, and last appeared in Joan Crawford's film "Susan And God." Rita has forsaken films for marriage and now is Mrs. Arthur Goehner.

Juanita began turning down movie and television parts more than a year ago and devoting herself to studies, and a year ago she told her mother, Mrs. Wayne Quigley, that she wished to become a nun.

12 Instructors Resign Posts In Garrett Schools

Teachers Meeting Slated Sept. 5

OAKLAND — The Legislative Committee of the County Teachers Association appeared before a recent meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education to discuss emergency in teacher salaries.

Members of the committee included Carl Everly, Mason Callis, Bruce Jenkins, Katheryn Speicher, Merle Frantz and W. J. Glenn.

R. Bowen Hardesty, superintendent of Garrett county schools, said the following resignations had been accepted:

Paul E. Stickley, Bittinger; Sarah A. Griffin, Oakland High; Edward J. O'Rourke, Friendsville High, Carl Arbogast, Friendsville; Helen R. Kelly, Friendsville; Alfred R. Brown, Joseph A. Moran and Sheldon K. Riggs, Grantsville High; Marshall Brown, Oakland High; Grayson Burrier, Oakland High; Merle H. Broadwater, Avilton; Violet A. Hall, Hoyes Run.

Hardesty said that nine of those who had resigned had done so because of receiving higher salaries in other positions.

In the meantime, bus contractors will receive their third increase in salary rates as of September 1st, the board learned. This is taken care of in the state budget. The first raise came September 1, 1949, and the second about three months ago, Hardesty said.

The board approved the plan of dividing the school auditorium into four classrooms, using the stage as a fifth classroom, to take care of the increased enrollment. Hardesty added that plans were being worked out with General Reckord, head of the National Guard in the state for use of the armory this year for physical education classes and as a gymnasium.

The board approved plans for tiling the physical education field in Grantsville to prevent further erosion, and also came to a satisfactory arrangement with the Town Council in regard to a new sidewalk in front of the Oakland Elementary School.

Under improvements, it was reported that the exterior of the Kitzmiller, Grantsville, Friendsville and Oakland Elementary schools had been painted, the flue rebuilt on the Oakland Elementary; the exterior and interior of Corunna, New Germany and Spring Glade schools, the exterior of Wilson schools repainted; that fluorescent lights were being placed in Oakland Elementary; new lights in Mt. Zion School, and standard lighting being installed at Swan Meadow.

Schools will open Thursday, September 6, preceded by a county-wide teachers' meeting on Wednesday, September 5.

The board learned of progress on the two new high schools, which has been retarded due to lack of steel.

At the Cove, furnaces were being placed this week. All the steel has been received there, with about one-third set. The glazed tile partition in the cafeteria section is also being built.

At Oakland, steel deliveries are still somewhat delayed. There were shipments Monday and Tuesday and the contractor believes the balance would be received by the end of the week. Furnaces were also being set and the cement walk being laid.

Crellin Wedding Is Announced

SWANTON — Helen Fitzwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fitzwater, North Glade, and Hugh A. Friend, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Friend, Deer Park, were united in marriage August 3 at Crellin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Irvin Fike at his parsonage.

The bride was attired in a navy blue suit with white accessories and a red rosebud corsage. Their only attendant was the bride's sister, Eileen Fitzwater. Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Oakland High School. They will reside in Alliance, Ohio.

In some cases of bell ringing, the bells are sounded by means of a cylinder, on the principle of a barrel organ. In others, they are played with keys by the musician.

DISMISSED — Bob Orders, former all-state center at Huntington Central High School and a member of the Army football team last year, has been released by the U. S. Military Academy. Orders did not say he was one of the 90 West Point Cadets discharged on charges of cribbing on examinations. But his mother, Mrs. J. W. Orders, quoted him as being "awfully mad at the way some officers up there treated him." Orders reportedly may seek admittance to West Virginia University. (AP Photo)

McCarthy Target Of Lying Charge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Deputy Undersecretary of State Carl Humelsine tonight accused Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) of lying and "riding piggyback" on rehashed, old and completely disproved charges of Communist infiltration in the State Department.

McCarthy's repeated charges are disrupting department work to some extent, Humelsine said. And he added if he finds anyone in the department feeding McCarthy information, the employe will be fired.

Humelsine, in charge of the department's loyalty-security program, discussed McCarthy's charges during a television interview. McCarthy was not available immediately for comment.

Humelsine disclosed that of 28,000 department employes, "several thousand" have access to secret papers.

In connection with the department's loyalty program he said 800 employes have been under such suspicion that "detailed, serious" investigations were made. And 15 have been found unfit, while 188 quit while under scrutiny.

This is one of the points on which Humelsine directly charged McCarthy with making a statement that "isn't true." The Senator has contended the department's loyalty board has never found one of its employes unfit for government service, because of Communist activity.

When Is A Bridge Not A Bridge?

Magistrate J. Milton Dick has a poser for the attorney general:

Is a bridge just a bridge or is it part of a highway?

The answer could mean plenty—dollar-wise—to trucking firms accused of operating overweight vehicles.

For instance, there could be a $100 penalty if you exceed the weight limit of a certain bridge in Western Maryland. But if a bridge is classed as part of a highway—as one section of the truck weight law says it is—then the penalty could run into hundreds of dollars.

The magistrate is awaiting word from the attorney general before ruling in a case of the Elliott Motor Lines of Winchester, Va.

A driver for the trucking company is charged with exceeding by 17,300 pounds the load limit of the Potomac River bridge from Wiley Ford, W. Va. If it's just a bridge load violation it's a $100 fine. If it's highway load violation, the fine is six cents for each pound over the limit.

Termination Of Pact Irks Moscow Radio

LONDON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Moscow radio said tonight the Soviet ambassador in Washington has told the U. S. State Department that the ending of the Soviet-American trade agreement was "a further worsening of Soviet-American relations."

The broadcast said the Soviet ambassador gave his government's note to the State Department yesterday in reply to the U. S. decision to terminate the trade agreement of 1937.

The note said the U. S. action was "in contradiction to the appeal of the U. S. Congress to the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. and the message of President Truman to N. M. Shvernik, president of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet of the U.S.S.R. which speak of striving for an improvement of Soviet-American relations."

Revenues Increase In July For B&O

Railway operating revenues of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for July were slightly more than $36,000,000, it was announced today following the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors.

This was nearly $3,500,000 higher than revenues for July of last year when earnings were affected to some extent by the lake dock strike. However, railway operating expenses increased by more than $3,500,000 because of higher wage and material costs. The maintenance of equipment item was more than a million and a half higher and the cost of running trains more than a million dollars higher than for July, 1950.

A son, Sgt. Carl Pennington, was killed on the Normandy Beach during World War II, and another son, Keith, died in infancy.

The body is at the Greenlief Funeral Home here where services will be conducted 3 p. m. today by the Rev. Robert L. Greynolds, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church. Burial will be in the Parsons cemetery.

Daughter Is Born To Hatcheck Girl At Swanky Club

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 19 (AP) — A 21-year-old hatcheck girl gave birth to a six-pound, 13-ounce girl early this morning in a cocktail lounge at Ciro's, swanky filmland night club.

While the floor show was on in full swing, Impressario Herman Hover stepped out on the stage to ask the time honored question:

"Is there a doctor in the house?"

There was. Dr. Bert Tardeau hurried to the private cocktail lounge upstairs and delivered the baby to Margaret Barstow, operator of the hatcheck stand. Her husband, Bruce, 24, an engineering student was at her side.

U. S. Planes Soon May Tote Atom Missiles, Solon Says

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—Sen. Hill (D-Ala) said today "it won't be long" before American fighting planes are carrying atomic missiles.

Hill, a member of the Senate Military Appropriations Subcommittee, told a reporter he believes atomic warheads now have been reduced in size to the point where they can be used as "aerial artillery."

"This will make a great difference in tactical aviation and may change a great deal of military thinking," the Alabama Senator declared.

An advocate of a swift buildup in long range striking power of the U. S. Air Force, Hill said he will urge the Joint Chiefs of Staff and Robert Lovett, acting secretary of defense, to reach early agreement on an increase in air power.

The Joint Chiefs and Lovett are scheduled to discuss military appropriations with the subcommittee tomorrow and Hill predicted they will be faced with a demand for an immediate increase in air funds.

As approved by the House, the $56,000,000,000 military money bill provides $19,854,000,000 for the Air Force, $20,125,000,000 for the Army and $15,552,000,000 for the Navy.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC) already has offered an amendment to increase the Air Force total by $5,000,000,000.

Cumberland Building Permits Again Lag

Building permit costs for the month of July in Cumberland dropped over 60 per cent below costs for the same month last year, figures compiled by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reveal.

Cumberland permits ttaled $24,945 last July, far below the $75,075 figure compiled in July, 1950. The figure also was the lowest posted in Maryland's Fifth Federal Reserve District.

During the first seventh months of 1951 Cumberland permits have totaled $459,230, lagging very much behind other cities in development of the district. The report indicates Frederick spent $1,348,585 for building construction during the same seven months period; Hagerstown spent $1,083,280; and Salisbury $1,186,869.

Cumberland's seven-months total for 1951 also dropped $257,585 below the same period of 1950 which saw $716,816 spent here for construction.

Price Of Milk Increases Today

The price of milk will take a jump of one cent a quart in the Cumberland area today. John D. Liebau, manager of the Queen City Cooperative Dairy Inc., said the increase of pasteurized milk to 22 cents a quart is due to competitive prices now in effect in the Pittsburgh, Johnstown, Altoona, Pa. area.

In compliance with Office of Price Stabilization regulations the increase will affect consumers of the Cumberland area, adjacent West Virginia communities and the George's Creek region.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Are you "your own worst enemy"?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Karen Horney in her latest book, "Neurosis and Human Growth: The Struggle Toward Self-Realization." It is "pressures" from within your own mind that alienate you from your real self and make you ill and unhappy. These include the many varients of the neurotic pattern like the quest of glory, the "tyranny of the should" (morbid conscientiousness), neurotic pride, or at the other extreme, self-hate and self-contempt. But it is no less true that you have within yourself the forces which, if "liberated," can bring inner harmony and outward achievement.

Should you put an overweight child on a diet?

Answer: No, says Dr. Wilfred C. Hulse, chief psychiatrist of the Department of Welfare Children's Center, New York City. A child who is overweight is probably using his "sweet tooth" to console himself for feeling he is not wanted or accepted. He says to himself, "They don't like me anyway, so I might as well eat," and then, "They don't like me because I am fat." To be deprived of his consolation is just one more proof that his parents do not love him, and may normalize his weight at the cost of more serious emotional disturbance. It's his feelings, not his eating habits, that need understanding and help.

Should sick people fear narcotics?

Answer: Not to the extent of feeling that if you allow your doctor to give you a morphine injection you risk becoming a "dope fiend." It is not belittling the horrors of addiction to say that narcotics seem to involve little temptation for the average, reasonably healthy-minded person. A good rule, of course, is not to try to decide for yourself when you need the relief which opiates offer, but accept it only when your doctor says you need it. The real tragedy of the teen-ager (or the older person) who turns to narcotics for a "thrill" is the lack of normal emotional satisfactions which makes such a course appeal to him.

U. S. Citizens Jailed By Reds

The Czechoslovakian government has notified the U. S. State Department that an American official will be authorized to visit John Hvasta, 24-year-old Czech-American arrested for espionage in Brataslava in 1948. The meeting—the first between Hvasta and an American government officer since February 23, 1950—is to take place "on or about August 22."

Rep. Rodino (R., N. J.) has introduced a resolution calling upon the executive agencies to take every possible step for Hvasta's release. The resolution would also convey to the United Nations and the Czech government American indignation at the arrest, "sham trial," and imprisonment of Hvasta. A similar resolution on behalf of William Oatis, American newspaperman convicted by a Czech court of espionage, was adopted by the House August 14 and early action by the Senate is expected.

Hvasta, a State Department employe at the time of his arrest, was given a secret trial seven months thereafter. Washington was informed in June, 1949, that Hvasta had been found guilty of espionage and sentenced to three years imprisonment. After an appeal—again heard in secret—Hvasta's sentence was extended to 10 years.

Born in Czechoslovakia in 1927, Hvasta achieved United States citizenship as a minor when his mother was naturalized in 1944. In the formal charges against him, Hvasta has been identified by the Czechs as a Czech citizen. However, the Czech government has not questioned the right of the American State Department to intercede in his behalf.

Although Hvasta had served in the U. S. Navy and had entered Czechoslovakia after World War II as a student under the GI Bill of Rights, his case is different from that of Oatis because under Czech law he is also a citizen of his native country. The Czech government has refused to allow six other persons with claims to American nationality—but who have long resided in Czachoslovakia—to leave the country.

The whole problem of dual nationality is complicated. The United States has always taken the position that foreign governments cannot rightfully assert claims to the allegiance of their nationals who have lawfully obtained naturalization in the United States. Under American law, "all naturalized citizens of the United States, while in foreign countries, are entitled to and shall receive from this government the same protection accorded to native-born citizens."

Since relations with Yugoslavia have bettered, the State Department has been able in the past year to obtain permission to leave that country for 250 persons who claim American nationality. In addition, 30 non-American relatives of those persons have been allowed to come to this country. The State Department in April, 1950, lifted a regulation—in effect since 1948—banning visits to Yugoslavia of American nationals of Yugoslav origin.

A Hague convention of 1930 provides that neither of two states of which an individual has nationality can undertake to protect him while he is in the territory of the other. The United States has never ratified the convention, nor has Yugoslavia or Czechoslovakia.

How Many Wings

In recent days the long-continued controversy over how large an Air Force the United States must build has taken a new turn. Rep. Carl Vinson, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has called for a rapid build-up to 138 combat wings plus 25 troop carrier wings for a total of 163. In addition he would like to see the Navy build three supercarriers, instead of one, capable of handling the heaviest and longest range bombers.

Representative Vinson's estimate of what the Air Force needs differs, by a fairly wide margin, from most of the others which have been advanced. Three years ago the Administration set a 55-wing goal while Congress insisted on an expansion to 70 wings. The Air Force now is moving from a strength of 87 wings to 95. A wing, incidentally, may range from 30 bombers to 75 fighters with their ground crews, supply and other supports.

The public is singularly helpless in trying to reach a decision in a controversy of this sort. It has in its possession incomplete facts and figures about potential enemy strength. It has, in general, only a vague understanding of the difference in striking potential between, say, 150 wings and 163. So when the experts, who have all these data and a wealth of secret, classified information besides, are in violent disagreement, how is the public to judge who is right and who is wrong?.

If there is imminent and real peril, there is only one yardstick which most non-experts feel qualified to apply, and that is one of cost. Granting that the nation needs the most powerful air force in the world, what is the cost of building and maintaining the various-sized air armadas which are being advocated? And can the nation afford to pay the price without wrecking the economy or stripping the Army and Navy below the margin of safety?

Cancan Reception

When 1,500 fighting Americans came home recently from the Korean War they were greeted by the cancan girs on the docks of Seattle. The wolf calls and delighted whistles of the men drowned the harbor noises. The cancan girls had just returned to the line at the dockside after a temporary discontinuance of the dance reception—because the returning soldiers wanted to see the sight. They had heard about it at the front lnes.

The cancan is described in the dictionary as a rollicking dance of French origin, with indecorus gestures. Those who have seen the cancan in Paris can testify that the gestures become quite indecorus. It depends upon the dancers and the locale.

In this country the cancan is the usual feature of so-called 1890 frolics and is hailed with considerable applause, but as for being naughty—well, it's not nearly half as naughty as some of the American-grown burlesque gyrations that are passed off as dances.

Actually, there's no harm in a cancan reception for men who have been in Korea. Certainly there's more zip to such a "hello" than in cliche-infested speeches. And psychologists might even wonder about a returning soldier who would be bored by the sight of a dancing line.

The cancan should be the least of anyone's worries about the men coming back home. There are many more serious problems awaiting the returning fighters —problems of adjustment, problems of health, and the individual problems of the future.

How To Keep Well

Nutrition Plus

Obesity is not common after the age of 65. Some might say it disappears with age but there is a good chance that the opposite is true. In other words, the corpulent individual disappears with age. The lesson to be learned is to take off that "tummy."

America is nutritious conscious and in recent years our national consumption of protective foods has increased considerably. These are the more staple products including meat, eggs, cheese, milk, cereals, fruits, and vegetables. It has been worth while and is showing results, especially in the younger generation. Our boys and girls are taller and healthier. Pregnancy is safer and infant mortality is at a low ebb. Much of this can be traced to our abundance of food and interest in eating properly.

However, there is one fault with having it so good. Many adults are eatig too much and as a result have become overweight. This has gone so far, authorities estimate, that between 25 and 30 per cent of our adult population in America is obese. This has two drawbacks that are hard to overcome. In the first place, a tremendous amount of food is wasted; the portly one eats not only for his body needs but to nourish the excess blubber. The calories required to sustain the superfluous poundage of three overweights probably would feed one other normal individual.

The second objection is that obesity lessens life expectancy and encourages degenerative diseases. Traditionally, the fat man is jolly and easy going but studies have shown that the incidence of high blood pressure and its complications is one and one-half times greater in the corpulent than in persons of normal weight. Statistics also have revealed that, in countries where the food intake is restricted to such an extent that weight loss occurs, there are fewer cases of hypertension and heart trouble. Hardening of the arteries and gout also are associated with excess poundage. Diabetes, too, falls into this category; after weight is taken off many victims improve and less insulin can be used. Even cancer is said to be more prevalent in obesity; perhaps additional food is needed to feed the cancer cells.

Eating is a complex problem. For low income families, it is a matter of choosing and using the foods available to them. By careful planning they are able to obtain the best diet possible with the money and resources at their disposal. Some in this group become overweight because fattening foods are cheaper and easier to prepare. When money is no object, overeating usually is responsible for overweight and the cause can be traced either to a better appetite or psychological needs.

The current trend in the treatment of obesity is to discourage hunger. This plan has become a fertile field for everyone concerned. It is amusing to note how many products have appeared upon the scene, varying from bouillon cubes to candy. Copywriters induce buying with such catchy sentences as "Take our product, eat all you want, and lose weight." The copy never states that while the normal appetite may be suppressed by such tidbits, the abnormal appetite remains unaffected. This is important because it is the obese and not the lean person who is being treated.

SUN AND MOLES

V. T. writes: Could excessive sunlight stimulate moles to become cancerous?

REPLY

I doubt it, but your guess, is as good as mine because we do not know why moles become malignant. Irritation and trauma encourage malignancy and it is conceivable that repeated sunburn will do the same. On the other hand, millions of persons with moles have been exposed to sunlight, yet in only a few has cancer developed.

BEER WITH DROPSY

J. M. writes: Can a person with dropsy drink moderate amounts of beer?

REPLY

No. Beer is a fluid and contains a small amount of salt. It would be difficult to exist without fluid and salt but there is no need for the dropsical individual to consume his entire quota of these substances in beer.

PAIN IN BIG TOE

M. D. writes: What causes pain in the large toe knuckles when I walk?

REPLY

Among the possibilities are bunion, arthritis including the gouty type, and arch disturbances.

BABY PUG

Mrs. K. writes: My 10-month-old infant beats herself to sleep every night. She keeps hitting herself in the face with her fists until she falls asleep exhausted. Do you think she is abnormal?

REPLY

No. This is a variation of head-banging, swaying, and rocking, and seems to satisfy some basic need for rhythm. In older children the practice may satisfy an emotional need. Your child must be related to Baby B-Bomb, which specializes in giving her attendants black eyes.

Berlin A City Of Vivid Contrast During Reds' Youth Rally; Many Supposedly Communistic Youngsters Don't Like Communism; Handouts Not Enough

(ED. NOTE—Drew Pearson is on another tour of Europe, studying conditions there during this period of world tension and crisis. Herewith is another of his cabled dispatches from Europe.)

BERLIN.—I have just spent an evening behind the iron curtain. It's not hard to do here in Berlin where no guards patrol the line between the Russian and American sectors and where, if you flash a White House press card and look reasonably important, you can attend even the most exclusive of the Communist youth shows.

Berlin tonight is a city of vivid dramatic contrast—miles of bunting and flags everywhere, flags of every nation but particularly and ironically the flags of peace. Sandwiched in beween almost every national flag is the blue and white emblem of peace. Standing out against the gaunt bomb-gutted ruins of Berlin, they made a genuine appeal to the tired population which never wants to see war again.

There were other contrasts. A Czech youth orchestra in immaculate blue and white uniforms played before the pillars of Berlin's bombed - out opera house. They played well and sang well. At one side stood shiny new Czech buses made in the Skoda Munitions Works. One thousand of these buses brought the Czech youth delegation to this year's rally and they now stood in contrast to the bomb-wrecked weary pillars of the old opera house.

Across from the Kaiser's once-ornate palace which the Russians tore down and removed piece by piece, a great platform stood in front of the bomb-shattered museum. The inside was an empty shell but outside a Russian ballet, a girl in Georgian costume, and Finnish folk dancers all performed. It was Russia's youth exhibition and you had to admit it was good. Lighting, acoustics and staging were all perfect; the music excellent and the dancing supurb. I couldn't tell what the girl in the Georgian costume said when she sang a ballad dedicated to Stalin and I don't think many of the German Communists could, either. But they liked her voice and applauded just the same.

Above the museum, the stone horse given to Kaiser William by Czar Alexander II peered down at this modern-day Communist rally while, on the crowd's edge a group of young Communists peered eagerly at the convertible Ford Mercury in which I had been driven across the iron curtain. On their shirts was written "activist," meaning their job was to whip up and activate enthusiasm among other party members. But they seemed much more enthusiastic about the modern motor production of the West than in communism.

Reds' Youth Rally No Flop

To read the headlines in American newspapers you got the impression that the Berlin youth rally was a flop. It wasn't. No rally which brings 2,000,000 youngsters together from all parts of the world is a flop and it's no use kidding ourselves.

The State Department, with a meagre budget, did a miraculous job of attracting a quarter of a million German youths into the Western sector, giving them food, literature and a sight of the vastly better living standards on our side of the iron curtain. But when the rally was only half over, orders came to close up certain youth depots. The food was costing $12 per day at one center and the State Department's budget was exhausted. Congressmen Taber of New York, Clevenger of Ohio and other economizers had pinched too many pennies and a great opportunity was thus snuffed out.

However, three-quarters of a million other youngsters never entered West Berlin. They braved the straw spread out in schoolrooms for them at night, put up with the poor Communist food and attended ballyhoo programs, all for the sake of Communism. And a score of 75 per cent against 25 per cent means that eventually democracy loses out to communism.

"Ami, Go Home!"

If you arrived early enough and flashed a White House press card, a U. S. military pass or even a District of Columbia police pass, an American could get into the most popular and packed performance of all—the North Korean. Seeing the Korean show gave some idea of the propaganda barrage this youth congress was subjected to. The highlight of their performance was a dance operetta in which a Korean mother, her child killed by Americans, is the heroine. The scene which really brought down the house was that in which she throws three grenades into an American camp. Three Americans then tear her clothes half off and take turns beating her while she takes from her blouse the flag of the peoples republic. Then, just as the Americans tie her to a tree preparing to shoot her, a shot rings out and Korean guerrillas come to her rescue. The heroine then shoots an American officer at point-blank range.

At this point, the audience goes wild; there is 20 minutes of applause; the Korean actors get curtain call after curtain call and Russian ladies rush up to embrace the embarrassed but happy Korean orchestra leader. The audience then leaves, chanting "Ami, Go Home!"—the slogan of derision for Americans thrown at us from the Adriatic to the Baltic.

This is a sample of the propaganda drilled in on the youths at the rally and there's no use in kidding ourselves about its effect.

Selling Ideas Is Important

I sat in one youth center in West Berlin talking to three boys from Saxony—one a carpenter's apprentice, one a locksmith's apprentice, and the third out of work. They sat in the George C. Marshall Building, in one end of which was a soup kitchen while in the center a toy edition of the Santa Fe Railway's "Chief" glided under bridges and over mountains in a huge electric-train exhibit.

Just outside stood "the European trains"—a beautifully built combination of the friendship and freedom trains, showing the importance of uniting Europe. A long line of supposedly Communist youngsters from East Berlin stood waiting to pass through, but the boys I talked to had already seen this impressive train.

As we talked of communism—which they didn't like—I asked what they thought of a United States of Europe.

"That's what we've got to have" said the carpenters' apprentice, banging his fist on the table. "We've got to be united, just as that train says. That's the way to lick communism and the way to lick war."

That remark to me pointed up the chief mistake we are making

Working Hours

By ROGER W. BABSON

GLOUCESTER, Mass., August 19 —I was asked by a Boston friend to help him find a cottage in Gloucester which he could rent for the summer. On the following Saturday, we visited three real estate offices and all were closed. They were locked and bolted!

Why Merchants Lack Customers

Upon inquiring the reason, I learned that, in view of the recent raise in wages and the 40-hour week law, the real estate and insurance offices tried to "make both ends meet" by closing on Saturdays. This resulted in enabling the office clerks to have more time to themselves; but let us look at the result to the other parties involved.

This closing of the real estate office prevented my friend from renting a cottage because he could come down to look at cottages only during a weekend. The next two weekends were cold and rainy. This caused him to give up renting any cottage this season. I find this caused a loss of work to several different trades needed to be employed for opening up vacant cottages.

Why Living Costs Are High

Whether our sympathies are with these office employers or the clerks, the fact is that everyone involved loses by such nonsense. The clerks have no more money to take home; the real estate offices lose commissions; the cottage owners lose rents and the merchants lose customers. Higher wages may be deserved; but they should not be followed by shorter or fewer working hours which result in less business and higher prices. Certainly, this inflation balloon is bound to collapse sometime.

The plan of keeping an office or store open fewer hours in order to keep costs down is bad for the nation as a whole. Merchants are the bottleneck of business. The fewer hours an office or store is open, the less it sells; the less it sells, the less it buys from the factories. As retail sales decline, the factories are obligated to layoff employes. This unemployment results in less purchasing power and so the trouble increases. Working fewer hours may easily be a cause of the next business depression.

If prosperity is to continue more sales and more production are essential. This requires more work by all of us. "Money-wages" mean nothing until we turn them into "goods". What we can get for our weekly pay, in food, clothing and shelter are our real wages. This can be increased only through increased sales and increased production which requires longer hours, better work and more new inventions. Wageworkers have more goods today because of inventors and laboratories—not due to labor leaders and politicians.

Shall we destroy unions? No! Shall we abolish collective bargaining? No! Shall we enact anti-labor legislation? No! Consumers want satisfied labor with the highest real wages possible. But both employers and wageworkers must cooperate to increase sales and production and the quality of the products. This could be brought about by all agreeing on a wage that "the average" is worth and then pay a bonus for good work and more of it. Incentive pay is the consumer's only hope; and the wageworkers make up 80 per cent of the consumers.

What About Strikes?

Then finished costs would go down, causing lower prices to benefit consumers; while both real wages and real profits would increase likewise. But strikes which are costly to all parties must also be discouraged. It would greatly help in reducing strikes by inserting a clause in every labor contract that neither the labor officials nor the company officials could get any pay while a strike is on! This simple clause would do much to help out us consumers.

Another thought: Returning to my reference to the cottage. The owner of the vacant cottage had some idle money which he had planned to use in building another cottage next door. The fact, however, that he failed to rent his present vacant cottage caused him to give up buliding the new cottage. This will result in a loss to 27 different industries, from the woodsmen who cut lumber to the electricians, plumbers and painters. Yes, even the City of Gloucester loses one more cottage to tax while the new summer resident would lose a vacation making him more efficient all next year.

Money For Culture

Every once in a while, I come across a program on the radio from Europe that is paid for with the American taxpayers' money. Marshall Plan money, UNESCO money, I suppose Point IV money and now Ford Foundation money (not from the taxpayers), goes to preserve European and Asiatic culture.

If the American people like to spend their money that way and permit Congress to appropriate it to save European and Asiatic culture, particularly music, that is certainly a better way than sending Howard Fast's books to Europe as representative of American literature or sending Orson Welles to South America as an example of our best. This sort of thing cost the taxpayer plenty of money in the years of our alliance with Joe Stalin and of the so-called good neighbor policy.

However, if we are going in for culture all over the world, why do we put a tax on culture at home? The Metropolitan Opera Association occasionally puts forth a mild bleat that if opera is not relieved of taxation, it will close down. Actually, in the United States there are few active and constant opera companies, the Metropolitan being the most important.

Now, if Americans dislike opera and prefer juke-boxes, that is their business, but on the radio, the Metropolitan program of the Texas Company is a great success; such a program of heavy and light opera as the Chicago Tribune provides on Saturday nights is notable, and the audition programs attract attention. In fact, many radio listeners prefer good music to the murders which have recently become a sponsors' delight as a way to keep off controversial subjects.

That opera, which is a non-profit enterprise, should be taxed when churches and schools are not taxed, is characteristic of the intellect of law makers, who lack an understanding of the breadth and fullness of human culture. Certainly it takes no sense to tax American opera and at the same time to subsidize European opera and symphony orchestras. If we are going to spend money on music, why not start at home? Or if we dislike music so much that we must tax it, why subsidize it in Europe?

The top American symphony orchestras face the same problem. The rich tycoons and dowagers who used to make up the deficits are no longer rich, and the parvenues who have discovered windfalls in war and the new deal have no appreciation of music. The result is that the Philharmonic in New York is always in financial difficulties, and even the "Boston" survives because of its profits at Tanglewood to which thousands flock to listen to good music admirably played.

Tanglewood raises a special problem. It is a unique atmosphere in the Berkshires, where in spite of shameful roads and difficult access, an audience that has reached close to 20,000 at times, comes from all parts of the United States.

But the orchestral part of Tanglewood is not the story. It is the school that Serge Koussevitzky founded and nurtured where half the students are on scholarships, that is really important. And although the school is only about 10 years old, more or less, as we say up here, it has already produced a galaxy of American musicians of fine calibre.

That school has a spirit, a faith that is rarely to be found in such places and much of it was due to Koussevitzky's love of young people, of whom he never tired. He created a young people's atmosphere at Tanglewood, so that even those who came only to be seen were subdued by these talented youngsters into worshipful silence.

And now that Koussevitzky is dead, what will become of the school and its scholarships and its inspiration? This year, things have gone well at Tanglewood in the sense that the group that had worked with Koussevitzky continued, and Charles Munch cooperated with characteristic French wit.

Certainly it is as important to keep the school at Tanlewood alive as it is to keep European and Asiatic schools alive. I am not denying the virtue of the latter when I ask for fitting consideration for our own.

There are those who are tone deaf or who prefer "Old Smokey," which is delightful, to Beethoven's Missa Solemnis, which is also thought provoking. But the history of man is garnished by music of each people's own devising. America is producing music, beyond the hurdy-gurdy stage, in the American idiom. Surely a work of love should not be taxed.

Matter Of Fact

WASHINGTON

Behind the scenes, responsible officials are a great deal more worried by the Soviet decision to attend the Japanese peace treaty conference at San Francisco than they are admitting publicly. They expect Andrei Gromyko to arrive in San Francisco with the familiar olive branch in one hand and the familiar bludgeon in the other. And they fear that this time the Kremlin might actually succeed in using the olive branch and the bludgeon to isolate the United States from its allies.

On one point there is no doubt at all. The Kremlin will go to very great lengths to prevent Japanese rearmament, which is implicit in the treaty ably negotiated by Republican foreign policy adviser John Foster Dulles. Direct Soviet action is not, indeed, ruled out.

The Kremlin has the capability of landing a small army of Communist-indoctrinated former Japanese prisoners, organized into at least two divisions, on the undefended Japanese island, Hokkaido. While this "liberation" army was landing, the Japanese Communists might be ordered by the Kremlin to go over to open revolt in southern Japan, now very lightly held by American troops.

Yet this sort of operation would require Soviet air and naval support. And whatever false whiskers the Soviet forces might wear, this would almost certainly bring on an unlimited third World War. Therefore it is considered much more probable that the Kremlin will adopt some such indirect course as the following:

Bludgeon Coming Up

The Korean cease-fire talks will be kept just this side of breakdown. Gromyko will arrive in San Francisco talking sweet reason, saying that the Korean War can still be settled on an acceptable basis, despite the extravagant demands of the Americans. Moreover, the great problems of Asia, like the future of Formosa and the recognition of Communist China, can also settled —if only the signing of the Japanese peace treaty is postponed.

Having disposed of the olive branch, he will then show the bludgeon. The Japanese peace treaty "will not be tolerated" by Russia or China—this the Kremlin has already said. The Soviets and their Chinese allies "will not sit idly by" while "imperialist" Japan is rearmed by "imperialist" America. The Sino-Soviet alliance provides for just such an eventuality. Finally, Gromyko will make it clear that a settlement of the Korean War is not to be expected on the heels of the signing of an "illegal and aggressive" Japanese peace treaty. In brief, the Kremlin's bludgeon will be the specter of a third World War.

If Gromyko does adopt some such course — and it will surprise the best-informed officials if he does not—this country will be placed in a really dangerous position. The Japanese peace treaty is already being denounced, and not only in the Kremlin, as a "white man's treaty." There is very grave doubt that independent Asiatic states like India, Burma and Indonesia can be persuaded to sign it.

Allies Not Enthusiastic

What is more, our Western allies, Britain and France in particular, are anything but enthusiastic about the treaty. The British particularly would be far from pained if Communist China were admitted to the United Nations, and the Formosa question settled in Communist China's favor. An end to the Korean War on reasonable terms, in return for a commitment to discuss such matters and to postpone the Japanese peace treaty, might seem a very tempting package deal to the British and others. This is so particularly if the alternative seemed to be an extension of the Korean War, or some other Sino-Soviet countermove which would be likely to lead to World War.

Yet Dulles, with the full backing of the State and Defense Departments, is deeply convinced that a defensible, sovereign Japan is absolutely essential if the Asiatic balance of power is to be restored. He is equally convinced that the treaty must be signed without delay. Otherwise the Japanese will conclude that the Kremlin is really calling the tune in Asia, and a great rush for the Soviet bandwagon will begin in Japan.

For these reasons, "we'll sign the treaty alone, if necessary," as or official has said. But there is no underestimating the dangers involved. Because of the fear of war, and because there is no real unity on Asiatic policy among the Western partners, the Kremlin may well have the best chance since the war to use the Japanese peace treaty issue to isolate the United States from its allies. The possibility of a sort of limited Sino-Soviet-American war in Asia, in which our Western allies would try to remain precariously neutral, has even been seriously considered. At any rate, it seems clear that a very great crisis may come to a head at San Francisco. As in the past, the best hope of dealing with it lies in standing firm.

University Seeks Better Broilers

Poor Feathering Being Studied

Because market quality of broilers is one of the chief factors which determines the success of the broiler grower, the University of Maryland started an experiment involving 8,000 birds to study some of the factors which affect poor feathering. Sixteen pens of 500 broilers each were started August 10 at the University's Broiler Experimental Station at Salisbury, Md.

Feathering differs among broilers of various strains and breeds. Nutrition and management may cause variations, too. According to Dr. G. F. Combs, professor of poultry nutrition, the effects of changes in the ration on feather quality of broilers will be studied in this trial.

This trial involves a study of the need for supplemental nicotinic acid and pantothenic acid in a practical-type ration in order to obtain well-feathered broilers at 10 weeks of age. The effect of replacing corn with 5 percent pulverized oats, 5 percent wheat standard middlings, or 5 percent pulverized oats and 5 percent wheat standard middlings will also be tested.

One group will also receive protamone (containing the hormone, thyroxine). Thyroxine is known to affect feather growth and may improve feather development during the summer months since the chicken normally secretes less thyroxine during hot weather.

Dr. Combs believes this trial will supply some important answers which will aid in the production of good-quality broilers.

in our battle against communism. In Berlin, Moscow was selling an idea—we were handing out soup and bread. In the rest of Europe, Moscow has been selling an idea—we've been handing out Marshall Plan money to build buildings, railroads and roads. These are important. But sometimes people will fight harder for an idea than for full stomachs.

What we could do very easily and where we have been missing the boat is to sell both an idea and bread—the idea of uniting Europe and preventing war. We've hinted at this from time to time but until we sell that constructive idea and sell it hard the Communists may be able to continue outselling us with their phony idea on a 75-to-25 ratio.

Peach Thinning Process Related

Fruit Specialist Gives Advantages

It's not to late to thin off any cull peaches or to thin off any peaches where the branches are too heavily loaded so that tree breakage is threatened. A. F. Vierheller, Extension fruit specialist from the University of Maryland points out that thinning of fruit is an attempt to balance the load so that the tree can nourish the fruits to best advantage. It requires about 30 leaves to develop a good peach. While it is best to thin early, it is never to late to thin.

Peaches grow to a certain size, early in the season, then they go through a stone-hardening period during which the fruit sizes only moderately. During the final two weeks before maturity, the peach goes into a "final swell", as it sizes rapidly.

Since the leaves of any plant are the digestive parts, thinning peaches so there is proper balance of leaves and fruits allows for more starches, sugars and other nutrients per fruit. Sugar make flavor and also build color so thinning causes better size, flavor and color.

"It may seem strange," Mr. Vierheller says, "but thinning usually does not reduce yields. There are less fruits but larger ones, so the yield may even be increased through thinning. Surely quality is improved."

Court Sustains Peddling Law

The so-called "Green River" ordinance, which prohibits door-to-door peddling by book agents, magazine salesmen and other peddlers was recently sustained by the United States Supreme Court.

The original ordinance, according to the August Newsletter of the Maryland Municipal League, has been adopted by more than four hundred cities and towns since 1931, it was first enacted by Green River, Wis. The recent court decision sustaining the ordinance involved an adaptation of it by the City of Alexandria, La.

In its decision, the Supreme Court stated, "Subscriptions may be made by anyone interested in receiving the magazine without the annoyance of house-to-house canvassing. We think these communities that have found these methods of sale obnoxious may control them by ordinance."

Porpoise Mistaken For Floating Body

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 19 (AP)—A call came into state police headquarters today:

There is a body floating just off North Beach Park.

An undertaker was called and officers joined him in hurrying to the scene.

The "body" was that of a porpoise.

But, said the people who called, it looked just like a man with a bald head.

The Old Second Guesser

By JOHN N. WHEELER

Good Manners And Drinking

Lord Northcliffe, the proprietor of many newspapers, invited me to his house to dinner when I was in London in 1919. We got to talking about the great experiment, prohibition, as the country was on the brink of it at that time.

John Wheeler

"I never saw a creative man worth his salt who was a teetotaler," remarked my host. "Can you name one?"

I fidgeted around nervously in my brain and finally came up with William Jennings Bryan who was scratched on the grounds he didn't fill the prescription. Of course, if I had been quick-witted, I could have nominated a neighbor who lived right down the street, George Bernard Shaw. So Northcliffe carried his point, although he later went on the water wagon himself, swallowing large doses of charged water and smoking big black cigars. He died in a couple of years, but maybe that had nothing to do with it.

My wife contends drinking does not improve anyone or light up a spark, casting sidelong glances at me as she discourses on the subject. I don't agree and name outstanding examples which she brushes off like she does most of my answers. We recently had a chance to observe boozing in summer resorts on a brief tour when we stopped for a couple of days at a dude ranch. There were 17 horses and about 50 customers, so while a few rode western saddles, most of the rest mounted bar stools. You should see some of the boys and girls in blue jeans and jodhpurs taking a 9 o'clock gallop in the hot sun with a hangover.

John L. Sullivan, the former heavyweight champion of the world, was a great and loud drinker. A friend of mine went into a saloon one night and was introduced to the champ. The man was smoking a 25 cent cigar, and suddenly he saw a big fist coming towards his face. He thought maybe John L. was going to practice on him until he reached down, pulled the heater from between my friend's lips and stuck it in his own mouth. Then he turned to him and said,

"I want you to know I wouldn't do that for every So And So." This was considered a compliment in those days.

Booth Tarkington, always a delightful gentleman, was quite a drinker in his youth and an amusing one. Many years before he died, he quit entirely and used to preach on the evils of alcohol to his friends. Hugh McNair Kahler, the editor, and I were reminiscing the other day about Tark and some of his pranks and strangely enough the funny ones always seemed to have occurred during the period when he was sipping cocktails. After he retired from the cafe circuit, he was introduced to a dignified gentleman one day and instead of shaking hands, the newcomer backed away.

"He explained to me afterwards," went on Mr. Kahler, "he had met Tark years ago and, as they shook hands, he dropped a lighted cigaret in his handkerchief pocket, and then poured a glass of beer on top of it to douse the threatened fire."

Lou Maxon, the advertising tycoon, gets more gallant and generous, if possible, when slightly stimulated. He wants to pick up all the checks in sight. We went to Europe together and met two young ladies on the ship, one very pretty and the other would never be mistaken for Elizabeth Taylor or Rita Hayworth. The night before we landed we sat up very late, as my companion wanted to see the coast of France when we called at Cherbourg. About 10 the next morning he was struggling to get dressed in our cabin and not feeling like doing road work or taking setting-up exercises.

"What are you doing?" I asked him from my bunk.

"Trying to shave without cutting my throat," he answered. "I made a date to meet that girl this morning in the smoking room—the ugly one."

"Why do you keep it?" I suggested. "You'll probably never see her again after we land."

"You're right," he answered, "but she's so damn homely, I don't want to offend her."

That's one for Emily Post's book.

Ever buy a car from this angle?

SURE, a trim new Buick makes a mighty pretty picture when you see it in your driveway, or watch it wheel by.

But if you could get a mechanic's-eye view of this big, broad beauty as it sits on a lift, you'd see an impressive picture of rugged brawn that makes good-to-look-at Buicks give such a good account of themselves on the road.

You'd see the full-length torque-tube drive that firms the whole power relay system, and steadies your going like a giant hand beneath you.

You'd see big sturdy wheels with really wide rims that provide surer footing, give better car control, make tires last longer.

You'd see all four wheels cushioned by stout coil springs that are completely service-free, practically breakproof—and a principal reason for the ever-level Buick ride.

But mainly, you'd see the massive foundation that backbones every Buick—the deep, wide, X-member frame that's rugged as a rock, and a brute for strength.

So when you look at the beauty of a Buick—the big mileage power of its valve-in-head Fireball Engine—and the moneysaving ability of its Dynaflow Drive*—don't overlook the tough stamina that goes with it all.

And don't overlook the fact that a new '51 Buick, with all its heft, costs less per pound than any other car of comparable size, structure and weight.

Better come see us first chance you get—and find out what a smart buy this is—from every angle.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.
Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on other Series.*

No other car provides all this!

Watch Out For Ray Guns

The rivalry between the Pepsi-Cola and Coca Cola companies, the Hatfields and McCoys of the merchandise mart, reached its zenith in the last couple of months. The Coca Cola people accidentally drew June at the Atlantic City convention of the American Medical Association. A normal birth televised in color for the first time over a closed circuit and was witnessed by 1,500 persons at the convention hall. The mother, Mrs James Gallagher while giving birth to a nine-pound, twelve ounce boy, sipped Coca Cola in three colors, a feat of inadvertent promotion almost equal to Anna Held's milk baths.

John Crosby

"How," I kept asking myself, tossing in my bed, "is Faye Emerson, the Pepsi girl, going to top this one?"

Well, she didn't top it exactly. But she matched it last week on her "Wonderful Town" show. The Wonderful Town of the week was, of all places, Atlanta, Ga., the home town, or more properly, the seat of the empire of the Coca Cola company. Miss Emerson rounded up some of the town's most conspicuous residents and alumni, Coca Cola tipplers all, and plied them with Pepsi Cola, an act of lese majeste almost as grave as shooting Princess Elizabeth. Never once was the name Coca Cola mentioned though everything else that came out of Atlanta was.

According to the way I score these corporate boxing matches, this one is a draw, though a bloody one. I think both of these big boys, Pepsi and Coca, better take a long rest before staging a rematch. I can't stand much more of this blood-letting.

As of today, Captain Video—the real Captain Video (Al Hodge) is on vacation. Just before he left, Captain Video slipped on a black hood but the man in the black hood this week, kiddies, is just an impersonator, not the real man at all. In other words, we're all in mortal danger until next Monday. As any fool knows, Captain Video has been protecting us earthlings from all manner of fiends from the other planets, boys who really play rough.

It was only a little while ago that Balgar, an arch-fiend from another planet, blew into town (which on this program designates the entire globe). He'd snap his fingers, this particular arch-fiend, and his victims would disintegrate. They didn't die; they turned into vapor which Balgar stuffed into bottles in case he wanted them back some time. If it hadn't been for Captain Video, who ended this medical malpractice in a hurry, we'd all be in bottles by now.

And now, with the world—and especially outer space—in the shape it's in, Video has to go off on vacation, leaving us all defenseless. Till next Monday, kids, keep a sharp eye peeled for arch-fiends. Hit the dirt when you see anything resembling a ray-gun. Watch out for strange space ships. You're on your own this week.

Well, just one more then, this one from my Stork Club collection which is one of the world's most fabulous — an expression I picked up somewhere.

"And now," said the announced, "here is the world's most fabulous host—Sherman Billingsley."

The world's most fabulous fell into discussion with an Army captain. "Ya wanna hear a funny story," said fabulous. "There was a boy killed in Italy and he was killed in the same town where his father was born."

Well, it is a funny story. I haven't laughed so hard since old Bargar was stuffing people into bottles.

HOLLYWOOD

(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, 9ug. 19 (INS) — It will be something, won't it, if John Agar gets a new lease on his career at the studio where his ex,—Shirley Temple, once reigned as queen bee?

Quietly, Agar tested Saturday at 20th Century-Fox for the lead opposite Mitzi Gaynor in "I Don't Care Girl," the Eva Tanguay story.

George Jessel, who wrote the story and will produce, tells me he is personally pulling for Agar.

"He's perfect for the part opposite Mitzi, our new zing girl," says Jessel, "I hope he gets it."

If 20th isn't hot in the bidding for "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" — how come luscious, blonde Marilyn Monroe is being sent to New York to see the way Carol Channing plays the dauntless dumbbell?

Yes, before Marilyn reports to RKO for "Clash By Night" she makes a special trip to the big town to see the Anita Loos-Joe Fields hit in action.

Physically, Marlyn fills the bill—but whether she is experienced enough to take on such a top comedy performance remains to be seen.

• — • — •

Zachary Scott, who's been around in his time, is acting like a fluttery Spanish duena over his 16-year-old daughter, Waverley's, first date.

Waverley is double-dating tomorrow night with her best girl friend, and Maureen O'Hara's two Irish brothers, Charles and James Fitzsimons.

After ten thousand words of advice and paternal orders — Zach made a reservation for the kids for the early show at Ciro's; ordered flowers for the table, instructed the captain about food and ginger-ale—and then decided to go along himself!

Rita Hayworth's dinner partner at Dolly Parker's party honoring Anthony Eden was Russell Nype.

Shimmering like a diamond in an ice-blue satin gown, Rita was gay, charming and beautiful at the first social affair she's attended since her return.

Young Nype did not escort her home. Rita arrived and departed alone.

Other beauties at the same party — Greer Garson, Deborah Kerr, Ethel Barrymore, Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Janet Gaynor and lovely Lorena Mayer.

Bob Topping off on a three weeks fishing trip in Oregon. To cool things off between him and Lana Turner?

Marlon Brando better jack up his sense of humor. There's a take-off on him in Gloria Swanson's new comedy, a character named Conde Marlo who wears sweat shirts and sneakers and talks like he had adenoids, just like our boy Marlon.

Stanley Kramer gunning for Bette Davis for "Ethan Frome." He bought it from Warners where it was originally intended for Bette.

Jerry Lewis' doctor told him to play golf because, "the only air you've inhaled in years is from night club ventilators."

A happy girl is Sophie Tucker, just named "outstanding woman citizen" of the year by the National Ladies Auxiliary, Jewish War Veterans of the United States. Last year's award went to Eleanor Roosevelt.

Another, jivin' with joy is Bob Clarke who has just found out he's in the "first ten" in film magazine's fan pool of the most popular newcomers. Bob clicked big in "Hard, Fast and Beautiful."

Blanche Ring, veteran musical star, is very ill in St. John's Hospital. She recently divorced Charles Winninger after a separation of 27 years.

Marjane, French singing star, seriously injured in an automobile accident just out of Quebec, is in a hospital there. She made a hit recently in her engagement at the Mocambo.

Fred Astaire, off to Kentucky to buy horses, after he finishes his MGM picture.

Johnny Meyer, of pick-up-the-check publicity, looks blue picking up checks all by his lonesome since his parting with Patti.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Why let ridged nails spoil your fingertip beauty? Some can be cured; others improved! Here's how.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

You have more control over the beauty at your fingertips than most women realize. Nail flaws are the easiest to mend. Even the ridged nail is preventable, curable, or disguisable. Does that surprise you? Well, just give a thought to these causes and remedies:

Ridges that run across the nail are usually caused by rough treatment and the ensuing bruises. If you have crosswise ridges, be more cautious in the way you use your hands; avoid blows and sharp encounters with your nails.

Smooth Fingertips

Be especially careful in your manicure techniques. Perhaps you should give up your regular cuticle shaping for a while. The wielding of orange sticks and similar tools can inflict damage readily, causing crosswise ridges that take months to grow out. You can control your cuticle very satisfactorily by soaking your hands in warm, sudsy water. Then push the cuticle back gently with a soft towel.

If your nails bear verticle ridges and always have, there's a good chance that you have inherited them along with your grandmother's pearls. Camouflage is the only course open to you. Try this artifice for miracle results:

During your weekly manicure, after you have removed polish and soaked and dried your hands, place a drop of hot olive oil on each nail. Let it remain on for fifteen minutes. Rinse and dry your hands again.

Camouflage Technique

Now, (be careful about this—easy does it!) using the smooth side of an emery board, gently rub it across the ridges from the top to the moon. Do not saw. At no time try to remove any more than the horny top of the ridges. Twice over lightly is enough each week. The slight ridging that is always sure to be left can be covered with a base and three thin coats of polish.

Should all your nails suddenly develop ridges, most likely it is an indication that your physical condition is not as good as it should be. Then, consult your doctor—with your nails free of polish for his scrutiny. You have signs of health as well as beauty at your finger tips.

Tomorrow: Nurturing a youthful-looking skin.

It's easy to run up a big auto repair bill these days. And it's good sense to protect yourself against accident costs with Hartford Collision Insurance. Let us explain this coverage to you and quote its cost for your car.

"The Authority on Authorities"

JACK NOT HIGH ENOUGH

SOME messages have to be hollered at the top of your voice in order to make your partner understand them. Stated more literally, some signals have to be made with the very highest card of its suit in your hand. It would appear as if a ten-spot would be high enough for practically all purposes. But in certain rare situations a jack is not adequate, and the queen should be used if it is available.

Dbl

That kind of bidding produced a doubled 4-Spades contract for South at most tables of a big duplicate game. In all of those cases West led the diamond K. But the result was not the same everywhere, though every East gave his partner a high-card signal on the opening trick. Some used the J and some the Q. Where the larger card was employed as a signal, the declarer was set two tricks. Where the lower honor was played, he went down only one.

Why such a difference?

Where the Q was played, West knew he could next underlead his A, which he did, leading the 8 to the second trick. East won with the J and shifted at once to the heart 3. The Q won that, then the A scored. That put South down one, and a later trick with the spade Q made it two.

When East put the J on the first trick, every West next scored his diamond A. On that East put the 3, completing a high-low, whereupon West then led the diamond 8. This brought East's Q and a ruff by South with the spade 4. The spade A and K were scored, the club Q led to the A, the diamond 7 ruffed by the spade 8 to clear that suit from everybody's hand, the club K and J scored, South discarding the heart 5, and the spade 9 was then led to West's Q. West now had nothing left but his heart A-Q-7, while South had the spade 10 and heart K-8. West therefore had to give South a trick with the K. It was a nice throw-in play.

How should South play for 4-Spades if the heart 10 is led to the A and the Q is returned?

Police To Quiz Two Boys, 11, In Truck Fire

Two 11-year-old boys have admitted setting afire a ton-and-a-half truck of the Community Baking Company and will be questioned Tuesday in the office of the state's attorney.

The truck, used to transport baked goods to Uniontown, Pa., was destroyed by the blaze Wednesday shortly before noon while parked in a lot alongside the bakery on Henderson Avenue.

Lieut. Edwin R. Lilya, head of the City Police Bureau, said both boys admitted their part in setting the blaze when questioned.

Bakery officials told Lieut. Lilya the truck had been refueled and parked in the lot awaiting the next trip to Uniontown Wednesday night. Heat from the sun caused the gasoline to expand and some of the fuel emitted from the tank, dripping on the running board.

The boys told Lieut. Lilya they placed some of the fuel in a plastic tube and tried to ignite it. When that failed, they dropped a lighted match on the running board and the fuel immediately caught fire. The boys said they fled on their bicycles and within a matter of minutes the entire truck was in flames.

Firemen from Engine Companies No. 1 and 4 extinguished the fire, with East Side firemen remaining at the scene for more than an hour. Bakery officials said the $5,000 truck was a complete loss.

Parents of the accused boys will also be required to appear before the state's attorney, Lieut. Lilya said.

Police are still investigating the theft of three boxes of candy from a storage shed in the rear of the Liberty Theatre on Thursday. Youngsters are believed responsible for the theft.

Released From Duty

Sgt. Harry G. Clingerman, 470 Goethe Street, has been released from active duty with the U. S. Army. He was ordered to service last October. Thirteen hundred enlisted reservists stationed at Fort George G. Meade, who were involuntarily ordered to active duty during the Korean conflict, will be released by the end of December.

Flynn Is Honored By Texas Chamber

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn has been selected as the only law enforcement officer in Maryland this year to receive the Mission, Texas, Chamber of Commerce Gold Seal of Progress Award for his outstanding work in Cumberland.

Thirty-nine other police chiefs throughout the United States, District of Columbia and Alaska also have been named recipients of the annual award.

All apparently were picked by survey, correspondence, newspaper articles and other methods without their knowledge.

Tribe Splits, Retains Lead By Half Game

Early Wynn Annexes Opener, 4-0; Chicago Takes Nightcap, 7-6

CHICAGO, Aug. 19 (AP) — The Chicago White Sox beat off a five-run Cleveland rally in the eighth to take a 7-6 nightcap victory today after the Indians had won the opener 4-0 behind Early Wynn's seven-hit pitching. The split left the Tribe a half game in front in American league.

The second contest kept the Comiskey Park crowd of 46,864 in their seats until the last. The Sox ran up a 7-1 lead by scoring five times in the seventh only to see the Indians count five runs in the eighth.

Starter Lou Kretlow and Randy Gumpert were belted out in the Indian uprising and it took Lefty Billy Pierce to check it and protect the Sox one-run lead.

Easter's 18th homer following a walk to Al Rosen touched off the Indians' five-run outburst in the eighth. Harry Simpson followed with a double, and that was all for Kretlow.

In the opener, the Tribe tallied three unearned runs in the second inning and Sam Chapman hit his fifth four-bagger of the campaign in the eighth.

Chico Carrasquel's bobble of Rosen's grounder set up the three-run outbreak that assured Wynn his 14th triumph against 11 defeats.

INDIANS' COACH — Marvin Bass (above) has been appointed head football coach at William and Mary College, succeeding R. N. (Rube) McCray, who resigned recently. Bass was a former line coach for McCray. Marvin was given a two-year contract. The Indians' new basketball coach is Lester Hooker, Jr., former W. & M. athlete. He succeeds Barney Wilson who resigned along with McCray.

New York Giants Chalk Up Eighth Consecutive Win

Bob Thomson's Homer Defeats Phillies, 5-4

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19 (AP) — Bobby Thomson's home run in the eighth inning with one on enabled the New York Giants to come from behind and defeat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5 to 4, today.

The victory was the second place Giants' ninth consecutive and the loss was the Phillies' eighth straight.

Richie Ashburn tripled with two on, then stole home in the fifth inning to give the Phillies their first three runs. Del Wilber's triple and starting hurler Jocko Thompson's single with two down in the sixth gave Philadelphia its other run. Box:

Murphy To Fight Maxim Wednesday

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — Joey Maxim of Cleveland defends his world light heavyweight title for the first time Wednesday night against Irish Bob Murphy of San Diego, Calif., in the top boxing match of the week.

The 15-round bout at Madison Square Garden is expected to draw at least 10,000 fans and a gate of $50,000. It will get the full radio and television treatment over CBS at 9:00 p. m. (EST).

Maxim, who won the championship by knocking out Freddie Mills in the 10th round at London, Jan. 24, 1950, put his title in the deep freeze for 16 months. In the meantime he ventured into the heavyweight division and absorbed a bad beating last May 30 at Chicago from Ezzard Charles.

Both men are 29 years old. Murphy is a rough and ready southpaw with a good knockout punch while Maxim depends more on speed and boxing skill for his edge.

Wins Golf Title

OAK HILL, W. Va., Aug. 19 (AP)—Amateur Ed M. Tutwiler, Jr., of Mt. Hope, slammed 36 holes in six under par today to win the annual State Open Golf Tournament by six strokes with a 72-hole total of 276.

FIGHT FANS visiting Greenwood Lake, N. Y., training camp, get double their money's worth as they see not one but two top ranking scrappers condition for forthcoming bouts. Skipping rope are Billy Graham (left), who meets Kid Gavilan for the welter title Aug. 29, and Irish Bob Murphy, who meets Joey Maxim in a light heavyweight championship duel Aug. 22. (International Soundphoto)

Lefty Warren Spahn Bags 15th Win, 13-4

BOSTON, Aug. 19 (AP) — Lefty Warren Spahn, aided by a 13 hit attack, pitched his 15th win and 18th complete game as the Boston Braves overwhelmed the Brooklyn Dodgers 13-4 before 13,713 fans today.

Willard Marshall with his tenth homer and two singles and Ebba St. Claire with three singles paced the attack that gave the Braves two big innings—five runs in the sixth and seven in the seventh.

Earl Torgeson contributed his 16th homer with two on to provide the blow that turned the game into a rout and finished Ralph Branca, Dodger starter and loser.

In the ninth Roy Campanella belted his 26th homer with Andy Pafko, who had singled, aboard. Box:

Lowly Pirates Top Cubs Twice

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19 (AP)—The last place Pittsburgh Pirates today swept a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs, coming from behind in the last two innings to take the nightcap 5-4 after righthander Don Carlsen pitched the Bucs to a 4-2 win in his major league debut in the opener.

Ralph Kiner connected for home run number 34 in the first game. Clyde McCullough's pinch hit single with two out in the ninth gave the Bucs the second game at the expense of John Klippstein who pitched brilliant ball until Pittsburgh rallied with three runs in the eighth. Bill Howerton's home run tied it up for the Pirates in the ninth. Box:

A's Give Yanks Worst Beating Of Season, 15-1

Philadelphia Scores Nine Runs In Seventh

NEW YORK, Aug. 19 (AP) — The lowly Philadelphia Athletics knocked the New York Yankees out of a first-place tie in the American League today with a 15-1 victory over the Yanks.

Morrie Martin stopped the New Yorkers with seven hits and the A's clinched the verdict with a nine-run seventh inning compiled on seven hits, two walks, a hit batter and two Yankee errors.

It was the worst trouncing of the season for the Yankees, and the nine runs scored against them in the seventh was the biggest inning against the New York club in many years.

Lefty Martin breezed to his eighth victory against four losses. He was scored on in the sixth inning when Jerry Coleman tapped a force-play grounder after the bases had become loaded with none out. Martin joined Mel Parnell, Boston southpaw, as the only pitchers to lick the Yanks three times.

Center fielder Dave Philley, who has been in a slump ever since the Athletics secured him in the early-season deal with Chicago, led the slaughter with five hits and a walk for a perfect day. Catcher Joe Astroth hit the only homer of the game, his first of the season. It came in the eighth inning off Frank Shea, third New York hurler, with a runner on. Box:

Manager Charley Doyle's Cumberland Merchants provided the big surprise in the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when they shook a 21-game losing streak by downing the Frostburg Demons in the Mountain City by the score of 6-3.

It was Cumberland's first win since May 27 when the locals defeated Keyser, 2-1.

The Merchants racked up 14 hits at the expense of John Frank. Lowe rapped four singles, Cooper two singles and a double and Ray Blackburn three base wallops. Danny Drew with three safeties and Urbas and Durbin with two apiece led the Demons at the plate.

Fielding highlights were a shoestring catch which Wolfe converted into a double play and a great throw by Ted Durbin that cut down a runner at the plate.

Carl Wilfong Wins 12th

Keyser stayed out in front in the close pennant race by swamping Lonaconing under a 29-hit barrage by the score of 28-2.

Carl Wilfong hurled the first seven innings and posted his 12th consecutive victory for the Firemen. He struck out eight. Earl Hess paced Keyser at bat with six hits in seven tries. Bob Hess and Barney Barnhouse were runners-up with four hits each. Wayne Raines of Keyser hit a grand slam homer in the first inning. He also hammered a triple and drove in a total of seven runs. Cameron accounted for three of 'Coney's eight hits.

Raines Beats Hyndman

Bobby Raines, Bruce High and American League pitching ace, made his league debut with Westvaco and hurled the Papermakers to a 3-1 win over the Hyndman Firemen at Hyndman, Pa. Bobby yielded three hits and fanned nine. Kiser, Hyndman hurler, struck out seven.

Peter Deremer had two scratch singles for Hyndman. The other blow came from the bat of Harry Minnicks. Only four balls were hit to the outfield on Raines, including Minnicks' single. Pattison, Woodson and Patrone had two hits apiece for Westvaco.

League president Carl Dicken last night announced that two postponed games will be played off this week. Hyndman plays 'Coney on Wednesday at 5 p. m. in Midland and 'Coney plays the Cumberland Merchants at Stitcher Field, Thursday at 5 p. m. Aussies Defeat U. S. Netmen In Doubles Tourney

Mulloy And Talbert, Patty, Trabert Lose

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 19 (INS)—America's Davis Cup hopes were dealt a stunning jolt today when a quartet of Australians beat our best in the semi-finals of the U. S. National Doubles Tennis Championship.

The top-ranked foreign duo of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor easily disposed of the would-be Davis cup tandem of Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, O., and Budge Patty of Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-1, 6-4.

And Australia's Don Candy and Mervyn Rose scored a tremendous and dramatic upset by beating the top-seeded American team of Gardnar Mulloy of Coral Gables, Fla., and Billy Talbert of New York, 6-4, 6-8, 20-18, 9-7.

It was a three hour marathon that required 78 games.

Sedgman and McGregor meet Candy and Rose tomorrow for the championship. It is the third All-Australian final in the tourney's history, the others being in 1939 and 1949.

Sedgman won the title last year when he teamed with John Bromwich. They beat Mulloy and Talbert.

The women's final tomorrow pits Doris Hart, Coral Gables, Fla., and Shirley Fry, Akron, O., the top-seeded team, against the second-ranked team of Nancy Chaffee of Ventura, Cal. and Pat Todd of La Jolla, Cal.

Miss Chaffee and Mrs. Todd won their semi-final match today, 6-3, 6-3, over England's Kay Tuckey and Jean Quertier.

The Rose-Candy thrilling triumph over the veteran American pair produced the longest set in the tournament since 1946 when Talbert and Mulloy won the fifth set and championship, 20-18 over Jack Guernsey and Don McNeill.

Talbert and Mulloy, four-time winners of the championship, were at set point six times, but the Aussies fought back in the face of apparent defeat. Mulloy, Candy, and Talbert were broken successively in the 35th, 36th and 37th games and Rose finally proved to be the set winner when he held service in the 38th game.

Character of License, name of applicant and for whom applied, the residence of applicant, location of place of business and owner of premises are as follows:

CLASS B — BEER AND WINE ON SALE

Applicant, Dennis Sylvester Broadwater; residence of applicant, 150 N. Mechanic St., Cumberland, Md.; for whom applied, Dennis Sylvester Broadwater; location of premises, RFD No. 5—Elda, Braddock Rd., Nr. Cumberland; owner of premises, Daisy D. Cromwell.

The expiration date of all licenses granted will be the 30th day of April next after issuance.

First publication of this notice is August 13, 1951.

JOSEPH E. BODEN,
Clerk of the Circuit Court for Allegany County

Adv.—N-Aug. 13-20

Law Offices of Paul M. Fletcher
111 Union Street
Cumberland, Maryland

Helen J. Martin, Plaintiff, vs. John C. Martin, Defendant, No. 22,180 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

The object of this suit is to procure a decree of divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII for the Plaintiff, Helen J. Martin, of Lonaconing, Allegany County, Maryland, against her husband, John C. Martin, Defendant, whose last known address was 1847 Covington Street, Baltimore, Maryland, and whose residence is unknown, two successive subpoenaes having been issued against the said John C. Martin and returned "Non Est" by the Sheriff of Baltimore City.

The bill states that on the 25th day of September, 1943, the said Helen J. Martin was married to John C. Martin, with whom she resided until November, 1949; that the said John C. Martin has declared his intention to live with her no longer and has abandoned her without any just cause or reason and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That the said Helen J. Martin and John C. Martin have had by said marriage four children who are still alive, viz: John E., born on the 16th day of January, 1944, Bonita G., born on the 26th day of January, 1945, Charles J., born on the 7th day of July, 1947, and Richard A., born on the 20th day of June, 1950, and that the said Helen J. Martin asks the guardianship and custody of the said infant child.

It is thereupon this 18th day of August, 1951, ordered by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County once each week for four (4) successive weeks before the 19th day of September, 1951, giving notice to the said John C. Martin, against whom two successive subpoenaes have been returned "Non Est," of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint and warning him to be and appear in this Court in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 5th day of October, 1951, to show cause, if any he may have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Buchanan Named Chairman Of Chest Campaign

Drive Scheduled For October 3-13

George L. Buchanan, Buckingham Road, vice president and general manager of Buchanan Lumber Company, will be chairman for the 1951-52 Cumberland Community Chest Campaign, Earl C. Robertson, president, announces.

Buchanan has been active in chest affairs for many years and was a past Advance Gifts chairman. He has also served as president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Office To Open

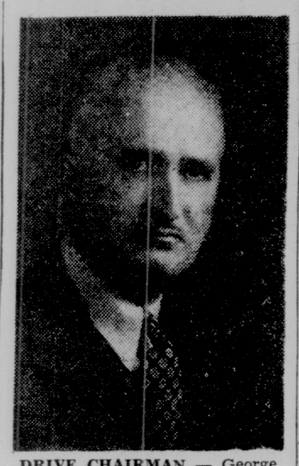
He will head the campaign, which will get underway October 3, to raise funds needed to operate the nine Red Feather agencies in Cumberland for the coming year. The drive will terminate October 13. Headquarters this year will be in the Union Street County Building and the office will open September 4.

Director for this year's campaign is H. M. Haylor, of Beaver Associates, who has served in that capacity for the past two years. Members of the budget committee met with representatives of the nine Red Feather agencies last week to review tentative budget figures for the coming year. A meeting of the budget committee is planned for this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at which time final approval of the 1951-52 total is expected.

Budget Group To Meet

Members of the budget committee headed by Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, include Mrs. Gerard Everstine, John F. Chisholm, Local 26, Rubber Workers Union (CIO); David T. Davis, Harry C. Landis, cashier, First National Bank, Clarence Lippel, attorney, George W. Lucas, president, Building Trades Council, Henry A. Mackey, and James F. Martin, Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO).

The nine Red Feather agencies included in the 1951-52 campaign are Associated Charities, Baby Welfare Society, Boy Scouts, Central YMCA, Girl Scouts, Jewish Welfare Society, Keating Memorial Day Nursery, Salvation Army and Travelers Aid Society.



DRIVE CHAIRMAN — George L. Buchanan has been named chairman for the 1951-52 Cumberland Community Chest Campaign. The drive will get underway October 3 and will terminate October 13. Headquarters will open September 4, at the Union Street County Building.

Union Security Vote Scheduled At Amcelle Plant

Local 1874 Plans Intensive Campaign

Members of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), will begin balloting tomorrow in a three-day union security election to be conducted by the National Labor Relations Board at the Amcelle plant.

A similar election held in August 1948, resulting in a 7,530 to 75 vote in favor of union security has been ruled invalid as top CIO officials failed to sign non-communist affidavits prior to the election.

Top national and local Textile Workers Union of America officials had, however, fully complied with the requirements.

Playford Aldridge, Local 1874 president, announced that labor board and union representatives will meet in the company's offices today to check the pay roll list of eligible voters. It has been agreed by all parties the eligibility period shall cover all production and maintenance employes on the company payroll for the week ending August 11.

Voting Places Named

Voting places will be located in the Main, CA and Textile Cafeterias on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. The Union Booth, located on the company parking lot at the main gate will be added as a voting place on Wednesday and Thursday.

Employes will vote on their own time during lunch periods at the cafeterias or at the Union Booth before or leaving work. The company and the union will have official observers assigned to the labor board agents during voting periods.

Voting hours at the cafeterias will be 1:30 to 4 a. m.; 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m.; and 5 to 8 p. m. on all three days. Hours at the union booth on Wednesday and Thursday will be 6:15 to 7:30 a. m.; 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. and 10:15 to 11:15 p. m.

It is expected that the vote counting will conclude during the early hours of Friday.

Local 1874 has under way a campaign to insure a large turn out of eligible voters. Aldridge declared "The union security clause of the contract negotiated with the company last week will not be valid until a favorable majority of Celanese employees have voted "yes" in the coming election.

"The unfair feature, aside from the fact that we won such a vote by more than 100 to one in 1948, is that the Taft-Hartley law demands a majority of all eligible voters must vote yes before we can win.

"Two thousand Celanese workers could vote yes without even one solitary vote being cast no and we would lose the election because the yes vote would not reach a majority of eligible voters."

Vice President Election

Another election will be held Wednesday and Thursday at Textile Hall, according to Charles E. Jones, Local 1874 election committee chairman.

In this contest a vice president will be selected to succeed John Fatkin, who resigned. Selected to run in a preliminary event last week are Howard "Red" Bush and Melvin Harris.

Voting at the union hall will be conducted Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. and Thursday from 10 a. m. to noon.

Ambulance Service Offered To Disabled

Ambulance service for disabled members will be provided by Local 1874, Textile Workers of American (CIO), in the union security election planned at the Amcelle plant tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

The local said it will provide ambulance service Wednesday and Thursday for any member who is disabled but is willing to be moved to the polls to cast a vote.

Transportation to and from the voting booths will be provided for members who are not scheduled to work on any of the three days of the NLRB poll.

School Will Open

SS. Peter and Paul High School and graded school will open September 5. A half-day session is planned for the opening day of the school term.

Court Ousted Church Group Holds Service

The Pentecostal Church group which has been banned by court order from worshipping in the Holiness Mission Church at Wiley Ford, W. Va., held its regular Sunday School at 10 a. m. and its evening worship at 7:45 o'clock in the Fire Hall yesterday.

Leonard M. Campbell, a local service station operator, is minister for the group.

To Continue Services

Mrs. Faith Campbell, wife of the pastor, said yesterday the Pentecostal worshippers hope to continue regular weekly services in the Fire Hall until such time as a new church can be built or another place for worship located.

The group is planning a constructive youth and adult program with emphasis on the founding of a new church building, she added.

The Pentecostal group had been worshipping in the Holiness Mission Church, Mrs. Campbell pointed out, after the church was started in Wiley Ford in 1941 as a community church with congregational form of government and the right of the majority of the worshippers to decide on its leadership.

Upon the resignation of Daniel Klavuhn, the first minister, in 1947 part of the original congregation left the church and part remained, Mrs. Campbell stated. Those remaining chose the Pentecostal faith, she remarked.

Recognizes Mortgage Payment

After a court injunction unlocked the doors of the church which had been barred by Klavuhn when he returned as minister in 1950 the fight between the two factions was taken to Mineral County Circuit Court, Keyser, W. Va.

Judge Ernest M. See then signed an order which restored the church and property to the jurisdiction of the Holiness Mission Church, recognizing the seven original trustees as custodians of the property. The court also recognized that the Pentecostal group had paid off an $1,100 mortgage during their tenure as members of the church, Mrs. Campbell noted.

Before the court action was taken the Pentecostal group held revival meetings in May and a vacation Bible School was conducted in June with an enrollment of 108 pupils.

Picardy Youth Held On Theft Charges

James Crabtree, Picardy, is being held in city jail on theft charges and will be given a hearing Tuesday or Wednesday. The sheriff's office also has a warrant for a parole violation by Crabtree, police added.

Trooper Jack Browning of the Maryland State Police said yesterday Crabtree is being held on charges of the theft of a sun visor and three hub caps, as well as the theft of two tires from a wrecked automobile owned by Stanley Cross, Hagerstown. Browning said the visor and hub caps were stolen on or about August 9 three quarters of a mile from Paw Paw, W. Va. The two tires were taken at the scene of a wreck near Gordon's Restaurant on Oldtown Road June 23, Browning added.

New FFA Judging Contest Added To Fair Events

Weeklong Exposition Commences Today

One of the new features in the weeklong 34th annual Cumberland Fair, which starts today, is a Garrett and Allegany County Future Farmers of America Judging Contest.

James H. House, supervisor of the Boys' FFA Department at the Fair this year, observed that for seven successive years Allegany County FFA boys competed in a livestock judging contest at Fairgo.

Garrett Included

This year it was decided to expand the contest to include youngsters from Garrett County too.

House believes that between 50 and 60 boys, representing all nine FFA chapters in the two counties, will take part in the contest. In Allegany County FFA chapters function at Flintstone, Oldtown, Fort Hill, Allegany and Beall High Schools. Garrett County has chapters at Grantsville, Friendsville, Accident and Oakland High Schools.

The judging contest will be an all-day affair Thursday, Auguest 23. A total of $110 in premiums is offered for winners in these contests. The Cumberland Fair Association offers $60 of this prize money and the other $50 comes from the State FFA Association.

A different vocational agriculture teacher will be the chairman of each of the five classes in the contest.

The chairmen are John Reckner, Oakland, sheep; Marvin Callis, Accident, beef; Virgil Lough, Friendsville, swine; Merle Garletts, Grantsville, dairy cattle, and House, poultry.

Begins at 10

The livestock judging — sheep, beef and swine—will begin at 10 a. m. Thursday. At 1 p. m. the dairy cattle and poultry judging contests will begin.

Official judges for the contest will be Martin E. Gannon, extension specialist in animal husbandry at the University of Maryland, livestock; J. W. Pou, head of the Dairy Husbandry Department, University of Maryland, dairy cattle, and C. A. Smith, this city, manager and show secretary of the fair's Pultry, Pigeon and Pet Stock Department, poultry.

All livestock to be judged by the boys will be selected from any the general entries at the fair.

Chief responsibility for preparations for the annual fair here rests with the officers and directors of the Cumberland Fair Association. Officers include Harry E. Flook, general manager; Tasker G. Lowndes, president; J. Glenn Beall, vice-president; John Schwarzenbach, treasurer; Carl Schmutz, corresponding secretary, and Frank A. Wolfhope. All also are directors. Other directors include Earl C. Robertson, F. Brooke Whiting, Charles Jeffries, R. F. McHenry, Albert O'Neal, Harry J. Barton, Clifton W. White, Oliver H. Bruce, Ja., nd William Winterberg.

Hi-Y Training Camp Planned

The fifth annual Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y officers' training camp will get underway at Pleasant Valley Camp near Grantsville the weekend of Sept. 7-9, Winfield H. Adam, secretary of Central YMCA, announced.

This intensive training program is planned to develop more able officers and better Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs, Adam said, and is part of the Cumberland Central YMCA's youth curriculum.

All officers of the Cumberland, Hagerstown and Martinsburg, W. Va., Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs are eligible to attend the three-day affair, Adam continued, with advisors of the organizations also invited.

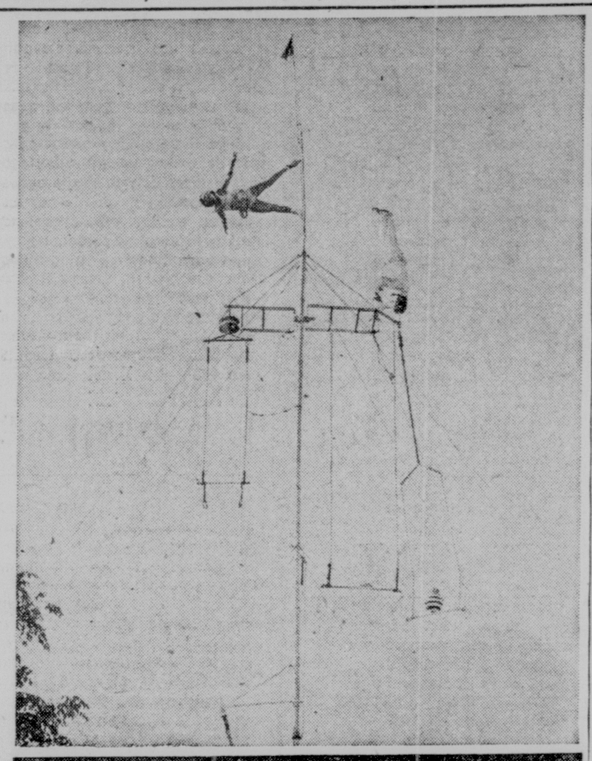
The training camp's program will consist of officer training discussions, model club meetings, demonstrations of good activities, fellowship with other club officers, co-ed activities, recreation, swimming, hiking, council fires and other outdoor studies.

The conference leader will be Ralph L. Lewis, new program secretary of the Central YMCA, and he will be assisted by Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, rector of the Mt. Savage Episcopal Church, and Mrs. M. Carolyn Dunlap, advisor of the Fort Hill High School Tri-Hi-Y.

News In Brief

The Cumberland Outdoor Club will meet this evening at 9 o'clock in the club room, Baltimore Street. Following the meeting two movies on railroading will be shown.

LaVale Volunteer firemen yesterday answered a call about 3 o'clock near the police station. An automobile motor caught fire but little damage was reported by firemen.



PARADE OF STARS — Ali Ghan Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is sponsoring the Parade of Stars as its contribution to the Cumberland Fair which opens for one week at Fairgo today. The gala "Parade" includes numerous acts of entertainment for Fair attenders and will be held nightly on the stage in front of the grandstand. Two of the sensational acts which will appear as part of the Parade of Stars are Millette and Penny, a father and daughter aerialist team which performs on the high trapeze, and the La Foun Troupe, four accomplished acrobats and jugglers.

Today's Sermonette

Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord. 130th Psalm 1:1.

By REV. ALLEN B. L. FISHER

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Grace Methodist Church by the pastor, Rev. Allen B. L. Fisher. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

There are four divisions in this Psalm and each contains two verses. They may be named prayer, penitence, patience and peace.

Prayer

1. "Out of the depths have I cried unto thee, O Lord. Lord, hear my voice; let thine ears be attentive to the voice of my supplications."

Rev. Fisher

The prayer is drawn from the Psalmist's soul because he is down in the depths. Probably a great majority of real prayers have come up out of the depths. Perhaps that is one reason that there are depths to get into. The history of man and nations does not show that they lost their souls when in the depths but when on the heights. Be most prayerful in the depths. God hears from the depths. There is none too deep. God heard Dives even in Hell and called his "Son." "Who shall separate us from the love of God?" Paul exclaims, "I am persuaded that neither life nor death nor height nor depth shall separate us."

Penitence

2. "If thou, Lord, shouldest mark iniquities, O Lord who shall stand? But there is forgiveness with thee, that thou mayest be feared (worshipped)." The second division is most beautiful for it is the penitential division. I suppose that never is the human being so pleasing and so appealing in God's sight as when his heart is truly penitent. What an appeal there must have been to the heart of God when the penitent Psalmist, in longing hope, pleadingly said, "There is forgiveness with thee."

Patience

3 "I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait ,and in his word do I hope. My soul waiteth for the Lord more than they that watch for the morning: I say more than they that watch for the morning." The third division is the one of patience. How much we miss through lack of patience! The delightful and refreshing glades, the cool shadows and refreshing fountains of waters are all passed by in our haste and restlessness. God is not hurried and that wealth that is His shall become ours when we learn how to wait upon Him. "Be still," he says, "and know that I am God." "In returning and rest shall ye be saved. In quietness and confidence shall be your strength." It is the finest art of the human soul—waiting for God as they that watch for the morning. The marvelous love of God and His grace are not known by shoutings and tumult and violence, but by patience. "Wait I say on the Lord."

Peace

4. "Let Israel hope in the Lord; for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption. And He shall redeem Israel from all his iniquities." The peace of God is based upon hope. Hope is the very breath of life for God's children here. That hope is based upon the redemption, through our Lord Jesus Christ. "With the Lord there is mercy and there is redemption." Mercy and redemption! These two words explain the cross. May you know the eternal peace established by the Prince of Peace. Through Him may your hearts be kept in the peace of God that passeth understanding!

County Bar To Meet

The Allegany County Bar Association will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Law Library at Allegany County Court House.

Budget For 1951-52 Will Be Presented For Action Today

Action on a 1951-52 budget ordinance calling for a tax rate of $1.31 will be taken at a meeting of the Mayor and Council this morning.

Two of the five members of the city executive body declined to commit themselves when the budget calling for a four cent increase in the tax rate was presented Thursday morning.

Finance Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said he wanted more time to study the budget, item by item, to see if some more of the appropriations could be trimmed.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, also declined to make a commitment at that time, saying she felt the budget should be studied more thoroughly and added there was no need for an immediate decision since formal action was not planned until today.

The budget provides $1,025,842.26 for operating expenses and $236,717.74 for debt service for a total of $1,262,560.

Officials said the tax rate was kept down one cent, to $1.31, by dividing the rate into 94.75 cents for operating expenses and 36.25 cents for debt service.

Rubber Workers Seek Wage Boost At Kelly Plant

Request Reopening Of Wage Clause

Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastics Workers Union of America)CIO), has asked the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company to open negotiations for a wage increase at the local tire plant.

The action was announced by R. C. Burkhart, president, at a meeting of the union Saturday night.

The request for the opening of talks on a "substantial wage increase" was made under terms of a reopening clause in the two-year pact which will be effective until May 1, 1953.

The discussions may open early in September and will include some 1,900 hourly paid workers at the plant.

The average wage at the plant is about $1.62 an hour.

Visitors Utilize Deep Creek Lake Fishing Paradise

Approximately 9,000 anglers fished the mountain waters of Deep Creek Lake during the month of July the State Game and Inland Fish Commissioner revealed. An estimated 33,000 man hours were spent, with varying degrees of success, by fishermen who came from all parts of the state and neighboring territory. Fishery investigators of the commission reveal that four per cent of the fishermen were cottage residents and that 96 per cent came as visitors and guests.

The monthly Creel Census on Deep Creek Lake reveals only fair success and the reservoir dropped below the average of other Maryland fishing waters. It took the average fisherman 2½ hours to land one fish and he spent approximately 4.8 hours fishing on each trip.

Fishing success has been blamed on lack of stocking but it appears that at least 10 per cent of the fishermen caught half of the fish whereas the other half caught nothing which might infer that there is more need for a good missionary like Izaak Walton to assist more than half of the fishermen in the technique of successful angling.

Further proof of the State's argument that stocking is not entirely the answer or synonymous with good fishing is substantiated by information regarding fish in the creel. Thirty-nine per cent of the total catch were Black Crappie, 27 per cent Yellow Perch, eight per cent Smallmouth Black Bass of which 600 were keepers and 2,870 had to be returned and five per cent Largemouth Bass, 340 of which were keepers and 350 of which were returned.

Technicians point out that Smallmouth Black Bass are not stocked as adults although Largemouth Black Bass weighing over 1½ pounds have been stocked in Deep Creek Lake annually. The Largemouth fishery is not holding up compared to Smallmouth "natives." Therefore, considerable time should be given to this Smallmouth Bass program according to Maryland Inland Fishing Authorities. Other species caught were Sunfish, Rock Bass, Brown Bullheads, Channel Catfish and Golden Shiners.

Five Transactions Listed In Deeds

Five deeds, two involving large tracts of land, have been recorded in the office of the clerk of Circuit Court.

Largest consideration was involved in the sale of property on the east side of Allegany Street, near Paca Street, for about $14,000. Ida B. Brandler sold the property to Charles L. Collins and Hazel A. Lemon.

Henry H. Fazenbaker transferred ownership of some 414 acres of land along the east side of the county road leading from Lonaconing to Westernport to Charles T. Clise and Ruth B. Clise for about $12,000. This area is part of the tract called "Walbridge."

Joseph Edgar Dennison sold property to Fred M. Ruehl and Marion R. Ruehl on the west side of Auburn Avenue, near Fort Hill Avenue, for about $8,500. Lula Blanche Zembower and J. Reese Zembower sold two lots and improvements on the south side of Bedford Road, east of Cumberland, to Susan Pearl Dickens, for about $6,500. Eleanor E. Kerns transferred to Mary A. Schriver and Gertrude V. Schriver her ownership of 117 acres along Gorman Road in Election District 33.

Army Engineers Face House Group Quiz On Flood Control Projects

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee complained today that the Army Engineers have drastically underestimated the cost of civil works projects through inadequate planning.

It called for new procedures to give Congress more accurate data on flood control and rivers and harbors projects.

It also called for a restudy of projects now under construction.

Saturation Point Is Reached

The new procedures—principally up-to-date planning reports and revised cost estimates—will be effective next year when the Army Engineers come before the appropriations committee to justify their annual budget for "civil functions."

Reporting on an investigation of cost increases on 182 projects now being built, the committee said:

"Undoubtedly, some of the 182 projects would not be under construction today if Congress had had reliable information from the Corps of Engineers, developed by competent engineering planning."

The committee concluded also that the "saturation point for civil works projects has been reached, and no new projects should be undertaken until the current construction program is advanced to a considerable degree."

It said, however, that it would not foreclose early consideration of "any proposed projects involving urgent matters of grave import."

The committee said the 182 projects were estimated to cost $2,638,517,000 when Congress authorized them beginning in 1927. The same projects are now estimated to cost $5,912,451,000.

The committee did not hold the engineers responsible for price increases which have added $1,887,000,000 to original cost estimates or for authorized project extensions amounting to $576,814,000.

30.6 Per Cent Added

But, it said, some $800,000,000, or 30.6 per cent, has been added to original cost estimates because of engineering and economic miscalculations.

The committee itemized them as follows:

Inadequacies, defined as omissions in planning and estimating, $188,975,000.

Unforeseen conditions, $279,524,000.

Structural and engineering modifications, $206,194,000.

Changed local needs or situations, $134,515,000.

NEW TEACHER — John J. Mostowski, Olyphant, Pa., is the new agriculture teacher for Flintstone High School. A graduate of Pennsylvania State Teachers College, he was appointed by the Allegany County Board of Education last week.

University Plans Police School In September

Chief D. B. Wiseman To Direct Program

A police school is being planned at the University of Maryland this fall, Chief Daniel B. Wiseman of the University police announces all mayors and councilmen are urged to call the proposed school to the attention of their police departments in a newsletter from the Maryland Municipal League.

The school will consist of five classes of three hours each every other month from September through May of 1952 with certificates being issued at completion of the course.

The meetings will be held in the auditorium of the Agriculture Building and will convene at seven p. m. on the scheduled dates.

Under direction of Chief Wiseman, the details of the school will be arranged for by Dean Joseph M. Ray of the College of Special and Continuation Studies of the University.

The tentative program is as follows:

September 11, Traffic. Members of the Maryland State Police: Major Ruxton M. Ridgely, Cpl. J. A. McIsaac, TFC J. F. White. Members of the American Automobile Association. Claud R. McCamment, Richard Hartman. Lectures, visual instruction and motion pictures will be available.

November 13, Court Room Procedure. State's Attorney Carlyle Lancaster, Prince Georges County, Circuit Court Judge Dudley Diggs, Members of the Faculty of the University.

January 8, Reports and Files: Evidence. State Police: Captain G. E. Davidson, Lt. J. T. Knight. Members of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

March 11, Boys Clubs as Police Activity. Lt. William Hartung, Baltimore City Police Department. The Value Of Photography in Evidence. State Police: Sgt. P. B. Rowland. Members of the Prince Georges County Police.

May 13, Criminal Investigation and Interrogation. State Police Capt. G. E. Davidson, Sgt. J. J. Cassidy and Sgt. G. E. Newcomer.

The school is being presented by the University in cooperation with the State Police, the American Automobile Association, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Prince George's County Police Department and the State's Attorneys and Magistrates of Prince Georges County

Electrification Contest Again Open To 4-H

Adult 4-H Club received word from Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger that the County Rural Electrification Demonstration awards will be made again this year.

The announcement discloses that the Maryland Utilities Association is giving Maryland 4-H Club girls and boys an opportunity to win their way to 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland.

Awards are made for outstanding rural electrification developments in each county of the state. The 4-H contest allows for as many as 46 winners, two per county. The scholarships are for next year's 4-H Club Week at College Park.

Winners will be selected from 4-H Club demonstrations given during the summer and fall months this year.

Last year the county winners were Richard Fagan and Nelson Robinson of the Union Grove 4-H Club.

The adult leaders have received a list of contest rules. One emphasizes that to qualify for an award in any county there must be competition among at least three rural electrification demonstrations in the county.

Exchange Club To Hold Picnic Aug. 25

The Cumberland Exchange Club will hold its annual picnic at Ali Ghan Shrine Club on Saturday, August 25.

All members who plan to attend the event are urged to contact John M. Robb, chairman.

The regular Tuesday meetings of the club have been cancelled until September 4, it was announced yesterday.

Flood Conduit Construction To Cross Centre St.

Intersection Work To Begin Today

Construction of the pressure conduit through the intricate maze of cables and pipe line at the intersection of Frederick and Centre streets will get underway today the Corps of Army Engineers announced.

Flood work is progressing satisfactorily with only major construction at the Frederick Street and Greene Street sections remaining, they added.

Thomas Earle and Sons, subcontractors on the Frederick Street phase, reported they were ready to cross Centre Street at Frederick with the large pressure conduit which extends to Henderson Avenue.

The contractors hope to work on one side of Centre doing most of the digging and construction by hand, leaving the other half of the street for traffic. When the first section is completed it will be bridged for traffic and the second half will be started, they stated.

The excessive number of water, gas and sewer lines and telephone cables under the intersection plus the small area makes it impossible for the use of heavy machinery and most of the work must be done by hand labor, the engineers pointed out.

The conduit along Valley Street has been completed and the coffer dam on the north end of the street will be removed this week. Blacktopping of the street surface is also expected to be started immediately, they went on.

The removal of steel piling at the Baltimore and Ohio railroad on Williams Street will complete that portion of the work. The Lehigh Street-Walnut Alley conduit is fast approaching its junction with Greene Street and the crossing of the main West Side thoroughfare remains the large major portion of that construction work.

Work on the Henderson Avenue portion of the Frederick Street job is not expected to be started for some time yet, the engineers explained. That will probably be the final stage of the present phase of the flood project.

School Lunch Participation Hits Record

More than 8,600,000 children participated in the National school lunch program during the 1950-51 school year, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports. Participation established a new record, being 10 percent more than in 1949-50 and 42 percent more than the first year of operation (1946-47), according to Joseph H. Blandford, chairman of the Maryland Production and Marketing Administration State Committee.

The school lunch program is designed to improve the health and well-being of the Nation's children and to broaden the market for agricultural food commodities.

Out of a total of 1.4 billion lunches served during the year, 67 percent were complete lunches (Type A), compared with 64 percent the year before. The Type A meal must furnish at least one-third of a child's daily nutritional requirements and consist of a minimum of one-half pint of milk, two ounces of meat, poultry, fish or other protein-rich food, three-fourths cup of vegetables or fruit, and a serving of bread and butter or margarine.

The total cost of the program in 1950-51 was $350 million, of which $214 million was spent for food locally by participating schools under supervision of the state department of education.

The Production and Marketing Administration, which administers the program for the department, allocated more than $68 million directly to the states and territories. Federal funds averaged 4.9 cents per meal served, compared with 5.1 cents the previous year.

Allocations to the states are made on the basis of state per capita income and the number of children of school age, with participating schools being reimbursed for a part of the food costs on the basis of the number of meals served.

City Firemen Check Two Fires Yesterday

City firemen answered two calls yesterday. Central Fire Company extinguished an overheated refrigerator motor at the residence of C. L. Moyer, 624 North Centre Street, at 4:40 a. m. Firemen said the house was filled with smoke as a result of the fire.

Spontaneous combustion caused gasoline fumes to catch fire yesterday afternoon in an automobile owned by Donald Weber, 534 Eastern Avenue. South End firemen answered the call at 3:08 at Constitution Park. No damage was reported in either fire.

Weather

The beautiful summerish day yesterday was incentive for a refreshing swim, a picnic, or a stroll through the woods. The temperature was ideal for a siesta near a babbling brook. The high mercury reading reported by the weatherman at Constitution Park was 90, the low 55 and at 8 p. m. yesterday the thermometer stood at 77. Humidity registered yesterday was 39 per cent. The forecaster predicts some cloudiness today with little change in temperature. The high will be in the middle 80's.
